

Women's Dorms To Remain Open All Easter Vacation

Travel Conditions Head Reasons for New Ruling

All women's dormitories on campus will remain open during the Easter vacation, Charlotte E. Kelly, dean of women, announced yesterday. The dining commons also will continue to function at extra charge, Miss Ray added.

In previous years, dormitories have always closed during College vacations. This year, however, many coeds have expressed a desire to remain at College and to avoid the long and somewhat over-crowded conditions of the train and bus rides home.

Easter vacation, April 22-27, minus the two days it takes most students to travel home and back, doesn't present too long a stay at home. Traveling conditions as they are over any weekend, would be magnified over this holiday.

Mid-semester vacation, most students found buses and trains more crowded conditions even than at previous times. Then at the realization that another holiday would offer more of the same, coeds put in their requests, and the College authorities issued the ruling that women's dormitories would remain open and the dining commons would continue to function.

Alpha-Lambda Delta To Pledge Freshmen

Alpha Lambda Delta, women's freshman honorary, will hold its second pledging ceremony of the semester at the southwest lounge, Atherton Hall, from 6:30 p.m. to 7 o'clock tonight, according to Joan Piolet, president. Fall semester coeds who have received at least a 2.5 average will be pledged.

Freshmen who have received invitations to pledge are Marjorie Bilstein, Marjorie Blackwood, Helen Kennedy, Corra, Geraldine Dills, Mary-Jane Doerner, Carol R. Frigle, Jean A. Gedeon, Vivian F. Geywitz, Marilyn L. Globisch, Helen V. Hatton, Martha Jane Merr, Harriett Hewitt, Dorothy Jane Hoke, Elizabeth R. Hosterman, Vera J. Kalter, Lois B. McCool, Charlotte I. Martin, Nancy Ann Peck, Florence A. Porter, Suzanne Justyn Feed, Joan M. Scheaner, Janet V. Shaffer, Helen Doris Struminger, Marguerite Susanin, and Florence M. Zankel.

Initiation of both summer semester and fall semester freshmen will be held at the southeast lounge, Atherton Hall, at 6:30 p.m. next Wednesday.

Dry Dock-

Glee Club will sing several popular numbers.

Called back after making a big hit at last week's show, Janie Abramson will sing her newest song dedicated to Dry Dock, "The Dry Dock Boogie."

Also making return visits to Dry Dock by popular demand will be Walt Kazor, boogie-woogie pianist; Essie Campbell, vocalist, and Bill Cissel as master of ceremonies. Cissel will introduce the guest, "Minnie from Trinidad."

Star of the show, "Dry Dock," a small red Chow puppy belonging to Cissel, has disappeared. Anyone seeing the canine star should notify Cissel at once.

Another all-star show has been scheduled for April 17 at Rec Hall, Cissel stated. The largest night club show ever planned for Penn State audiences is under way, Cissel added.

30 CODETS Mark Time In Armory Backyard For First Time

Probably the only marching group without uniforms during this wartime program, the College's CODETS appeared on the drill ground behind the Armory for the first time yesterday.

Dressed in simple sweaters and skirts, approximately 30 coeds forward-marched, about-faced, and dressed-right to the tune of the commands of Lieut. George G. Lucas, proud class instructor.

The class, which makes one platoon, is divided into two squads. Coeds alternate as platoon and squad sergeants, thus learning the duties of the leaders.

Formed as a preparatory program for government woman reserve organizations, the CODETS, Coeds Organized for defense emergency training, became active with the initiation of two courses in the Fall semester.

Although the course expanded to include six classes for the current semester, it will decline to five for the Summer, according to Julia G. Brill, Liberal Arts vocational advisor.

CODET 4, the drill class, meets three hours a week and was formed primarily to instruct in the elementary calisthenics of military life.

Women In Sports

The single eliminations volleyball tournaments continued last night with Kappa Alpha Theta barely nosing out Alpha Epsilon Phi, 33-32. The Theta lineup included McClelland, Martin, Hussey, Higgins, Miller, Shenk, Shearer, Kunkle, Judge, and Christman.

