Skyblazers To Make Music For 'Green Tag Swingout'

Charlie Harmon and his 14-piece Air Corps band, the "Skyblazers," will provide the rhythm for Green Tag Swingout at Recreation Hall from 8 to 12 p.m. February 11. Latest of the well-known Air Corps "Queen" dances, which proved popular during the summer semester, Swingout will be Class 44-B's social farewell to the campus before departing for the AAF Classification Center at Nashville, Tennessee. In a picture-ballot election last week the squadrons chose their respective "sweethearts," who will compete for the title, "Queen of the Swingout."

Sweetheart of Squadron A will be Eleanor Stoner, '44, of Delta Gamma. Blonde Miss Stoner will be escorted by A/S T. W. Fagan, general chairman of the dance committee. A home economics major, Miss Stoner's activities include presidency of the Home Economics Advisory Council and membership on the All-College Elections Committee. Formerly headed for the concert stage as a pianist, she changed her goal to teacher of home economics, intending to follow her music as a pastime.

servicemen, would go on sale February 5 at the Athletic Association window in Old Main. With each ticket bought, the buyer will be entitled to vote for Snow Queen.

The pulchritudinous coed who wins the title will be presented to the dancers during the course of the affair, planned to run from 8:30 till 12 p. m. The queen will be selected from five aspirants—Nancy Harrington, Joan Harrington, Tawny Hill, Kassie Koehler, and Sally Duffy.

In conjunction with the Fourth War Loan Drive, 25c chances on a $100 war bond will be sold by dance committee members and members of All-College Cabinet, with the drawing for the bond taking place at the dance.

Through a difficult process of elimination, the poster winner was selected, entries being judged on 1. theme (Winter Ball) and how well carried out. 2. college spirit. 3. artistic ability. 4. advertising purposes. Awarding of the prizes to the winners will also be a feature of the dance.

The eleven contestants comprised a diversified student and service group including civilians, Hamilton Propeller students, an Army trainee, and a Marine. Prize winning posters are currently on display at the Corner Room, and all the contestants' posters will be featured in the Athletic Store window beginning tomorrow.

"Again it may be emphasized that each entry was a grand piece of work, and the task entailed in the winners' selection was far more difficult than originally planned," Budzak declared.

Miss Globisch is a phys ed major preparing for physiotherapy and is a nationally-recognized swimmer, holding a National Junior Amateur championship in the breaststroke. On campus she is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, scholastic honor society, of Lakonides, phys ed honorary, and a life guard at White Hall.

She will be escorted by A/S E. E. Kolasinski.

Competition for the title of Air Corps Queen of Class 44-B's final dance will begin immediately, and the decision will be made by the results of the election based on pictures of the contestants.

Davis Sponsors Eye Conservation Program; Aids Future Soldiers

An eye conservation program was instituted at the Pennsylvania State College today as an aid to 17-year-olds who soon will be inducted into the armed forces.

"Our hope," Arthur F. Davis, associate professor of physical education, said, "is to uncover eye defects early, so that young men facing Army service may endeavor to correct the condition before they undergo their induction examination."

Prof. Davis proposed the program as the aftermath of a Selective Service report showing that eye defects are the first cause of rejection in this war. Cooperating with him in conduct of the project is Dr. E. A. Betts, in charge of the Reading Clinic.

Approximately 270 freshmen, the majority of them 17-year-olds, are participating in the program as part of a one-hour-a-week course in health education. Highlight of the project is the individual eye examination and testing to be given by Dr. Betts and his associates.
