Coeds Go On Warpath For Injun Stomp Dates

Couples will dance in White Hall to the rhythm of Jimmy Burden's "tom-toms" come September 11. "Injun Stomp," sponsored by Cwen, will once more give all the charming maids on campus the opportunity to capture—for one evening at least—their favorite Hiawatha.

Tickets are now on sale at Student Union, or they may be bought from any Cwen for $1.10. "Injun Stomp" will be very informal, according to Pat Halburg, chairman.

Coeds are reminded to get on the warpath early and avoid the rush.

WOMEN IN SPORTS

Watts Dormitory, sporting a record of all wins, attained the championship of the softball tournament in WRA intramurals when they defeated ChiO, 23 to 8, Wednesday.

Exceptional work along the shortstop line was turned in by Gretchen Mecklenburg, while Barbara Tietzel, pitcher, and Teddy Oaks, catcher, also deserve laurels for outstanding playing, the latter contributing a home run to her list of successes.

ChiO's Janet Carbaugh, left fielder, made the play of the evening when she caught a fly and sent it to first base, effecting a double play, when the player on first started out too soon. Another champion for the losers was Eleanor Wills, first baseman.

Watts may have another chance to increase their list of victories, when they play an All-College team of coeds next week. This, however, will not affect the intramural championship.

Earlier in the week, ChiO defeated Jordan by 19 to 9, thus achieving placement in the finals. Special mention goes to Gloria McKinley, softball intramural chairman, for her work in directing the tournament.
