Lost: 222 Skilled Coeds

WANTED—222 coeds who are withholding valuable information necessary for defense.

339 coeds have been taught to roll bandages and 122 of that number attended last week's class. Although attendance has jumped in the last two weeks and the number of bandages rolled has shown a decided increase, those who have been instructed are holding up production by not coming back to give some return for the time that was spent in instructing them.

Coeds who attend only one night are not helping to any extent if they do not return, according to the instructors.

Coeds Receive 2 O'Clocks For Junior-Senior Ball

Panhel to Consider Quota System Rushing

A proposal has been presented to Panhellenic Council to consider a system of quota rushing to replace the present unlimited method.

Advantages and disadvantages of the proposed system were presented to sorority representatives by Mrs. A. K. Anderson, former council adviser. The quota system may be carried out under a number of different patterns suggested by colleges that are using this limited system.

By placing a quota on the number of rushees for each sorority, according to an agreed specified standard, sorority groups may function as more compact units and smaller chapters may build their number more easily, Mrs. Anderson explained.

A total of 400 books was collected for the National Victory Book Drive at the annual Panhellenic dance, according to Beatrice M. White, council president.

All coeds will receive 2 o'clock permissions Friday night for Junior-Senior Ball and their customary 1 o'clocks Saturday, Ruth M. Storer, president of WSGA, announced at WSGA Senate meeting last night. Coed regulations for leaving the dormitory prior to 7 a. m. and coed attitude in the presence of service men, were also discussed at last night's meeting.

In the past, coeds were allowed to leave the dormitories at 5 a. m. without permission from hostesses. However, following the new WSGA ruling, coeds will be asked not to leave the dormitories without permission before 7 a. m. If coeds are planning an all day hike, expect to catch a bus, or have some other reason, they may go to the hostess a day before and ask for permission.

"Since the individual conduct of woman students will reflect on all coeds," Miss Storer stated, "Women should be careful of their behavior when they are with men in the service."
