

The Daily Collegian

One year ago, "The Daily Collegian" submitted to wartime conditions and became a weekly. For over a year the staff had been battling against increased printing cost, decreased student enrollment, wartime shortages, and advertisement curtailment.

A year previous to yielding to conditions, the staff ceased publication for a week. By so doing they proved to the faculty and students the necessity of having a campus daily. On May 26, 1942, "The Daily Collegian" started the most intensive subscription campaign in the College's newspaper history. Success of this drive enabled the paper to continue as a daily until the end of May '43.

From September 5, 1940, "The Daily Collegian" staff produced five papers weekly, every day except Sunday and Monday. Between the folds of these dailies, four to sixteen pages long, could be found regular campus news items, "Campus Calendar," editorials and many familiar columns as "Campuseer," "We the Women," "Old Mania," "A Lean and Hungry Look," and "Women in Sports." In addition to these "The Daily Collegian" each day featured a column of "Late News Flashes" and "Between the Lions," a sports column.

"The Daily Collegian" was the successor to the "Penn State Collegian," a full size eight column semi-weekly started in 1904, and "Free Lance," started in 1887.

Since July 1943, "The Daily Collegian" has been published weekly under the name "The Collegian." Perhaps after the war we will again be able to resume publication of "The Daily Collegian" as Penn State once knew it.

Schedule-

(Continued from page six)

Harry L. Kriner, Irving C. Boerjin, Floyd C. Fretz, and Clarence M. Long. Moving picture: "Pop Rings the Bell." 10 Sparks Building.

1:30 p.m.—Superintendents' and Principals' Conference. Presiding: J. G. Everhard, superintendent of schools, Huntingdon.

Topic: "Problems of Rehabilitation and Guidance." Speakers: Harry Crosson, manager of regional office, Veterans' Administration, Philadelphia; Capt. Henry M. Gross, chief of Veterans' Personnel Division, State Selective Service; Kenneth S. Covey, manager, Veterans' Administration, Pittsburgh; Ralph Harpster, vocational rehabilitation officer, Veterans' Administration, Pittsburgh.

Panel discussion. Chairman: J. G. Everhard. Participants: M. M. Walter, chief of vocational rehabilitation division, State Department of Public Instruction; Dr. B. V. Moore, head of the Department of Education and Psychology; Dr. Herbert Koepf-Baker, professor of speech and speech education; George H. Parkes, director of Williamsport Technical Institute; and William O. Ilgenfritz, Veterans' Employment Representative for Pennsylvania, War Manpower Commission.

Friday

2:15 p.m.—Meeting of Central Pennsylvania Branch of National Vocational Guidance Association with the Officers and Trustees. Panel discussion. Topic: "The Guidance Worker's Unique Responsibilities for Postwar Occupational Adjustments." Panel members: (Officers and Trustees of N.V.G.A.) Dr. M. R. Trabue, president; Miss Mildred M. Hickman, Cleveland, O., first vice-president; Dr. C. L. Shartle, Washington, D. C., second vice-president; William L. Moore, Cleveland, O., treasurer; Christine Melcher, New York, N. Y., executive secretary; Dr. Margaret E. Bennett, Pasadena, Calif., trustee; Wm. K. Hopkins, San Francisco, Calif., trustee; and Leonard M. Miller, Harrisburg, Pa., trustee. 121 Sparks.

3 p.m.—Motion pictures: "Clothing for Children"; "Posture for Poise"; and "Fashion Horizons."

4:30 p.m.—Picnic for members of National Vocational Guidance Association. College campus.

Members of Alpha Xi Delta traveled to Whipple's Dam on a swimming party Thursday evening. After swimming, individual steaks were served.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Reverend Curtis Junker, field secretary for youth work with the National Council of the Episcopal Church, who very soon will be going into the Navy as a chaplain, will lead a discussion on

"The Real Issue of Things"

This Sunday evening at 6:30 p. m. at the Rectory

304 South Fraxier Street

Episcopal servicemen, students, and friends are cordially invited.

Frosh Customs-

(Continued from page one)

back to Don's mind the fight conducted at Rec Hall between freshmen and sophomore boxers at Christmas time to decide if customs were to be removed. Don would see freshmen herded on the football field between quarters and marched around the stands singing college songs.

Turning away from the campus, Don would depart convinced that the present day freshmen were withstanding their initiation into college life like troopers. The freshmen are not griping because they are made to attend rallies, and they are cooperating by carrying on the "hello" spirit.

But Don was hardened by the rough treatment of the upperclassmen and after customs were removed, he felt that he belonged on campus and could encourage college activities.

Even customs has been affected by the times.

CLASSIFIED SECTION

LOST—One silver case Elgin wrist watch. Please call 4728.

Real Italian spaghetti and meals served at 501 W. College avenue. Call and make your reservations, 3412.

The Alpha Phi Delta is open to students for room and board. Call 3412.

FOR RENT—Seven-room apartment. Fine location, completely furnished, over Skellar. Call Herb 4409.

FOUND—Pen. Vicinity Sparks. Owner pays for ad, identifies, and it's his or hers. 124 Pugh street, Apartment 5.

