

WSGA Converts Coca Cola Money Into Scholarships

Organization Cooperates With 'Hostess Training'

In an informal meeting Monday night WSGA voted to devote the $86.60 cash donation made annually by the Coca Cola Company exclusively to scholarships for Penn State students.

At the same meeting Betty Jane Drouse was appointed to the position of junior senator which was vacated by Patricia Hallberg when she accepted the presidency of WSGA. Betty Funkhouser and Mary Margaret Dunlap are to represent the organization on the Penn State in China Committee.

WSGA and all other campus women's organizations are cooperating with the local Service Center in promoting a hostess training course series which started last night and will meet in 110 Home Economics building at 7:30 p.m. every Thursday.

The purpose of the course is to acquaint coeds with entertainment techniques and instruct them in becoming junior hostesses who can assist in the direction of USO activities.

Notices of the series were mailed to a designated number of coeds and must be presented for admittance to the classes. Upon the completion of this series, a new list will be called. Coeds interested in taking the training are urged to give their names to those enrolled at present.

There will be a meeting for Theta Sigma Phi pledges at the Delta Gamma house at 4:30 p.m. Monday.

Lions Aim For First Triumph

Other ends who attracted Michael's eye were Henry Borderson and Anthony La Scalla.

Mayceko, Blose Look Good

In the backfield, Cornell has a pair of dangerous breakaway runners in Bill Mayceko and Howard Blose. Blose now leads the east in scoring. Halfback Dekdebrun played most of the Columbia game and clicked with his kicking and passing.

Handling the fullback duties for Cornell is Frank Accorsi, a member of the Penn State squad last year as a freshman. So far this fall, Accorsi has been effective in a spinning line plunger.

Edwin Schneider shares the fullback spot with Accorsi. This will mark Schneider's second appearance against the Lions this year as he recently was transferred from Colgate.

Cornell captain, Meredith Cushing, will be at the quarterback post tomorrow although he started the season as a center.

Norm Dawson is the Big Red kicking specialist and is used in place of either Mayceko or Blose.

Students who failed to fill out voting cards at registration are asked to do so immediately at Student Union, according to Margaret L. Good, chairman of Elections Committee. Unless each student has filed a card with an election official, he will be ineligible to vote in the coming elections.

Shell Oil to Interview Senior Technicians

An announcement by the College Placement Service states that R. B. Roark, vice-president of the Shell Oil Company, will visit the campus November 15 to interview senior students. Particularly interested in mining, petroleum, natural gas, geological, electrical, mechanical and chemical engineers, and physicists, Mr. Roark will interview from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Appointments may be made at 204 Old Main.

Registration of students for part-time employment will be handled by the College Placement Service.

WRA Sponsors Freshman Open House; Activity Club Skits Highlight Rally

WRA will hold its Freshman Sports Rally in White Hall from 7 until 9 o'clock tonight, according to Elizabeth J. McKinley, president.

A complete open house will be presented for the new freshman women students to enable them to become acquainted with the association as well as members of the Executive and Club Activities Boards.

Refreshments will be served and every intramural that WRA offers will be represented and illustrated in skits given by individual club presidents.

The Club Activities Board includes Virginia Steinbauer, president of the Outing Club; Gloria Woodward, Swimming Club head; Badminton Club leader, Catherine Parise; Dance Club president, Madeline Mahuran; Archery, Mary Alice Carswell; Golf, Ruth Embury; Riding, Arta Ostermayer; Rifle, Dorothy Wallace; Tennis, Nancy Hodgson; Fencing, Vivian Martin; and Lois Miller, Bridge Club president.

Members of the Executive Board will act as official guides to conduct tours of White Hall. Members of this group are Julia Gilbert, vice-president; Joan Miller, secretary; Margaret Good, publicity manager; Alice Hooper, sophomore representative; and Barbara Smith, freshman representative.

WRA cordially welcomes all freshmen to this sports rally to aid them in becoming acquainted with the organization as a whole and for an evening of entertainment, Miss McKinley added.

IWA Sponsors Vox Pop

Louis H. Bell, director of the Department of Public Information, has requested those faculty members assisting in distributing the 250 questionnaires to have them filled out in time for the Vox Pop advance representative, David Grant, to examine them next Thursday.

From the 250 questionnaires, Mr. Grant will select approximately half the students for personal interviews by him Thursday and Friday. Sixteen or 18 of these will be selected as "semi-finalists," and will be interviewed on Friday by Conductors Johnson and Hull and Producer Bob Ballin for final choosings.

SAFEGUARDING "HOME FRONT" LINES!

TELEPHONE lines from poles to homes take a terrific beating from old man weather. And with wire for replacements drafted for military use, existing lines must be kept in good condition.

Asphalt coating applied in time keeps out moisture, chief trouble maker on telephone lines. Without lowering the wires, this trolley painter speeds the coating — helps recondition 50 lines a day.

This simple "stitch in time" helps keep communications open to the homes of America — and saves critical materials for vital war weapons.

War calls keep Long Distance lines busy... That's why your call may be delayed.
