

Vox Pop Program Comes To Rec Hall Monday Night

Pre-Broadcast Show Will Feature Cash Prizes

Sponsored by IWA, the Vox Pop broadcast, originating from Rec Hall over Station WABC from 8 to 8:30 Monday evening and hitting a nation-wide hookup over 120 CBS stations, will be preceded by a pre-broadcast warm-up program which will begin at 7:25 p.m. sharp. Admission to Rec Hall will therefore close at 7:25.

The preliminary program will feature audience participation; and cash prizes will be awarded to various students chosen at random to take part in the stunts which will probably highlight this part of the show.

The six or seven students who will appear as interviewees on the regular broadcast will be chosen by an elimination-system of interviews. Various deans, department heads, and military officers are asked to distribute some 200-odd questionnaires prepared by the Vox Pop staff to students whom they thought would be possible participants in the show.

David Grant, advance man for Vox Pop, arrived on campus Wednesday evening to look over these questionnaires and meet those students whom he felt were material for the informal "voice-of-the-people" program. The 16 or 18 semi-finalists who make the grade in this preliminary test will be interviewed by Parks Johnson and Warren Hull, stars who conduct the program. Johnson came to State College yesterday, and Hull will arrive today.

Any students who have not filled out a questionnaire and feel that they are potential radio material may contact Grant at the Nittany Lion Inn, or apply at the Department of Public Information.

Although the tickets, which have been available at Student Union, are numbered, there is no specific seating arrangement, so the rule of the evening will be first-come-first-served. However, the front row seats downstairs are reserved for servicemen, who will be admitted without tickets. About 1,100 seats downstairs will be available to civilian students.

Collegian Sets $2000 As War Fund Goal 450 Vote For Semester Candidates

Campaign Begins Today As Students Pay Fees

While students hand over the semester's fees to the bursar's staff in the Armory from 9 until 5 o'clock today, they will exchange the first half-dollar and dollar contributions to the National War Fund for lottery tickets and start the campus on the way to the $2,000 goal set by the Collegian staff. At the price of one for 50 cents and three for $1, tickets will entitle the purchaser to a chance at the first prize of a $50 war bond or one of the additional $25 bonds.

Prior to solicitation in dormitories next week, sales will continue at the entrances to New Beaver Field from 1 until 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and at the Independent Student Committee's "Foot-Ball" in Rec Hall from 9 until 12 o'clock tomorrow night.

A federation of 17 war-related agencies whose programs have a universal appeal to the United Nations, the National War Fund was created to raise and distribute funds among its members. The 17 major groups represent consolidation of more than 100 subsidiary organizations. By appealing once for contributions to all its members, the Fund removes the necessity of conducting separate, smaller-scale campaigns, and by allotting reasonable sums for the work of these separate groups, it prevents duplication of effort in one field, with consequent saving of money, manpower, and supplies.

The three basic aims of the Fund are to determine the nature and extent of war-related needs; to see that everyone has an opportunity to contribute to the funds required; to channel the sums raised wherever American help is currently most needed, for the military front, the United Nations front, and the home front.

Services on the military front include providing of off-duty recreational, cultural, and spiritual activities for service men and women; entertainment programs in training camps and off-shore bases; welfare aid and counsel to merchant seamen; overseas clubhouses and convalescent centers for the men of the Merchant Marine; and war prisoners' aid to interned armed forces throughout the world.

Work among the United Nations includes the sending of surgical and medical supplies and equipment, food and clothing to civilian victims of war; support of educational, technical, and training institutions; support of industrial cooperatives; aid to children's homes (Continued on page seven)

Vox Pop Stars

Parks Johnson and Warren Hull will conduct the Vox Pop program at Rec Hall Monday night. Both will interview applicants for the show.

Politicians Climax Campaigns; Elections Enter Last Day

Lion and Key politicians round out three weeks of intensive campaigning for the two new campus parties when student voters cast final ballots in the Sandwich Shop, Old Main, 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. today. At 5:30 p.m. yesterday 450 votes were under the eagle-like watch of the All College Elections Committee and campaigners were already making their last big drives for the semester.

Urging all students to vote, Margaret L. Good, All College Elections Committee chairman, stated that as students who failed to fill out a registration card at regular college registration may do so at the polls today. Miss Good explained that the elections committee will check on the new registrants' semester with an official list and sign the card permitted the student to vote. "However, if a student's name is not on the official list he will be required to have a note specifying his semester rank from the dean of his school. As in the past a student may vote a split ticket. The elections committee met with candidates Wednesday night when they listened to the complaints of both parties. Final judgment will not be released until after a second meeting with the candidates at 5 p.m. today. Penalties will be subject to the decision of the committee which will hold a private meeting following the meeting with candidates.

