Julia Brill Announces WAVE Program Changes

A change in the method of selecting officer candidates for the WAVES has been announced by Julia Brill, vocational advisor to women in the School of Liberal Arts.

With the exception of doctors, dentists, occupational therapists, and people in similar vocation, officer candidates are no longer being taken from among college seniors. Instead they are being selected from among the enlisted personnel. College women will henceforth have to enlist and qualify from there for officer's training.

This new program, formerly the V-9 program, is being run in the same manner as the corresponding WAC program.

All coeds who have done surgical dressings this semester and all supervisors are invited to a desert party at the home of the advisor Mrs. H. S. Brunner, 732 Holmes street, 6:45 to 9 p. m. Wednesday.

The party is being sponsored by Mortar Board and the Dean of Women's office.

8 Coeds Mother Infant, Manage Hillcrest House

Eight coeds in the Hillcrest Home Management House, situated in back of the library, are mothering an infant and keeping house for the first time in their lives—and they really enjoy it.

For half a semester the junior or senior coeds live at Hillcrest as part of their home economics curriculum. They learn the fundamental problems of managing a home and caring for an infant to prepare them for their future roles as wives and mothers. Miss Nell Howerly of the department lives with the girls and offers helpful advice.

Hillcrest's pride and joy, Nancy Anne, is only five months old, but the girls think she behaves like a little lady. "She's the ideal child. She doesn't fuss about her food, and what's more important, she doesn't cry."

When Nancy sees her milk bottle, she waves her tiny hands, kicks her feet, and opens her large blue eyes very wide. To express her appreciation Nancy smiles and purrs.

In return for her good care Nancy gurgles from her crib early in the morning and awakens the coeds for their classes and the day's work. Nancy sleeps in the nursery which is furnished with a chest of drawers, bath table, crib, and rocking chair.

When the girls enter the home management house they decide what household tasks need to be done and divide the work among themselves. Every week each coed performs a different duty. Helen Martin this week plans the menus and cooks the meals, assisted by Renee Konopke.

As Nancy's mother this week Helen Wahl, assisted by Dorothy Christi, prepares the baby's milk according to formula and feeds her. Nancy drinks her milk-breakfast at 6 o'clock in the morning. The mother places blankets in the baby's kiddie-koop at 10 o'clock and allows Nancy to sleep on the porch until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The house is cleaned by Betty Milota and Ina Shilin this week. Ruth Eberlie washes the house linens and Nancy's clothes. Manager Peggy Joyce Failing supervises the other duties, sets the table for the day's meals, and keeps the accounts.

The same opportunities are offered to home economics majors in the Beecher and Benedict Home Management Houses, also situated behind campus.
