

Front And Center . . .

By RITA M. BELFONTI

We're glad that the head for this column is no longer "Men in Service" because this week we have news of a few former Penn State coeds who are in the armed forces.

Marge Walton, former Delta Gamma, is now classified as an apprentice seaman and will report for active duty in the medical division of the WAVES January

17. Marge is going to be stationed at Smith College.

Lt. Aileen Holz, Theta Phi Alpha alum, is an Army dietician now, and is serving overseas after having spent almost a year in Kansas. Another TPA, Mary Chol-lak is awaiting her call for the WACS.

Cpl. Steve Sinichak, former member of the Collegian staff, visited State College last week. Steve is stationed at VPI and is awaiting shipment to Ft. Benning. Mickey Blatz, another former staff member, was in town for a few hours wearing a midshipmen's suit. He is in the Naval Air Corps and is stationed at Penn.

Penn Statements

By SERENE F. ROSENBERG

His day may be a minister but when one earnest basketball fan asked of V-12er Rey Brune, "What's his theological training?" the question created quite a stir among those who know the marine. Further questioning of the basket ball follower brought to the surface this evidence. The "Philadelphia Record" in its write up of State's basketball schedule listed Brune as Rev. Rey Brune, respectively, which would certainly bear out the old adage, "like father, like son."

Who Wants Me . . .

If things are tough with you put yourself in Anna Radle's place. Veteran player, she has appeared in just one Thespian show. Comes time for a publicity write-up in Collegian, however, and enthusiastic promotionists release Anna's name surrounded by the phrase "veteran Thespian." Now to add insult to injury reports show that when the story is for a Thespian production Anna's name is released so that it is invariably preceded by "veteran Player." "Who wants me," wails the vet "cancer" girl

"GQG" Makes Out . . .

And speaking of Thespians, George Q. Graham has successfully succeeded in influencing his friends and cohorts in that little group for the second time, because the campus song and dance people just re-elected "G. Q. G." their president. Maybe the publicity he received from Froth's obituary re-established him as the units favorite promotion boy.

Bette Davis, in her most stirring role, is shown in this scene from her latest picture, "Old Acquaintance," starting at the Cathaum, Saturday, with Gig Young and Miriam Hopkins