Stern, Schwartz, Meisel, Moskowitz, Dodnoff, Bernstein, Wulf, and Korbe played for the AEPHs. Ath West walloped Alpha Chi Omega, 52-20, in the second match of the evening. Ath West players included Devling, Moore, Cookerly, P. Northrup, Radle, Lans, Rosert, Weisburg, and McKinley. Lindenmuth, Wolfram, Wright, E. Brown, Ramsey, Gilbert, Longenecker, and Wagner played for the Alpha ChiOs.

The final match featured Ath West's downing of Phi Mu, 44-22. Ath West players were McGee, Yackle, Porter, Rothman, Keefer, Hooper, Haverstick, and Peterson. Those playing for Phi Mu were Cramer, Barr, Hannigan, Robinson, Otto, Werts, Leeman, and White.

Heads Rally

Adele Levin, WRA president, together with Elizabeth J. McKinley, WRA Club activities chairman, are acting as co-chairmen of the WRA Red Cross Rally which will be held in White Hall from 7 until 10 o'clock tonight.

WITH OTHER WOMEN

"Privacy" may not be written on the entrance to the Nittany Valley in so many words, but anyone who dwells among these hills knows of their secluding effect. Nevertheless, it is an established fact that other college campuses exist in other sections of the U.S.A. and the people strolling across them now and then get in a few unusual licks themselves, perhaps worth lifting an eyebrow to.

For example, coeds at Pitt have discovered a new technique for giving their telephone numbers to the recent arrival of Air Corps cadets. Scorning the regular tried and trite wiles, they perfected the practice of writing their names and telephone numbers in lipstick on Tuck Shop (eating place) tables just before cadets enter for their recreation period.

It's a great day for women writers! In fact, the journalettes have replaced men on newspapers to such an extent because of the war that five more years will see papers staffed more and more with women, as evidenced by the fact that Rutgers receives enough calls for reporters to place every woman in the journalism department.

A new beauty contest is on—and schools throughout the country are nominating their campus belles for the title, National War Stamp Queen. It's a unique war bond sale, for each submission must be accompanied by an $18.75 bond.

And then there's the school that has instituted an annual practice of reversing the upper and under-class situation. One day a year freshmen take over the positions and duties of upperclassmen and hold sway for their 24-hour reign.

IWA to Hold Dance Friday

IWA, Independent Women's Association will hold a recording dance in Atherton Playroom from 9:30 p. m. until midnight, Friday, according to Norma R. Stern, publicity chairman.

WRA Staff Invites Women To White Hall Red Cross Rally

WRA Red Cross Rally will be held in the White Hall gymnasium from 7 until 10 o'clock this evening, according to WRA President Adele J. Levin and Elizabeth J. McKinley, WRA Club activities chairman.

Admission to the rally will be coat hangers, cards, games, material, yarn, safety pins, tin foil, and other things which can be used for defense, Miss Levin stated. Coeds are asked not to bring magazines for admission fees as scrap books will not be made at this second rally.

WSGA Senate has granted 10 o'clocks to all freshman coeds who are planning to attend the rally. More than 200 coeds attended the March 17 rally to make it one of the most impressive demonstrations of coed interest ever seen in a project of this type.

WRA staff members and active coeds are erecting several booths at which varied activities will take place. Alice Miller is in charge of the refreshment booth. There will be no charge for food as voluntary contributions will be accepted. All proceeds, including money collected at this booth and projects that have been completed, will be donated to the local Red Cross chapter.

Mrs. R. U. Blasingame, active town member of the Red Cross, is cooperating with the White Hall staff and WRA members in sponsoring this rally. Mrs. Blasingame will contribute six-inch squares which will be utilized to complete a quilt that will be donated to hospitals housing convalescent service men.

Phyllis R. Watkins is in charge of the knitting booth where squares will be made to complete a huge afghan which was half finished at the close of the March 17 rally.

'Engineer' Awards Prizes To First Writing Winners

John H. Germain and Charles S. Barbour took top awards in the Penn State "Engineer's" first writing contest, Charles R. Ammerman, editor of the technical publication, said last night.

Germain's story on the possibility of fuel and power shortage won first prize of $10, while the second award of $5 went to Barbour for his article on laminated plastic airplanes. Both writings will appear in the April issue of the "Engineer."
