

Fuller Wins First Prize For Research

Dr. Donald C. Fuller, assistant professor in charge of the curriculum in business education at the College, has been awarded first place in the third annual open contest for research studies of merit in business education. The contest was conducted by Delta Pi Epsilon, national graduate fraternity in business education.

The title of Dr. Fuller's study was "Reading Factors in Type-writing." It will be published by Oklahoma A. and M. College, and the author will receive 50 copies.

Dr. Fuller, who came to the College in November, 1943, holds three degrees: a bachelor of science and a master of arts from Boston University, and a doctor of education degree from Harvard University.

Prior to coming to the College, he taught in high schools in New Jersey, Massachusetts, and New Hampshire, and at Westbrook Junior College, Portland, Maine.

He is a member of the following honorary and professional organizations: Eastern Commercial Teacher's Association, Tri-State Commercial Education Association, National Business Teacher's Association, National Education Association, Pennsylvania Business Education Association, Pennsylvania State Education Association, and Pi Gamma Mu, social science honorary fraternity.

Nine Faculty Members Protest Rainey Dismissal

Among the more than 1,000 religious, educational, labor and community leaders protesting the summary dismissal of Dr. Homer P. Rainey as president of the University of Texas, were nine members of the College faculty.

The statement, which characterized the series of disputes between Dr. Rainey and the Texas Board of Trustees as "a serious blow to the fundamental democratic concepts for which our country is fighting today", was sponsored by the academic council of the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties.

Those who signed from here were Dr. Harrison H. Arnold, professor of Spanish; Walter Coutu, associate professor of sociology; Dr. Kenneth Hutchinson, associate professor of economics; Dr. Bruce V. Moore, head of the department of education and psychology.

H. G. Pyle, supervisor of Informal Instruction, Dr. Paul Selam, professor of history; Simon Marcson, assistant professor of sociology; Dr. George E. Simpson, head of the sociology department; and W. L. Werner, professor of English literature.

1716 'Ags' Increase Ranks of Armed Forces

Approximately 1716 faculty members, alumni, former students and employees of the School of Agriculture at the College have seen service in the armed forces in World War II, according to a survey recently compiled by the committee on wartime service records of the school. Of these, a large majority are in the army and 33 are faculty members.

Most recent records show that 44 of these former "Ags" have made the supreme sacrifice for their country. The department of forestry has a larger number of former faculty members, alumni, and students in the armed services than any other department in the school and has suffered the longest list of casualties.

Special recognition of valor in the performance of duty by 23 "Ags" has been made, several of whom have received battlefield promotions. A few members of the school staff and others have been honorably discharged and returned to their former duties.

Chapel

When God Speaks

"When Does God Speak" is the topic on which Rev. L. B. Moseley, minister of the First Baptist Church of Pittsburgh, will address the College Chapel audience, Sunday.

To honor the day which has been set aside as Red Cross Sunday, the choir will sing the hymn, "Light of the Anxious Heart." Dr. Francis J. Tschan, professor of European history, wrote the original music for the hymn, and John Henry Newman translated the words from an old Latin chant.

The aria "Lord God of Abraham" from "Elijah" will be sung by Michael Rosenberger. Following the solo, the choir will present "Cast Thy Burden Upon the Lord."

English Lit Majors Name New Club 'Belles Litres'

Belles Litres, the traditional term for good literature, has been selected as the name of the newly formed club for English literature majors.

Winifred Worrell heads the club as president; Lois Burreigh, vice-president; and Joan Bock, secretary-treasurer. Charter members include Leon Aaron, Helen Deveneau, Carol Dickmann, Charlotte Geller, Constance Guy, Claire Kohn, Betty Locke, and Martha Moesch.

The purpose of the club, as stated by Prof. D. S. Meade, is to promote fellowship among the students and faculty of English literature, to stimulate the love of good literature, and to sponsor projects to enrich the cultural life of the college community. Membership is limited to English literature majors.

PRESIDENT R. D. HETZEL

Hetzel Welcomes Incoming Students

President Ralph D. Hetzel's message to incoming students follows:

New Students: On behalf of the faculty and the student body I welcome all new students to Penn State. I am pleased to learn that in addition to freshmen and transfers the new students include a large number of war veterans.

All of you are enjoying opportunities of democratic education unexcelled at any time or any place. Penn State, as the Land-Grant College of Pennsylvania is peculiarly committed to education for life in a democratic society. By the terms of the G. I. Bill and Public Law 16, the opportunities for democratic education have been extended in a most significant way.

It is my hope and belief that all of you will take full advantage of these opportunities to prepare for lives of usefulness and service, lives of which you and Penn State will be proud in the years of peace which we confidently believe lie ahead.

R. D. HETZEL, President

Trabue Heads Guidance, Personnel Associations

Dr. M. R. Trabue, dean of the School of Education at the College, has been elected president of the Council of Guidance and Personnel Associations.

The Council coordinates the guidance and personnel activities of the 12 national associations which are members. The current major project is coordination of community agencies for more effective counseling of veterans and displaced war workers.

Dean Trabue is also president of the National Vocational Guidance Association, a member-organization of the Council with approximately 4,000 members.

Placement

Part-time Work

Students wishing part time jobs are urged by George N. P. Leetch, Director of the College Placement Service, to register in the College Placement Office, 204 Old Main, as soon as possible.

At present the office has openings for students to serve on the Campus Patrol, to do motion picture projection work, to help with poultry husbandry duties, and to serve as hotel bell hops and bowling alley pin boys. According to Mr. Leetch, later in the season there will be opportunities to work outdoors in gardens.

Senior students are advised by Mr. Leetch to start conferring at once with their department heads or their school placement officers concerning after graduation positions. He suggests that they watch their school bulletin boards as well as the bulletin board next to Student Union for placements announcements of interviews and job opportunities.

Faculty members desiring student help should call the College Placement Service, 711, extension 128.

Inter-American Specialist To Meet Foreign Students

Dr. Paul E. Smith, specialist in Inter-American Educational Relations, will be at the College tomorrow to meet foreign students on the campus, reports Dr. Palmer C. Weaver, of the School of Education.

Dr. Smith, of the United States Office of Education, Washington, D.C., will discuss problems with the students and help them with any difficulties they may have. A luncheon will be served at the University Club, 12 o'clock tomorrow.

The Inter-American Demonstration Center, the agency of the College which cooperates with the United States Office of Education, has assisted entering foreign students at the College. Last semester approximately 40 foreign students were enrolled, 20 of them being from Latin America.

Average age of the 80 ex-servicemen enrolled at the College this semester is 22 years.

Ross Lehman Repatriated On Gripsholm

Second Lt. Ross B. Lehman, '42, former Collegian editor has arrived in the country on the Gripsholm. Lt. Lehman, bombardier on a flying fortress, was officially declared missing in action on May 10, 1944. The War Department informed his parents that Lehman was shot down over Austria.

After no news for six weeks, Lehman's parents learned unofficially through short wave broadcasts that their son was a German (Continued on page five)

"Wintory Blast" ...he's a Nasty Chap

These days, "Wintory Blast" is at his worst, so take care! His chilly salute brings discomfort to sensitive lips... and makes them so unsightly.

Be ready for him. Keep a handy tube of Roger & Gallet original Lip Pomade in your pocket. And whenever you step out-of-doors smooth its invisible, healing film over lip membranes.

For both men and women, Roger & Gallet Lip Pomade has long been the accepted relief for chapped, cracked lips. Pick up a tube today at any drug store.
