

College issues plans for governor's visit

A luncheon, tour of the grounds and buildings, a military review, and a mass meeting will highlight the visit of Governor Edward Martin and his official party to the College campus Monday.

Details of the program were made known today concurrent with the announcement that all classes will be dismissed after 11:20 a.m. Monday so that students and faculty members may have an opportunity to greet the State's chief executive.

The Governor's official party of nine will be joined at the College by a group composed of eleven non-faculty guests, three local military officers, and nineteen members of the College staff.

The two groups will have luncheon at the Nittany Lion at 1 p.m., preceding the campus tour which will start at about 2:15 p.m. At 3:30, a formal review of all military units on the campus will be held on the golf course adjacent to Route 322, and at 4:30, a mass meeting in the Recreation Building.

Governor's Party

With the Governor will be Mrs. Martin, Major Howard E. Bowman, his military aide; George I. Bloom and Mrs. L. M. Boesch, his secretaries; Dr. Francis B. Haas, superintendent of public instruction; Miles Horst, secretary of agriculture; Richard Maize, secretary of mines; and C. M. Morrison, secretary of the commonwealth.

Greeting them at the College will be Senator A. H. Letzler, Houtzdale; Representative J. H. Wallin, Philipsburg; Judge Ivan Walker, Dr. J. W. Claudy, A. E. Yougel, burgess; R. E. Clark, president of borough council; M. Ward Fleming, former judge of the Centre County court; Thomas Beaver, former member of the State Legislature; Claude G. Alkens, Guy Z. Stever, and W. K. Ulerich, editor of the Centre Daily Times.

Military Reception Committee

In the military group will be Col. Edward D. Ardery, in charge of all military units on campus; Lt. Comdr. J. H. Smith, in charge of the Navy-Marine V-12 program; Lt. Frank D. Rua, representing Capt. Thomas E. Leet, commandant of the Army Air Corps; and Capt. Charles A. Prosser, who has been assigned as local military aide.

Mule to make debut for ball

Engineers' taxi solves transportation problem

The "Mulepower Express," the Penn State Engineer's solution to the transportation problem, will make its first and last appearance tomorrow night in connection with the Slide Rule Ball.

Students, alumni, and servicemen are invited to take advantage of the taxi service, which will operate continuously between Grange Dorm and Rec Hall from 8:30 to 10 o'clock. The fare will be ten cents in War Stamps per couple.

The mule-driven "taxi" will stop for pickups at Grange Dorm, Mac Hall, Schwab Auditorium, Sigma Chi House, and Rec Hall. Walter R. Berg and Richard Devaney, co-chairmen of arrangements, said that all couples who plan to make the trip should buy their tickets early since the "Mulepower Express" can accommodate only 16 passengers a run.

Music will be furnished by the Campus Owls from 9 to 12, and several musical numbers will be dedicated to the visiting alumni.

Members of the Penn State Engineer staff plan to make the dance an annual fixture. Tickets for the ball may be obtained at Student Union or from any senior member of the Engineer staff. Admission is $1.10 for civilians and 77 cents for servicemen.

The dance will bring to a close the "9" campaign which Publicity Chairman Fred Mazzitelli staged during the past month. The campaign puzzled many students before Mazzitelli announced that "9" stood for October 9 and the Slide Rule Ball.

Alumni registration shows drop

Alum President

50 per cent of normal attendance expected

GEORGE M. ARISMAN

With registration estimated by the Alumni Office as at least 50 per cent below normal, former graduates will begin arriving today for the annual Homecoming celebration. Although efforts have been made to provide a program which approaches as closely as possible that of pre-war days, certain curtailments have been necessary, according to H. R. Riley, Alumni Association assistant executive secretary.

Events for the weekend are as follows:

Today

Registration in first floor lounge, Old Main (all day).

8 p.m.—Penn State Players production, "Arsenic and Old Lace," Schwab Auditorium.

8 p.m.—Meeting of the Executive Board, Penn State Alumni Association, 104 Old Main.

Tomorrow

Registration in first floor lounge, Old Main (all day).

9 a.m.—Alumni golf tournament.

10 a.m.—Alumni Council meeting, 10 Sparks Building.

2 p.m.—Varsity football, Penn State vs. Colgate.

2 p.m.—Varsity soccer, Penn State vs. Bucknell.

2:30 p.m.—Varsity cross country, Penn State vs. Muhlenberg.

5:30-6 p.m.—Permission has been granted by military and naval authorities for fraternity men to visit their respective houses at this time. For identification, it will be necessary to have registration cards secured at alumni registration headquarters, Old Main.

8 p.m.—Cider party, Sandwich Shop, Old Main.

8 p.m.—Penn State Players production, "Arsenic and Old Lace," Schwab Auditorium.

Lions to oppose red raiders before homecoming crowd

It will be a clash between two teams eager to climb back into the win column when the Nittany Lions entertain Colgate in the 1943 Alumni Homecoming attraction on New Beaver Field 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. While Penn State was posting a 13-0 decision over Bucknell, Colgate was turning back Rochester 6-0 in their respective openers; and to keep things even, the Red Raiders matched State's 19-0 defeat by North Carolina with a 41-0 loss to the Army in last Saturday's activities.

The Penn State gridders who journeyed below the Mason-Dixon line have come back to the valley with an affirmative answer to the question "Is it true what they say about Dixie?" Missing from the starting lineup because of injuries from the Tar Heel encounter will be Tad Tapanowicz, stellar tackle from George Washington U. and Bo Powers, center from Dayton who has teamed with Aldo Cenci in backing up the line.

