Prof Voices V-Day Plans

Victorious allies will be sowing "the dragon seed of future wars" if they adopt any proposal to parcel out parts of the German nation among themselves, Professor G. J. Wurfl of the College warned today.

Professor Wurfl, former German Imperial army officer whose son is now overseas with the U. S. Army Air Forces, recommended the Reich be ruled by a commission composed of England, the United States, Russia, and Germany itself.

The masses of German people, he explained, follow leaders such as Hitler only because of confusion, fear, and coercion. Democracy, he believes, could be successfully established with allied help.

"Even if the allies maintained military rule in Germany for the next 50 years," the German professor emphasized, "only chaos could result from a plan for dismemberment."

Such dismemberment, he added, would so anger and humiliate the German people that they once again would turn to thoughts of war, and would commission their scientists to go to their laboratories and seek news ways to fight.

Health Service Reports Fewer Colds on Campus

The College health service has noticed a considerable decrease in the amount of colds and other respiratory disorders among Army and Navy personnel, Dr. Joseph Ritenour announced.

Servicemen stationed at the College have been issued sulphur pills daily, and these seem to be the cause of the decrease, the doctor stated.

Calling to mind the serious epidemic of influenza at the College last year, Dr. Ritenour urges to make payment at the scheduled time.
