Coeds Elect Struck, Devecka to Positions

Senators named Monday were Rose Devecka, senior senator; Jan Jansson, junior senator; Marjorie Blackwood, junior senator; Betsy Merkle, town senator, and Florence Porter, independent senator.

WSGA officers were elected after an 11-day campaign period which opened with a mass meeting in Schwab Auditorium May 18. WSGA's nominations were announced at that meeting. These nominees with the addition of those nominated Tuesday evening from the floor were chosen as candidates in the primary elections held Friday, May 26.

Installation for the new officers was held in the East lounge of Atherton at 7:00 p.m. Wednesday. Elected officers took office immediately after the installation. WSGA heads who are not returning for the Summer Semester will take office in the fall, and appointments will be made to fill the vacancies for the summer.

Blind since birth, and ordained as a Methodist minister, the speaker has been a leader in youth work for 14 years.

Thirty-five Hamilton Standard Propeller students attended the tea sponsored for them by the Junior Service Board at Atherton lounge Sunday afternoon.

We, The Women

With summer firmly established and finals looming up in the near future, the problem most coeds face is simple—"Shall we return for the summer semester or take that vacation that looks so tempting?" Possible solutions to our problem are conflicting.

The accelerated program is offering coeds a wonderful chance to save a year and a half and to graduate at an age which pre-war students would have deemed impossible. Important openings for women in many fields are at a maximum and will continue to be numerous until World War II veterans return to claim them. To some coeds this seems the practical answer.

But the will is often not enough to put coeds through eight straight semesters with no adequate breathing spaces. The grind is hard, courses are being stepped up, and vacations are decreasing in number and length. In some cases physical condition will prevent women from returning, and in others continuous study dulls the brain and the urge to learn turns into the urge to get out of the place with a piece of cardboard known as a diploma.

Rumor has it that the coed enrollment for next semester will take a noticeable drop. So it looks as though we have decided that a vacation is in order.

What to do with the vacation is another problem. Present conditions frown on a summer spent in loafing and acquiring a tan. There are many ways for college women to utilize their vacations. Defense workers, nurses' aides, office workers are all in demand, and aside from providing valuable practical experience, summer jobs relieve the monotony of attending classes.

Whatever the decision of coeds about the approaching semester, the important thing is to make it count. Too many men are dying and too many women are doing men's jobs to allow us to gaily throw away four months.

Horticulture Student Wins First IWA Scholarship

Mary Grainger, second semester junior in horticulture, is the first to win the $50 IWA scholarship, announces Alice Drumm, chairman of the scholarship committee.

Miss Grainger was selected on the basis of being an independent woman, in good scholastic standing, and in financial need of the scholarship.

Social Science Society Plans Initiation Banquet

Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honor society, will hold an initiation banquet in the cafeteria room of the Home Economics building at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Stern came to this country with her husband after he had escaped from a German concentration camp. She has three sons in this country, one of whom was graduated from the College School of Engineering.

Non-members are invited to hear the talk in the cafeteria room at 8 p.m.

The classical music hour, sponsored by the PSCA, is held at 304 Old Main, at 4:30 p.m. every Thursday. All are welcome to come in and listen to favorite records.

Women In Sports

DIVE into the luxurious White Hall pool on Saturday night, Play Night, as a relief from the wilting weather. Coeds can play badminton, bridge, tennis, bowl, or use the rifle range for relaxation. Marjorie Auster, staff member executive; Betty Pike, executive board member; and Lila Leaman, president of the Rifle Club, will take charge.

A TENNIS tournament for all College coeds starts next Monday as announced by Ella Mae Hotenstien. Contestants should sign up with their name and address at Student Union or White Hall bulletin board by noon Saturday. Tennis Club holds regular meetings at the tennis courts, or at White Hall in case of rain at 6:45 Tuesdays.

FIVE badminton matches have been played off. Semi-finals begin next Tuesday. Annette Keefe defeated Lila Leaman, Betty Henning won over Shirley Hadley, Eunice Hurlburt beat Madeline Cook, Nancy Harris defeated Priscilla Wagner, and Rebecca Walker defaulted to Joan Wolfe.

AS PART of WRA'S program to combine civilian-service-coed recreation on campus, the last informal dance this semester will feature the "Statesmen 14" band at White Hall June 17. Ruth Hill will vocalize and WSGA is helping sponsor the dance.

THE Theta's defeated Gamma Phi Betas in this week's softball games, Alice Hooper pitching for the AOP's helped to put them in the lead winning over Achio, 9-5. Watts Hall is in the running defeating the SDT's.
