

Penn Statements

By SERENE F. ROSENBERG

It wasn't so long ago that students came back to school after a three months' vacation, worked diligently until the November holidays, and at that time packed their little laundry cases and headed home. They boarded a special bus behind the New Chemistry building and after a non-stop trip arrived at the home town in double quick time. Then there was the time-between when Thanksgiving vacation was a questionable affair and College officials designated just one day for the celebration. But this year's holiday has reached the peak in concentrated, war-day affairs, and the commendable amount of minimum grumbling will be highly rewarded in Ath Hall dining rooms where happy cooks released the following menu.

- Bouffet Crackers with Cranberry Cocktail
- Roast Turkey with Dressing
- Mashed Potatoes
- Frosted Peas
- Celery and Olives
- Cranberry Jelly
- Mince and Pumpkin Pie
- Coffee

Knock, Knock . . .

The other evening a knock resounded on the door of 999 Atherton and to the sweet "come in" of the residing coed, said door opened and a male form projected itself inside. The coed asked the necessary questions and then the truth came out. "But what are you doing here?" she said. "Remember, I'm the candidate for the business staff and you told me to bring these ads over. I'm in 999, you said, so I brought them over." And so another frosh makes out and one more coed has something to write home about.

Front and Center . . .

No, it wasn't a mirage. That's a four-star service flag on display in the front window of the tpa house and behind it lies a story. Seems four little servicemen studying at the College had gotten into the habit of stopping off at the house each afternoon. At first this obnoxious habit created more than a little tension, but after a while it got so the coeds developed a real attachment for these little visitors. But, like all good things, this tender friendship came to an end. The uniformed boarders flunked out. And now, hanging proudly in their front parlor window, is the material evidence of tpa lonesome hearts.
