WSGA Plans Hello Walks To Revive Campus Spirit

In an attempt to revive the traditional Penn State "hello spirit," WSGA is sponsoring the designation of special "hello walks," according to M. M. Dunlap, acting president of WSGA. These walks will be the diagonal walks leading to Old Main, and students will say hello to each student they meet on these three walks. The "hello spirit" will carry through to all parts of the campus, but special emphasis will be placed on these "hello walks."

In cooperation with this renewed emphasis on campus tradition, observance of senior walk will also go into effect, Miss Dunlap added. As the tradition stands, freshmen may not walk on senior walk which runs on the campus side of College avenue from Allen street to Pugh street.

Prof. Oesterling Warns Consumers About Trimmings

The much-chided woman who buys a dress for its "trimmings" may be the wisest shopper after all, in the opinion of Dr. J. F. Oesterling, assistant professor of textile chemistry at the College.

Dr. Oesterling, who has tested thousands of garments in the clothing research laboratory at the College, explained that a garment fashioned from excellent material may be ruined if the trimmings don't hold up in laundering or dry cleaning.

As an example, he cited cloth with glued-on designs which melt when heat is applied. Imitation leather belts or ones pasted together frequently stiffen or fall apart when cleaned, he said, adding that genuine leather or solid cloth belts are "the only safe buy."

Advising shoppers to purchase only metal sequins, Dr. Oesterling pointed out that four of the five kinds currently on the market will not stand cleaning and pressing.

The clothing expert also urged consumers to examine carefully painted wooden buttons or garments where the trim of one color may fade into the other. All seams, he added, should be deep and firmly stitched.