Coach Bob Higgins has indicated that Bill Kyle, 195-pound Marine from Pitt will replace "Hap" at the right tackle spot with either Larry Davis or Mike Slobodnjak getting the call at center.

The remainder of the lineup will have as usual Johnny Jaffurs, Dan

Technicality stops Uninhibited old maids amass decision on finals 12 corpses in canal locks

Vote on collegian plan delayed for one month

Exemptions from finals because of superior class and bluebook grades will have to wait until next semester, following a Senate ruling last night that Collegian's finals proposal would have to be shelved for one month before receiving definite action.

Collegian's proposal constituted a possible change in the existing regulations, the populous legislative body ruled, and as such should automatically be tabled until the next meeting. The ruling follows a Senate regulation delaying action on all "amending measures" from one monthly meeting until the next.

The formal proposal, read to the assembled administrative heads, school deans, department heads, and faculty representatives by Dr. Carl E. Marquardt, acting secretary, in 121 Sparks last evening, follows:

"(1) That any student whose class and bluebook average in any course is at least a '2' need not take a final examination unless he so desires.

Take two sweetly demented old maids who are uninhibited insofar as poisoning lonely old gentlemen are concerned, add an individualistic nephew who talks, acts, and costumes as Teddy Roosevelt, throw in an absent-minded lover and the minister's daughter who "learned about life in a choir loft," and garnish with mobster who looks like Karloff and you have the dizzy, hilarious comedy "Arsenic and Old Lace" which opens at Schwab Auditorium at eight o'clock tonight.

The scene of this opus is a genteel lodging in Brooklyn bordered by a cemetery. The sweet old ladies, Abbie and Martha Brewster who are played by Marian Dougherty and Janet Dayton, have mastered the knack of mixing together certain portions of arsenic, cyanide, and strychnine with delicious elderberry wine which is used to tempt unsuspecting old men.

Teddy, who is played by Raymond Boley, is kept busy building locks for the Panama Canal in the cellar of the abode. The men, and the total is 12, are then buried as yellow fever victims after religious services.

All this is woven in with visiting policemen, a harassed dramatic critic, and a long lost nephew who gums up the works by introducing another body.

It sounds confusing, but the whole thing works out after situations which are unprecedented for laughs. This show has been playing to capacity audiences for the past three years. That ought to speak for it.

3rd air corps queen will reign over fall dance tonight

Third in the series of Air Corps dances which have been given for each graduating quintile of the College training detachment is the formal dance for class 43H to be held in Rec Hall from 6:30 until 12:30 p.m. tonight.

At this time, Donna McClintock, present Air Corps queen, will be succeeded by one of the four contestants nominated by Squadrons A, B, C, and D.

A/S. Gil Stratton, Broadway star, will be master of ceremonies throughout the evening and will entertain those attending during intermissions taken by the Air Corps orchestra. A fall theme will be carried out in the decoration scheme.

Contestants are Squadron A, Jean Mitchell; Squadron B, Peggy Frontiera; Squadron C, Sally Meyers; and Squadron D, Mary Gilbert.

Their pictures appear on page 7. Jean Mitchell, 19, petite-blond Hamilton Propeller student from Hampton, Mass., likes horseback riding, skiing, and flying. Peggy Frontiera, 20, blonde, is the wife of an Air Corps student and hails from Detroit.

Striking blonde from Huntington, W. Va., is 21-year-old Kappa

60-piece college orchestra presents symphony concert

Members of the College Symphony Orchestra will present their annual complimentary concert under the direction of Prof. Hummel Fishburn, head of the music department, in Schwab Auditorium at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

The personnel of the 60-piece orchestra includes 42 students, two graduate students, three faculty members, seven high school students, three V-12 men, and one Hamilton Propeller student.

The orchestra will open the program with Otto Nicolai's "Overture to the Merry Wives of Windsor," followed by "L'Arlesienne Suite, No. 1," by Georges Bizet, including the prelude, minuetto, adagio, and carillon.

"Tales from the Vienna Woods," composed by Johann Strauss, and "Hungarian Dances, Numbers 5 and 6," by Johannes Brahms, will be heard next.

After a brief intermission the orchestra will play the "Honor and Glory Overture" by Authur Bergh and Jean Sinelius' "Valse Triste." The latter will be conducted by Concertmeister Louis Luini.

The concert will be concluded with the playing of the "Finale from Symphony Number 5 in E Minor," composed by Anton Dvorak.

Officers of the symphony are as follows: Louis Luini, concertmeister; James Harter, president; Anne Haigh, principal; Virginia Manley, secretary; and Doris Glahn and Earl Roberts, librarian and manager, respectively.

Cap and gown deadline

With graduation set for Recreation Hall on October 21, announcement has been made that faculty and graduate students who wish to rent or purchase academic costumes for this occasion must place their orders tomorrow at the latest.

Lion, key hold final meetings

At the Lion Party's last meeting of the semester Sunday, Robert Hastedt, party chairman, appointed James Casey and Gloria Whyel heads of the platform and publicity committees, respectively. Hastedt announced that there would be no further party meetings until next semester when one is scheduled to be held in 318 Old Main, 7:15 p.m. October 31.

Horace Smith, Key Party chairman, announced that his clique would have one more meeting this semester in 309 Old Main, 3 p.m. Sunday. All students interested are urged to come, Smith stated.

Working with James Casey on the platform committee are Edward Carson and Ted Rubin. Assisting Gloria Whyel on the publicity committee are Peggy Lou Johnston, Ida Latimer, Shirley Painter, Robert Shadley, and Lester Stine.
