

Old Mania...

Judicial Takes Back Seat

Coed A from coed's residence hall B was peacefully sleeping in said dormitory on the night of July 32 when service man C from branch X of the armed services came to call on innocent Coed A carrying his little hatchet with which to cut the screen in the window of Coed A's room. Campus patrolman E made surprise attack from the rear abruptly halting the metallurgy career of said S. M. C. Conclusion to date—Coed A has been honored with a formal bid to testify in a Court Martial.

She Tried Anyway

Betty Lou Shaffer telegraphed her kappa sisters from a Georgia camp of her recent acquirement of an honorary Mrs. Sister kappas duly met the Mrs. George Roye (of Sonny Roye orchestra fame) with showers of rice upon her return at the Corner... only to find that the communique was a joke and that Betty Lou still held the degree of Mme.

We gotta get this next item in pronto... theta Dorrie Campbell has recently acquired Tom Guinivan's alphachisig pin after a whirlwind romance of one week... making approximately her fourth conquest and his third. (We hope she keeps it till the Rag's printed.)

Ernst Strikes Out

Chio Ruthie Ernst made her third strike in a year (according to Hoyle this should put her out of circulation) when she accepted Lou Nichol's phikappasig hardware last weekend. Other local pinings include phimu Lois McGool to honorary Ben Clouser... Evelyn Pompey, thetaphialpha to delt Irving Frances.

Most recent gals boasting the possession of rocks are Natalie Daveson, cadette Pat Young, cadette Beulah Smith—from sigma-chi Dick Dinsmore, and Flo Levinson. Flo got hers the weekend she played nursemaid (maid of honor) to Patty Beldock. Ensign George Parrish (of the original Three Stooges) has finally married kappa Jane Gibboney.

Miscellaney

On their way to bigger and better things alphachi Evie Williams was back last week and Marion Zang is on campus now before entering the nursing profession and the WACs respectively. Theta Shorty Taylor has just returned from a trip to Elong College, N. C. and her sae Fritz Lloyd of the air corps.

Men In Service—

By M. J. WINTER

Rumors are sneaking around that there's a new bunch of Air Corps boys getting their first view of Old Main, the Corner, and the dark alleys where they walk off their gigs. Also a group of the winged ones are about ready to try their luck in distant spots. Good luck, all of you. Hope the boys just arrived like the place, and the ones shoving off will remember it once in a while, when they're drilling in some hot desert.

From Here And There

Comes the news that John E. McNelis was recently appointed a Naval aviation cadet and has been transferred to the Naval Air Training Center at Pensacola, Fla., for intermediate flight training. Upon completion of the intensive course at the "Annapolis of the Air" he will receive his Navy "Wings of Gold" with the designation of Naval aviator, and will be commissioned an ensign in the Naval Reserve or a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve.

Tom Wilcox, a technical sergeant in the Signal Corps, is on leave from camp in Virginia... Letrick Harris, a midshipman at Annapolis, is back in the Nittany Valley for the weekend... Sgt. Lee Goldstein, a radio man on a B-17 at Sioux Falls, S. D., and with service abroad to his credit, is renewing acquaintances hereabouts, too, for a week.

Executive officer of the newly activated 97th WAC Post Headquarters Company at Bolling Field, D. C.; Army Air Base, is Third Officer Lois Wells. Lt. Wells is a staff officer of one of the first two Air Corps companies of the WAC assigned to Bolling Field and attached to the Army Air Forces.

The boys listed the other week as being stationed at Camp Croft, S. C., are now at Fort Benning, Ga.

Gangin' Up

Once in a while we've been running names of boys stationed at Eton College, N. C., but it seems there's a whole contingent down there, and, although a little repetition may be apparent, we'll print the letter from them in its entirety and the signees' names just for kicks.

"Not to be outdone by our erstwhile companions-in-arms, we wish to extend to the Collegian staff, and to all the students of our beloved Alma Mater, our greetings. We aviation students of Eton College are, perhaps, not as fortunate as our brothers at Massachusetts State—they have a female student body of 2,000 to date from, whereas this campus can boast of little over 20.

"We do, however, have plenty to keep our minds occupied. There are mathematics, geography, English, and physics (are you listening, Dean Whitmore?) besides all the extra-curricular reading that we do. Are we kiddin'?"

"No stuff, kids, although we do miss the sight of Old Main and the Mall, these Southern belles are doing their utmost to make us happy, and are we kickin'?" NO!

"Give our best to Gal, and keep the lounge lights burning."

The letter was signed with the

The CAMPUSEER

BOB KIMMEL

Thespians are up in the air... literally. Skapik, Fiske, and Goss are taking lessons at the Boalsburg Airport. They go out a couple times a week for instruction. Of the three, only Cadmus L. G. is susceptible to air sickness, so he carries an antidote with him, little pink capsules which he takes when he feels the urge to "toss his cookies." We are informed they cost him 23 cents a shot.

But besides the flying lessons, the working members are still up in the air too over the lack of talent for their new show which is to be produced next month. In the chorus department, however, Mim Zartman has some good-looking prospects, and from what we saw at one of the preliminary sessions the other night, she's doing a good job and should turn out a line of dancers that will do the show proud. Mim is one of the best dancers we've seen since we came to Penn State, and she seems to be able to get her ideas across to the other kids. The night we were watching, they were practicing an involved version of the rumba.

Treasure Hunt...

Early this week every place in town but one was dried up and that one did a land-office business until the tank truck with the brew arrived. We almost fell out of the booth we were sitting in when a Marine marched into the only oasis calming licking an ice cream cone. Another fellow came in sniffing, "If there's beer in town, I'll find it." And most of the thirstier element did.

Please Send Us...

No doubt almost everyone writes to someone in the services. We manage to keep in touch with half a dozen of our close friends who have gone, and every single one takes time out to write us a special letter when we send them a copy of Collegian, a Froth, an Engineer, or any other College publication. They get a great kick out of them, and one fellow we sent Froth to wrote back two weeks later saying he had gotten it but hadn't read it yet, for every soldier in the company wanted to borrow it. It costs only a cent and a half to mail this paper, and less than a nickel to mail the other magazines. And, contrary to rumor, the boys do get the papers sent to them.

Country Club...

The other day we ran into the suggestion that, after the war is over, there may be a chance that the present system of summer classes may be continued. It stopped us in our tracks for we hadn't given it a thought. However, it was pointed out to us that originally the idea of a three or four month vacation in the summer grew out of the needs of farmers for help in the fields. Since the change in our civilization over a period of 75 years or more, there is no longer that necessity. At present, students either spend their vacation earning money for school during the winter, or just loafing and relaxing. Our view of the matter favors a retention of the summer holiday.

For one thing, going to school straight through the years gets to