We hope an honest person found a small black purse. Return to Student Union.

MAID SERVICE wanted. Phone 4409. 1t-ch—PT

Have You Seen Our Display?

- wall plaques
- vases
- greeting cards
- wood carvings
- novelty stationery
- pottery

The Treasure House

Lion Cub Boarding At Central Park Zoo

With football season just around the corner, people are starting to wonder what ever became of the Penn State mascot, the real live lion cub. Is he still alive? Where is he? Is he coming back to college? Will he be at the football games?

If you remember, the cub was presented to the student body by the makers of Bromo-Seltzer when the Vox Pop radio show broadcasted from Recreation Hall last November. Prof. James F. Shigley of the School of Agriculture was put in charge of feeding and taking care of him.

But it seems that the little fellow fell victim to that disease that gets so many college newcomers their first couple of days—homesickness. He wanted to go back to the Central Park Zoo and his mother. Just to give his argument a little punch he refused to eat and had to be fed milk from a bottle like a baby. Besides he didn't like all the people that came to visit him.

It looked for a while as though he was going to die, and then the college decided to send him back to the big city for a visit, with the understanding that he would be returned as soon as he was a little older.

Everybody seemed to have forgotten all about him until recently, when Prof. J. K. Thornton of the agronomy department was in New York, he decided to find out what had become of Little Leo. So he called up the Zoo and found that the little guy was still there, very much alive. Of course he was a little bigger now. He'd just as soon chew off your right arm as not, but he was still the property of the College.

So it looked like the Nittany Lion was returning to Penn State. However, the problem of what to do with him was a big one. After all, you can't have a lion prowling up and down campus walks on dark nights. There is no place on campus where he can be safely kept, and because of the war, it is impossible to build him a new home. In addition, the College hasn't figured out where to get enough ration points to keep him from starving to death.

So it looks like Leo will have to serve as the College's mascot ex-officio for a while, at least until after the war. Then he may return to State College for keeps.

Six Frosh Are Exempt From English Comp I

Six newly-enrolled freshmen have been exempted from English composition I at the College because of their general excellence in English, Professor T. J. Gates of the English composition department announced today. More than 360 freshmen submitted to the test.

In the test, which is given to all members of the new class, equal emphasis is given to spelling, vocabulary, punctuation, grammar, and diction. Exemptions are accorded only to those students who attain outstanding grades.

Exemptions were accorded this semester to Frederick T. Andrews, John E. Borne, James O. Dunaway, Helen M. Gaardsmoe, Martin Light and Elliot Shapiro.

Hillel Gives All-American Music Concert Sunday

Hillel will present an American program of music at 6:30 p. m. Sunday. Records to be played are Ferde Groffe's "Grand Canyon Suite," George Gershwin's "Concerto in F," and music from "Showboat."

Monday evening at 7 the Foundation will show a 16mm. sound movie entitled "Palestine at War," narrated by George Putnam, NBC overseas reporter. The film is sponsored by the Zionist club.

New officers are Martin Cohn, president; Vonnie Horwin, women's vice-president; Gunther Cohn, men's vice-president; Ina Rosen, secretary; and Sis Pokempner, treasurer.

Co-op Elects Members

The Nittany Co-op at a recent meeting voted into active membership the following: Nancy Coffin, Mary Evans, Peggy Knight, Eirma Swank, Martin Alperin, William Luxion, Gene MacDonald, Robert McLaughlin, John Sengle, Wolden Magann, Molly Pickering, Mary Grimison, Louise Hartley.

Elections-

(Continued from page one)

Sixth Semester

President

Chuck Alcorn, Key .....58

Lynn Taylor, Lion .....37

Secretary-Treasurer

Eve Wasson, Key .....53

Jean Tritschler, Lion .....40

Fifth Semester

President

Fritz Huntington, Lion ....27

Jack Davenport, Key .....26

Secretary-Treasurer

June Thomas, Lion .....38

Jean Weaver, Key .....16

Fourth Semester

President

Terry Ruhlman, Key .....64

Tom Smith, Lion .....23

Secretary-Treasurer

Jean Bosch, Key .....66

Marlies Muller, Lion .....20

Third Semester

President

Bill Morton, Key .....72

Fay Young, Lion .....33

Secretary-Treasurer

Nan Charles, Key .....74

Pat Reiff, Lion .....31

Second Semester

President

Bill Jaffurs, Key .....42

Frank Fryburg, Lion .....25

Secretary-Treasurer

Reed Pratt, Lion .....37

Paul Thayer, Key .....30

No date has been set yet for first semester elections according to Galvanek, but they will probably be about the end of the semester. A new elections code will be drawn up for these elections.

Old Main Gate Featured On New 'Engineer' Cover

Continuing the series of full-color campus photos, the main gates will be the cover motif of the new Penn State Engineer to be on sale July 30.

Included in this issue will be articles entitled "Nothing New about the Rocket Gun," "New Metallic Magnesium," and "Plastics on Parade," in addition to the usual features.

This is just an example of the size of things that are found by the Collegian Classifieds for only 35c. Call at Student Union.