Penn State Club Holds Tournament

An All-College ping-pong tournament consisting of men's and women's singles is being sponsored by the Penn State Club, under the direction of Edward Harley, athletic chairman.

Everyone associated with the College is eligible to join; fraternity and independent men, sorority and independent women, professors and College officials. There will be a fee of 25 cents for each contestant entering the matches.

Part of this fee will be used to buy equipment, mainly balls that are difficult to replace. The rest of the amount collected will cover prizes to be awarded to the winners and the runner-ups in both groups.

Everyone interested in joining the tournament should sign up at the Student Union desk in Old Main before April 28.

New Australian Literature Course Instituted At College

Among the wartime studies instituted at the College is a course in Australian literature, believed by its originator, Dr. A. Bruce Sutherland, to be the only one of its kind in the country.

Although the course is primarily concerned with discussion of Australian books, Dr. Sutherland has found it necessary to include geographical and historical material.

Books included in the course, Dr. Sutherland said, are usually ones totally unfamiliar to Americans. The Australians themselves, he added, read mostly American and English novels.

Dr. Sutherland, who is a member of the Australian English Association, has received many letters from Australian writers and professors commending the course.

Several hundred books, nucleus of an Australian collection, are available in the College Library, but a great need exists for books furnishing background material, Dr. Sutherland said.

Faiths To Be Discussed

Hebrew, Catholic, and Lutheran religions will be discussed by the Student Interfaith Council in 305 Old Main at 8 p.m. Monday. This is the first of a series of four meetings on "The Growth of Religion."
