PSCA Quota Half Raised

As the PSCA financial drive swings into its final stage, approximately one-half of the student-faculty quota has been reached. Any member of the faculty or student body who has not been contacted by a solicitor is requested to bring his contribution to the PSCA office in Old Main.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry S. Brunner will be faculty host and hostess, and Judd Healy and Jean Bosch, fifth semester president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, will be student host and hostess at an Open House in 304 Old Main from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Mary Clouser and Mary McMillan, publicity chairmen, have announced the following publicity committee: Dorothy Coffiel, Betty Dunkel, Thomas Ellers, Barbara Green, Margaret Greich, Winifred Inhov, Patricia Melly, Shirley Radboard, and Betty Shenk.

Detroit Engineer Speaks

J. O. Almen, head of the department of mechanical engineering, General Motors Corporation, Detroit, will discuss the "Effect of Residual Stresses on the Fatigue Strength of Structural Materials" in 121 Mineral Industries, 7:30 o'clock tomorrow.

Four Firms Offer Senior Interviews

Representatives of the Bell Telephone Company, Curtiss-Wright Corporation, Kellett Aircraft Corporation, and the Radio Corporation of America will visit the campus this week. The College Placement Service announced today. All arrangements for interviews should be made at 204 Old Main as soon as possible.

H. R. Clark of the Radio Corporation of America, who will be on campus tomorrow morning, wishes to talk to eighth semester seniors in the mechanical engineering, electrical engineering, physics, mathematics, chemical engineering, metallurgy, and secretarial science curricula.

Monday afternoon and Tuesday, W. H. Colcord, administrative engineer of the Kellett Aircraft Corporation, will interview seventh and eighth semester seniors in aeronautical engineering, civil engineering, mathematics, mechanical engineering, and physics.

Wednesday, D. F. Carrell of the Bell Telephone Company will interview women students, graduating in February, who are interested in public contact work.

Miss Kathryn Cook, representative from the Curtiss-Wright Corporation, is interested in contacting seventh and eighth semester students from the following curricula: aeronautical, mechanical, civil, and electrical engineering; liberal arts; mathematics; physics; chemistry; secretarial science; and commerce and finance. She will be at the College Friday.

COLLEGIAN CORRECTION

Because of a typographical error, the Collegian misspelled the name of the Penn State Treble Singers' organization two weeks ago as "the Penn Stable Treble Singers." Sorry.

Powell, Loy, Asta Are Together Again

Nick, Nora and Asta, that famous threesome of "Thin Man" fame, got together for the first time in more than two years when Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Thin Man Goes Home" went before the cameras. The film opens Saturday at the Cathaum Theatre.

With more than three hundred extras to serve as a welcoming committee in an elaborate cabaret sequence, the production got off to a flying start under the direction of Richard Thorpe.

Written by Dwight Taylor, "The Thin Man Goes Home" promises to be one of the most amusing of the entire series. It takes the zany, cosmopolitan couple out of big city surroundings and dumps them in the comparatively small community of Sycamore Springs, where Nick Charles uses his amazing powers of deduction for two express purposes. The first is to unravel an epidemic of murder and mystery in the quiet little city; the second, to convince his father, the town medico, that he, Nick, had done right by himself in spurning a degree of M. D. in favor of a private detective's badge.

Reading Seminar

Ninety-eight of the nation's leading vision specialists, psycho-educational instructors, neurologists, and remedial reading teachers are attending the eighth annual seminar on Reading Disabilities at the College this week.

The conference, which ends today, is designed to coordinate practices and research in all fields relating to reading.

Included on the program are discussions of the following problems: approaches to the analysis of reading disabilities, psycho-physiological and psycho-educational factors, capacity for reading, determination of reading, achievement, case typings and prognosis, directed reading activities, experience approach, and word perception.

Supplementing the speeches and panel discussions will be demonstrations by members of the Reading Clinic Staff.
