Cabinet Concludes First Reading of Revisions

Jack Grey Appoints New Elections Group

First reading of the proposed revision to the constitution was made during last night's All-College Cabinet meeting after three hours of gruelling discussion.

A revision to the constitution was agreed upon by Cabinet members instead of the originally proposed amendments.

Chairman Jack Grey named twelve students to the election committee which will work out a code and plans for coming elections. Selected to the new committee are Henry Keller, Alice Fox, Jane Murphy, Ruth Storer, Robert Brawn, Adele Levine, Leon Cialella, Helen McKee, Philip Mitchell, Richard Marsh, Harry Kern and Peggy Good. Brawn will serve as chairman of the committee.

Revision of the constitution is made with the stipulation that reverting back to the old form of government be considered immediately following the war.

Under the new set-up, student activities such as Ag School Council, Liberal Arts School Council, Publications, etc., will not be represented on Cabinet directly, but through the eight semester student representatives.

The All-College Cabinet will then include the eight semester presidents, the WSGA president and the Interclass Finance Chairman. Ex-officio members include the specialized service groups representatives, Deans of Men and Women, and the Alumni Association Secretary. However, as before, none of these will have a vote on questions discussed.

All legislation must be passed by a majority vote of the Cabinet. Six members shall constitute a quorum. Cabinet shall have the power to regulate and supervise All-College student activities except those powers normally exercised.

100 Air Cadets To Arrive Soon

One hundred additional Army Air Force students will be sent to the College in the near future, President Ralph D. Hetzel announced.

The new group of Air Crew trainees increases the College's quota to 600, since they will not be ordered here as replacements for any of the original 500.

President Hetzel also reported that between 400 and 500 basic trainees in the Army Specialized Training Program would come here during the first week in May. This group, he said, should not be confused with the advanced engineering contingent, originally scheduled to arrive on April 5.

"Although we are carrying a large and increasing program of teaching in connection with the special training of various service groups," President Hetzel said, "it should be emphasized that the College is not being turned over to the armed forces."

"These are academic programs, and the service men are being trained much as our other students in their relationship to the institution. We are carrying on our normal program."

Both groups were named after previous meetings of the committee, to eliminate names which had been drawn up. The final 12 men and 8 women, as well as those who received honorable mention, have contributed in all forms of campus activities and were considered by the committee to have aided in the advancement of the College.

Marines, V-1 Men Take Screening Tests Today

V-1 Students Must Report at Two Sessions

Men in V-1 scheduled to take the screening tests in 105 White Hall today must report to both morning and afternoon sessions, while those in the Marine Reserve group although they will be required to take only one examination, must report to be assigned to their sections, FAWS Robert E. Galbraith announced last night. Sessions will continue from 9 to 11 a. m. and from 2 to 4:15 p. m.

Examinees will include freshman and sophomore Marine Reservists and fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh semester students in the V-1 program. Although Marines will be compelled to take only one test they are encouraged by Galbraith to report for several.

Bona fide pre-medical and pre-dental students in V-1 may be excused from the examination by the test supervisor but they were urged in a recent letter from Lieutenant Dean to take it voluntarily. In the event that they are not later admitted to an approved medical school, passing this examination may qualify them for transfer to V-7 and midshipman training. The letter stressed that failure to pass the screening test will not mean that such students will not be allowed to continue their pre-medical or medical training.

Third and fourth semester students in the Marines and fourth semester students in the V-1 group who find that the screening test conflicts with their scheduled time for the College English Usage Test are to give precedence to the service test in White Hall and report to Galbraith's office to set a new time for the College examination.

Names of those men included in the lists of Marine and V-1 examinees are posted in the FAWS' office and at Student Union.

Successful candidates for the Marines will be placed on active duty on or about July 1 as privates in the U. S. Marine Corps and assigned to colleges having a Marine Corps quota for further college work. V-1 candidates will be called at approximately the same time.
