

Old Mania...

By HELEN KEEFAUVER

Sunday Afternoon Boom

The coeds really hit on a solid idea, we believe, when they christened Sunday afternoon open houses for service men last week. Lots of the fellows as well as the gals seem to support a plan for their weekly continuance. It's really a super way to give the fellows that Sunday afternoon home(ly) atmosphere.

Incidentally, the Thespians' Stage Door Canteen in the Armory tomorrow night will also offer the femmes an opportunity to do another little bit for the cause—everybody's doin' it! Take Ortrude Wurfl, for instance—pinned to a sigmachi in the Army in Mass., but still keeping up morale on the home front.

Hardware Hash Dept.

Speaking of pins, Cherion Taylor, phi mu, acquired Rodney Bean's akpi pin last weekend while Marion "Little" Smith gave up all claims on agr Bill Hasley's hardware. We hear Don Kulp of the local advanced rotisse wants his jon hen among these souvenirs. After a thorough investigation we're still at a loss for something astounding to say about the young man so we'll just let it go at that. (After this we wish the applicants would please state their cases.) Aopi Mickey McKee, ex-council prexy, has been in ecstasy since she received a sparkler from '43 BMOC Martin Duff, now in the Army in La. Fellow '43 ditto Don Davis has been in town for a few days renewing old acquaintances, particularly in the alphachi suite a la Peggy Good.

In line with our accelerated program we wish to announce the engagement of Curtiss Wright cadette Bunny Murray to ASTP Bob McGowan of the Engineers.

Leading A Dog's Life

Before we forget, we'd like to let you all in on the new name the junior birdmen have dubbed the dates of their rival Engineers—Seein' Eye Dogs. We'll frankly admit it can't be labeled complimentary but doggone it is rather clever—? ? ?

Don Formal Suntans

The Air Corps formal in Rec Hall tomorrow seems to be in the limelight for the weekend. Partial list of the guests includes Connie Guy-Jimmy Jones; Barb Cooper-AS Robertson; Shirley Fletcher-Jim Shelton; Betty Shenk and Chuck Brown.

Returned pins find their lonely way back to manly chests from whence they came but a returned diamond creates a peculiar problem—which has been quite readily solved by Bill Brown who wears his on his watch chain

U. S. Naval Academy. . . Lt. Comdr. Dick Harlow coached the Lion football team from 1915 to 1917.

Pvt. Dick Weigle is a ski trooper with the mountain infantry stationed at Camp Hale, Col. Recently he and three of his companions met a businessman in Salida who offered to give them a two-acre forest tract in the mountains if, after inspection, they agreed to take it over for $7.20 in back taxes. They did, and now, when military passes permit, they spend their time in the wilds. Who knows, there might be gold in them thar hills.

Frothy will be out in a couple of weeks with one of the best covers in a long while. It's a melange of photos, the female sex and sports and Penn State, done by Smitty. Right in the middle is a picture of Marge Davis on horseback with Mt. Nittany in the background, with other shots of coeds at play around it. There are a few men in the pictures, too. And about the same time the Engineer will be along with an issue containing a spread on the Army Engineers.

While we were standing beside the Engineer salesman at the Corner last Saturday, a naval officer who is in service with the merchant marine stopped to look and buy. He said the guys around here are "salute-happy," and he wished they would give his poor arm a break. He showed us some of the foreign money he has picked up on his travels, and said that when he is abroad, nothing is too good for the men in his branch of the service. He told us he traveled from London to Liverpool with all first-class accommodations last month, and it didn't cost him a penny. The English appreciate the merchant marine, he declared. His ship is loading in New York now, and he expects to be gone for at least six months on his next trip. But he won't be too lonely. The officer enumerated the wide assortment of addresses he has compiled in many of the ports of the world.

Local Talent . . .

One of the Thespians was telling us the other night about the excellence of their technical crews. He said that they probably have the best lighting crews in the history of the organization, the costume, scenery and prop departments are tops. All they need, said he, is some TALENT. If they get it, their new show, built around a 24-piece band, should be a honey.

The CAMPUSEER

BOB KIMMEL

Poor Cassius . . .

