

Lions Face Pitt

West Virginia were outmaneuvered by the Pittsburgh T which demonstrated its effectiveness against teams of its own class. A good guess as to State's ever-changing starting lineup will have Ed Czekaj and Dick Trumbull, ends; Marino Marchi and Joe Vender, tackles; Johnny Jaffurs and Dan Ross, guards; Mike Slobodjnak, center; Aldo Cenci, blocking back; Cass Sisler, right half; Bill Abramitis or Tubby Crawford, left half; and Jack Prje, fullback.

Crawford's one man show against Temple may give him the nod for the starting assignment over ex-Pitt fullback Abramitis at the left halfback post. Jack Price's valuable punting abilities have helped to give the much revised backfield needed balance.

The brilliant defensive work of the State forward will was offset in the Temple game by the lack of offensive punch in the backfield, and Coach Bob Higgins' drills this week stressed timing and blocking.

In Pittsburgh, the Nittany Lions are rated two touchdowns better than the Panthers. The game will be broadcast over KDKA.

Basketball-

and slashed wartime collegiate schedules, the complete Nittany card is still unavailable. However, unless sudden changes in Navy and Marine athletic policy appear, the schedule this year will include the traditional Penn State rivals, starting with Muhlenberg in an away encounter early in December.

One of the high points of the season will probably be the return engagement with the Violet caers of NYU in Madison Square Garden some time in the new year—NYU-outscoored Penn State 49-40 last winter when the Nittany club played without the services of star Johnny Egli.

We wish to thank those student voters who supported our candidates in the last election.

Jaffurs Accounts For Most Tackles

Johnny Jaffurs, mention for All-American guard last year and one of the outstanding candidates for a return billing on the honorary squad this season, has made one-fourth of all the tackles for State this year, the Nittany coaches estimate.

Picked on the Associated Press All-Pennsylvania team in addition to All-American mention, Jaffurs is called "one of the best guards in the country" by Head Coach Bob Higgins.

He will play his last game for the Nittany Lions against Pitt tomorrow.
