

WOMEN IN SPORTS

The first of the series of Army-Navy basketball games concluded with a coordinated Army sextet leading out the Navy cagers in a close, hard fight, 28-20.

Becky Walker, lanky Army forward, walked off with scoring honors by chalking up 19 points for the Army squad. Alice Burwell sank two baskets for four additional points, Estelle Brown added another three, and Helen Hooper scored the remaining two.

Mottie Haverstick, Dorcas Newcomer, Peggy Quick, Adele Levin, and Gloria MacKinley were Army guards and Elizabeth McGee played in the forward position. Gloria MacKinley played a nice, well-timed offensive game followed by Adele Levin who emerged from the fray sans two fingernails.

Navy points were a little more equalized and spread out among forwards. Olive Hooper led scorers with a net point score of eight followed by Mary A. Jennings who scored six points. Charlotte Spangler tallied four and Harriet Richards followed up with the remaining two.

Betty Wolfram, Dorothy Huck, Eleanor Wills, and Fran Angle playing in guard positions complete the team together with Forward Mary K. Hoppel.

Betty Wolfram played a rather smart game in her guard position followed by Eleanor Wills who played an unusually good offensive game.

The next Army-Navy game has been scheduled for Monday at 4 p. m., according to Mary G. Longnecker, WRA Intramural chairman. Five games will be played.

DM Table Tennis
Gamma Phi Beta bowed to Chi Omega as Alice Burwell downed Barbara Wells, 21-12, 21-10, and Fran Angle nosed out Mary Bowman 21-10, 21-7. In the doubles, Chi Omega defeated Gamma Phi Beta, 21-8, 21-15.

Jordan Hall's Mary Gundel beat Marcella Chervinak, Irvin Hall, in two straight games, 21-18, 21-11, Evelyn Gins, Jordan Hall, dropped the next two games to Irvin Hall's Sara Wills, 21-17, 21-16. With one on each side, the winner of the match was decided when Jordan came out over Irvin in the doubles, 23-21, 21-16.

The other Jordan Hall team barely nosed out a strong Theta duo when Becky Walker defeated Theta Vivian Martin in two games, 21-8, 21-16, although Martin copied the first game, 22-20. Theta Betty Shenk dropped two games to Marjorie Chon, 21-16, 21-14, and won one game, 21-15. The Thetas defeated Jordan Hallers in the doubles, 22-20, 21-19.

Carolyn Crooks, Ath West, tallied for the dorm unit by winning out over AOPI Mary Fransen in two straight games, 21-16, 21-17. Clara Roberts added to this defeat by knocking AOPI Mary K. Hoppel in two out of three games, 21-15, 21-9. Hoppel won the second game, 21-15. Ath West succeeded further in humbling the AOPI squad by climaxing the singles' defeats with a double's win, 21-15, 21-11.

Grange won by a default from Delta Gamma, and Delta Gamma won by the same from Alpha Chi O.

IM Schedule

Veteran Players Cast Presents Melodrama

Dirk Sneath, the accomplice villain.

"Love Rides the Rails or Will the Mail Train Run Tonight?" is a harrowing tale of the trials and tribulations of a happy little, railroad town and the misfortunes cast upon this group by the dastardly villains who try to spread evil where happiness bloomed.

Included in the melodrama is a cabaret scene in which a can-can chorus and specialty numbers will participate and add to the atmosphere of the turn of the century story.

Contrary to custom, the heroine rescues the hero as the plot unfolds.

We, The Women Coeds May Guard 'Heaven's Streets'

Letters, phone calls, and powerful oaths have issued forth from the Atherton "Hang on to your seats" campaign, but in a time when Red Cross drives, bandage rollings, and auxiliary service organizations are staring coeds in the face, those petty things hardly deserve a nod of recognition, we think.

Government officials have set up and described such organizations as the WAACs, and SPARS for interested College women. Just yesterday, the paper carried a story concerning a recent Wag enlistee.

Yet little has been mentioned about the Marine Reserves... a worthy women's group, minus a glamorous title but right in the limelight as far as working capacity is concerned.

To fill positions vacated in Marine administrative offices, women, at least 20 years old, may apply. Their work will parallel the jobs of other alphabetical organizations in another scope of the service. They will don green service outfits.

In order that interested coeds may obtain further information concerning the newly-created group, representatives of the governmental aide will arrive Monday to interview and examine College persons.

Actual swearing-in of those meeting qualifications will take place also, officials announced in an advance letter.

Coeds eager to investigate actual working opportunities offered by this fourth of the service organizations will find it valuable to visit the temporary headquarters in Old Main Monday.

It has been promised that when other service men "arrive at Heaven's scenes, they'll find the streets are guarded by the U. S. Marines."

Nice work if you could aid in it... and you can if you appear at those interviews next week.

up in the running. Favored above the Lions in the competition are Wisconsin and Syracuse.

Dave Hornstein, Penn State's rangy center, was named on West Virginia's all-opponent basketball five recently. The first-string pivot man scored 15 points against the Mountaineers in their tiff here at State College.

Only other State man to be cited was forward Larry Gent, who received honorable mention from the down-South pickers.

Bio-Chem Rats Act As Barometers, Dig Nests In Bad Weather

Rats have no need for government weather forecasts, according to Dr. N. B. Guarrant, biochemist at the College. Even the pampered strains kept in laboratories for experimental purposes are aware of the approach of storms, he and many other scientists have observed.

"Right here in our cages, old mamma rats having 60 generations of ancestors which lived their entire lives in confinement still scratch nests of litter around their little ones when bad weather threatens," Dr. Guarrant commented. These rats are kept in completely air-conditioned surroundings, they have no view of the outdoors although the laboratory is brightly lighted during the daytime, and most of them never have experienced any other environment.

"We do not have to watch them so closely now," he continued, "but in the old laboratory where we depended on natural ventilation, we always closed the windows in winter when the rats began making beds. Farmers and warehousemen often wonder what becomes of these animals during periods of sub-zero weather. No doubt rats seek warm, dry quarters a day or two before humans begin to look for galoshes and mittens."
