

Dr. Claudy Blames Home Influences As Major Cause Of Delinquency

"The greatest cause of juvenile delinquency is not the motion pictures or the taproom but the home," stated Dr. J. W. Claudy, superintendent of Western Penitentiary, Rockview, at the last in a series of college forums entitled "The Home After The War," in 304 Old Main Wednesday afternoon.

"The delinquent of today will be the criminal of tomorrow," continued Dr. Claudy. "Children follow the pattern of the home, and the pattern of tomorrow is being made today."

Other members of the panel were Dr. Clifford R. Adams, professor of psychology and education, and Mrs. Barbara Samelman, sociology major and wife of a serviceman.

Claudy proceeded to explain the importance of coming marriages in relationship to future homes and delinquents, saying that delinquency cannot be prevented if citizens do not have a Christian belief that looks upon the home with love, reverence, respect, and mutual esteem.

Presenting five important facts to be considered before plunging into post-war marriages, Dr. Adams said that changes in personalities occurring during the war must be reconciled and synthesized in order to assure stability in marriage and to prevent a rise in the number of divorces.

Dr. Adams' five points included making sure it is love and not the flush of being reunited, having completed education and and preparations for a vocation, having a job, having completed a courtship period, and being physically and mentally well.

"Any couple contemplating marriage needs a three to six-months' waiting period after the serviceman comes home in order to prove these points," Dr. Adams pointed out.

Mrs. Samelman presented the problems which might arise from misunderstandings through correspondence and local gossip between the girl and serviceman as well as those through children, the wife demanding more responsibilities, and broader outlooks obtained from foreign service.

An open group discussion followed.

Claire Weaver, president of PSCA, introduced the speakers of the forum, which was sponsored by the student section of the advisory committee of the College Forum.

Library Shows Mack Exhibit

Wood engravings by Dr. Warren B. Mack, head of the Department of Horticulture, are now on display in the Central Library and will remain in the exhibition cases through June.

Dr. Mack was elected an associate member of the National Academy of Design in 1944, in recognition of his work in wood engravings. He has exhibited in most of the nationally prominent galleries of the United States and has been invited to exhibit in London.

The National Academy of Design has elected 50 graphic artists to its membership since 1826, the date of its organization. Dr. Mack is one of the 29 contemporary members of the graphic arts section.

Wood engraving has been a hobby of Dr. Mack for 20 years. At an average of 50 hours apiece, he has completed some 40 designs, many of them local scenes.

Some of these engravings have been exhibited by the National Academy of Design, the Metropolitan Museum in New York, and the Smithsonian Institution in Washington. Several have been purchased by the Fine Arts Division of the Library of Congress.

Of particular local interest are the "Farmhouse at Snowstorm," "Branch Creek," "Old Main," and "Old Bank Barn, Linden Hall."

Mr. R. L. Austen of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation will visit campus Tuesday May 30 to interview Senior engineering students, particularly men not subject to the draft. Arrangements should be made as soon as possible in 204 Old Main.

Attention Freshmen

Freshmen who have not received their permanent matriculation cards call at the Registrar's office Tuesday. Bring temporary cards with you.

"Your help really counts when you're a WAC!"

say America's college girls

★ Corporal Margaret E. Wyant, University of California. "My family has three men in the Armed Forces, so I couldn't just wait for the war to end. In the Women's Army Corps, I'm working for victory—and I know it's work that'll help bring our boys home sooner."

★ Sergeant Anne Macintosh, New York University. "My job is one that any college girl would be proud to do—intelligence work at an Army post! With 239 different jobs to choose from, every Wac has a chance to do work she's fitted for and enjoys."

★ Private Mary E. Murray, South West Missouri Teachers' College. "Being a Wac makes me feel I'm helping my country—while I help myself, too. I'm getting valuable training and experience for a post-war career. And I'm all set to go new places."

★ Major Cora W. Bass, Mississippi State College. "As a member of the General Staff of the Second Service Command, I see daily the urgent need for more and more Wacs. To every college girl it's a chance to serve her country in a truly important way."

New WAC opportunity for college girls

If you want to finish your college work before starting your Army career, you can enlist now and arrange to be called later—any time within the next 4 months.

Memorial Day-

Old Main. Military heads and College personnel will form on Old Main steps. Students are asked to assemble on adjoining areas.

Following the singing of the first verse of "America" by the entire body, President Hetzel, accompanied by Lt. Col. Guy G. Mills, Lt. Comdr. Trusdell Wisner, Major Thomas E. Leet, and James Bell, will approach the flagpole. President Hetzel will then make a few remarks.

A Color Guard will surround the mast throughout the ceremony.

At the playing of taps, the flag will be raised from half mast to full mast. The National Anthem, played by the band, will conclude the ceremony. Servicemen will then march off with the playing of the Battle Hymn of the Republic by the band.