Elections Committee Chairman Good explained that the only way in which the present code had been altered is in the number of penalties inflicted on cliques violating the code. If any one of the candidates or party members is found guilty of violations a penalty of not more than four nor less than two votes will be inflicted upon every candidate of the guilty party. This revision met with unanimous approval of the elections committee.

Cliques were reminded of the importance of submitting an itemized financial report to the committee. This report must be turned in at Student Union by noon today. It was recommended by the chairman that all items, including donations, be designated on the report. Votes will not be counted until after the meeting with candidates and the budget items have been checked. Elections returns (Continued on Page Three)

Vogue Contest Offers Job Opportunities To Senior Girls

Senior women who are wondering just how one goes about routing out all the wonderful job opportunities that are supposed to be floating about may find their answer in Vogue's ninth Prix de Paris contest.

The first deadline in the magazine's yearly career contest is November 20, when the first quiz, which appears in the November 1 Vogue, is due.

In addition to the first and second prizes, which consist of a year and six months, respectively, on Vogue's staff, there will be ten awards of merit which are job opportunities on all four Conde Nast publications, Vogue, House & Garden, Vogue Pattern Book, and Glamour.

The first two prizes make the winners temporary members of the Vogue staff where they do fashion reporting or feature writing for the period of their award.

Collegian Candidates

All candidates for the Collegian editorial staff will meet in the Collegian office, Carnegie Hall, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Freshman and sophomore candidates who worked on Collegian this summer or in the spring will meet in the Collegian office, 8:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Business staff candidates will meet in the Collegian office, 7 p.m. Monday.

If they prove able, they will stay on permanently.

The contest consists of four quizzes to be answered by all entrants, and an article which only those entrants who receive passing marks on the quizzes are eligible to submit. There are two questions on each quiz, one based on a fashion feature and one on a non-fashion feature, such as music, art, literature, or theatre. Papers will be graded on the following points: clear and individual writing; fashion knowledge derived from a study of Vogue, general information, current information, and awareness.

Each entrant must be a member of the graduating class of 1944 in a United States college or university which grants a recognized A.B.

The judges of the contest will be editors of Vogue, and their decision will be final. The winners of the Prix de Paris will be announced on or about June 1, 1944.

Air Corps Gives Mental Exams Today

Another mental examination open to all students interested in entering the Army Air Corps will be given in 401 Old Main at 9 a.m. today, according to Robert E. Galbraith, FAWS.

Thespian Mobile Unit To Make Comeback

After laying off during the summer semester, the Thespian Mobile Units are planning a comeback within the next few weeks, according to Paul Galvanik, Thespian Mobile Unit manager. The cast for the shows, which tour various Army camps in the state, is already in rehearsal, and negotiations for the first show will soon be completed.

A seven-piece jazz combination has been recruited from Jim Burden's band to travel with the unit, and most of Mim Zartman's original Thespian chorus will also be featured. Among the specialty acts, all of which have not been chosen as yet, is Adele Yablan, songstress-comedienne who was such a hit in the Thespian Cantens last spring.

Tentative casting for Thespians' forthcoming January show is already under way. Additional tryouts for the chorus will be held in Schwab at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. The names of those scheduled for tryouts at this time have been posted on the bulletin board near the back door of the auditorium.

Technical crews for the show will be called the week after next.

'Foot-Ball' To Highlight Temple Weekend

Finishing up the weekend of the last home game of the season, ISC will hold a "Foot-Ball" dance in Rec Hall from 9 until midnight tomorrow.

Although State has met Temple several times, this is the first time that the Owls have met the Nittany Lions on New Beaver Field.

Bud Wills and his Campus Owls with Betty Platt on the vocals will feature the popular three-slow-to-one-fast-number ratio and will swing out with such favorites as "Blue Skies," "Stormy Weather," and "Rocking Chair." As a special feature, a medley of Penn State songs will be played by the Owls.

In addition to Miss Platt, Johnny Setar on the sax will handle some of the instrumental solos while Paul Grove will swing the baton for manager Bud Wills. Many characteristic and popular Owl arrangements made locally famous by Jimmy McAdams will be played.

Tribunal has released its stranglehold on frosh men who will be permitted to attend the dance, although freshman women have not been granted the same by WSGA Senate.

Three cheerleaders, Dick Rathmell, Bunny Millick, and Herb Locke, will lead cheers during intermission. This is another special feature planned by the ISC committee.

This dance will be a sequel to

"Nittany Nocturne," an ISC All-College dance which proved to be a great success last semester. Complying with many requests, the Independent Student Committee has planned "Foot-Ball."

Tickets are obtainable at student Union at $1.10 for civilians and dates and 77 cents for servicemen and dates, according to James Redmond, chairman of the ticket committee.

Committee heads for the dance as released by Chairman William Folk, are Lou Glazier, requisition; Helen Schmidle, refreshment; Sydney Rivenburg, checking; Betty Reede, chaperons; Edmund Koval, publicity; Redmond, tickets; and Kay Kirk, permission.