The erstwhile Cassius who appeared on these pages last semester is now in the field artillery. We told you that before, but apparently our circulation is dropping, or something, for Milty Dolinger writes that people are still sending mail to his home inquiring why he doesn't come back to school. It all comes from the gag in Froth last semester, when he and us were labeled 4-F and available. 'Taint so in either case, and it grieves us. Especially Milty. His letter to Froth's editor was almost sharp on that point. To top it off, the Bookworm, writing in the local gazette, mentioned that Milty, author of a review in the latest Headlight at the Library, is now vacationing at Fort Bragg. There just isn't any justice.

Politicos On The Trail . . .

Two of the freshman candidates for office were out campaigning the other night. They'd go into a house and go upstairs and ask to see the freshmen. So they came to a red brick house on one of the thoroughfares, they marched up the stairs, opened a door and their mouths to ask for frosh, but they didn't make a sound. . . They were in a room full of girls in the middle of a bull session. Of course, it was a mistake, and their faces were still red while they were telling us about it, but they hoped the next time they blunder into a girls' dorm it won't be anything so prosaic.

Summer is slipping by. Why not put your good resolutions into action and worship at the Westminster Foundation this coming Sunday morning at 9:30 a. m. and at the Westminster Fellowship at 6:30 p. m.?

Men In Service—

By M. J. WINTER

Seems the weekly rag is getting around these days, and the boys here and there like to see their names in print! We're very willing to oblige, really. It's just what we want more of.

From Camp Croft, S. C., comes a letter from former BMOC Gerald B. Maxwell Stein, who says, "As much as I said about Collegian and how terrible it was, I enjoy reading it in my spare time." (plug) "I know it is difficult for you to get enough material for the weekly, so some of us thought this might help."

Croft Residents

So here are some of the Army boys who are now roasting in the Sunny South: Robert Beyer, William Bishop, Edward Blackburn Jr., Carroll Blackwood, Rudolph Bloom Jr., Nathan Cohen, Henry Dotter Jr., John Earle Gerald Eno, Alvin Fleischman, Ernest George, Robert Gross, Saul Hanin, Robert Herrman, Roy Hothan, Ted Knerr, Bill Lahner, Ted Legler, James Lloyd, John Moring, Henry O'Karma.

son sends "Greetings from Camp Wheeler, Ga., and the toughest infantry camp now founded."

Right now between other duties, Walt is in the process of compiling a list of Penn State men stationed there. Among the privates at Camp Wheeler are Jack Tighe, John Watkins, Paul Cauffiel, Gerson, Frank Weinberg, Robert McNabb, Donald Carruthers, Paul Bender, Al Bolinger, Harry Tucceri, Al Heck, and Wes Cronmiller.

Coach Snavely's Big Red team is starting its practice up at Cornell. Among the backfield prospects is Frank Accorsi, in the Navy

V-12 program. He was a freshman back with the Nittany Lions before Uncle Sam took over.

Corp. Irv Mickey is putting his advanced ROTC training to use in the Signal Corps OCS at Fort Monmouth, N. J. . . Second Lt. Arthur Krasson has completed a special course of training at the Air Forces Central Instructors School for Bombardiers at Carlsbad, N. M. He is regularly stationed at Roswell, N. M., where he is a flight instructor.

Gone Are The Boys

According to Prof. Robert Galbraith, nearly 75 per cent of the approximately 5,000 men students attending classes at the College a year ago are now in the armed services. He estimated that 3,500 are now in uniform, and about 1,200 were granted deferments of varying length so they could finish college. Fewer than 500 were rejected for physical reasons. Most of those with deferments will probably be in uniform some time this year, Galbraith estimates.

Further statistics from the FAWS at the College show that about 2,700 boys have enlisted during the year. Added to that are 250 undergraduates who were enrolled in advanced ROTC, 170 of whom are now commissioned and the remainder are awaiting vacancies in officer candidate schools.

Breaking down the figures, Galbraith points out that 1,200 are in the Army Enlisted Reserves, the largest single representation from Penn State. The Army Air Corps claims about 750, and the Navy's various branches include more than 900. About 80 of these were returned to the campus under the Navy V-12 program. These figures represent only those undergraduates enrolled at the College during the period from April, 1942, to May, 1943.
