

Panhel Works To Promote Welfare of Campus Coeds

(Editor's note: This is the fifth in a series of articles concerning the organization of prominent campus groups. It is published in conjunction with the new All-College Cabinet movement to foster more school spirit.)

Panhellenic Association, made up of two representatives from each active sorority on campus, has a three-fold purpose: to work for the good of the College and all its women students, to benefit the sororities of the College, and to unify the interests of sorority and non-sorority women.

In addition to sorority representatives, membership of Panhel consists of the dean of women or her assistant and two Panhel advisors. One advisor is chosen each year to serve for two years, and in order to have as many sororities as possible represented on advisor membership, no advisor may serve two consecutive terms.

Panhel has four officers, a president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, who serve a term of one college year. The presidency is held by the senior representative from each national sorority, rotating in the order of the sorority's founding on the campus.

The office of vice-president is held by the junior representative from each national sorority next in founding to the presiding sorority; she automatically becomes president of the organization the following year.

The secretary and treasurer are elected from the junior and senior representatives by a majority vote of members. Representatives from all sororities are eligible for these offices.

Panhel has two standing committees, scholarship and eligibility for initiation. The scholarship committee, made up of one member of Panhellenic Council, works with the Dean of Women's office in securing semester averages for the presentation of a scholarship cup awarded each semester to the sorority attaining the highest All-College average.

The committee of eligibility for initiation, made up of one member of Panhel and the dean of women, secures official grades for all women about to be initiated into campus sororities.

The association has the power to punish any local or national sorority that breaks any rules of rushing or pledging. Violations are reported by the president to the president of Panhellenic Council and are investigated by the judicial committee. This committee, made up of the executive committee and two women from city Panhellenic whose sororities are not represented on campus, acts upon all violations of the constitution and the rushing code that are submitted to it.

According to the Panhellenic constitution, no girl may be initiated into any sorority unless she has an official All-College average of plus one. Pledgeships expire at the end of one calendar year if the pledge has not been initiated by that time. Any girl who breaks her pledge or is released from it is not eligible for pledging to another sorority until one year from the day on which her pledge was released or broken.

Clubs that desire to be affiliated with Panhel must be in existence one year from the date that they are officially recognized by the Student Welfare Committee, during which time they must comply

Galbraith Expresses Confidence in Ex-GI's

Ex-servicemen enrolled at the College under the GI Bill of Rights were described today by Robert E. Galbraith, faculty counselor of veterans, as "more serious in their approach to education than the average college student."

"After knocking around the world," he said, "they realize more fully the value of an education. They know what they want to do. For example, they little difficulty deciding what course they want to take."

Their greatest problem, he believes, is learning to concentrate on studies again. After the routine of military life, he explained, self-discipline comes hard to many of them.

"Withal," the Penn State counselor volunteered, "I like them, and I have a great deal of faith in their ability to make good in college. With patience and common sense," he added, "it's possible to solve most of their problems."
