

Lion Baseball Team To Encounter Colgate, Bloomsburg Teachers

The Lion baseball team will face Colgate University at Hamilton, N.Y., tomorrow for the first encounter with the Red Raiders this season. The game with Colgate which was to have been played on New Beaver Field Saturday was postponed because of rainy weather.

Wednesday Coach Joe Bedenk's club will travel to Bloomsburg to meet the Teachers nine for the second time within three weeks. In the first tussle, State swamped Bloomsburg, 12-2.

Coach Bedenk will probably use his same starting lineup with ex-serviceman Joe Leith at first base, Navy trainee Andy Delorenzo at second, and Guadalcanal veteran Joe Tepsic at third base. Dan Hopkins will start at short-stop.

Freshman Don Herb will hold down the catcher's position while any one of the four pitchers may receive the starting nod. Freshman Bill Luther, Bill Clark and Bill Hay have all had experience on the mound this season and have had their ups and downs in hurling. Seaman Dick Boykin also may see action in this position.

In the field letterman Glenn Smith may start in centerfield, Navy trainee El Stetler at his usual leftfield berth, and Dan Williams in right field.

Nittany Tracksters Meet Colgate in Season's Final

The next Lion track meet will be with Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y., next Saturday. It will be the second time this season that Penn State has met Colgate. In their previous meet on May 4, the Lions topped Colgate, 75-51.

Practically the same men who ran against Muhlenberg will make the trip. Many of the events the men will compete in, however, have been changed.

The team has been practicing intensively despite the poor condition of the track, and many of the field events men have bettered previous records.

Coach George Harvey is trying out several milers at the two-mile distance. Walter Hopper and Paul Smith, who have been running the mile for Penn State quite successfully, seem to be able to do the same in the two-mile distance.

The team will be handicapped at Colgate by injuries sustained since the last meet and by the loss of several runners who are unable to make the trip.

'Diminutive' Frey Stars as Matman, Gymnast, Vault

Hal Frey's just a mite of a man, but he's still the hardest working athlete on the Penn State campus.

Gene Wettstone, Lion coach, says the diminutive Lehighton youth is "just about the hardest worker I've ever had in the gym sport."

Before the gym team's entry into the National AAU championships was officially sanctioned there was no competition for Frey in that sport, so he turned to wrestling.

In his first year as a matman he showed remarkable improvement from week to week, scored two dual meet victories, and finished third in the 128-pound class at the Eastern intercollegiate.

Then, with wrestling at an end, he returned to his favorite gym sport, finishing second in the tumbling event of the National AAU and fourth in the all-around to amass 19 points for the title-winning Lion team.

The year before, with his right foot in a cast, he won the Eastern intercollegiate all-around title and the National AAU tumbling title.

After this year's gym competition he joined the track squad and four days later was rated the team's second best pole vaulter.

A discharged veteran who served nearly a year in the Seabees, he plans to take it easy this summer.

"I'm going to work on the farm—or maybe drive a truck again," he said.

Cornell Stickmen Defeat Lions, 7-6, For Season's Fifth Consecutive Loss

A last-half rally by the Cornell University lacrosse team edged out the Nittany Lion stickmen, 7-6, Saturday, for the Lions' fifth consecutive loss of the season.

The game, which was played on the Golf Course Field before a small crowd during a continuous drizzle, was close throughout, with neither team taking a safe lead. The Lions, playing their best game of the season, dominated play in the first half and held a 2-0 lead at the midpoint.

The second half, however, was a different story. The Red began to click with a well guarded defense and set shots on the offense, while the Lion defense weakened in the last quarter.

Until the last six minutes of the fourth quarter the Lions held a 6-4 margin, but the Ithacans, with some fast, well-placed shots, tied it up with less than a minute of play remaining. With about 15 seconds left, the Lion goalie took the ball out from behind the net and passed it. A Cornell man took the pass, turned and shot the ball in for the clincher.

"Cornell really played an inspired game in the second half," Coach Thiel said after the match. "We outplayed them in the first and third quarters, but they were superior from then on."

The Lions will play the Big Red again at Ithaca on June 9. For the return meet, Coach Thiel has this week and most of next to iron out the errors of the first contest.

"We'll have to improve on our offensive play and general fundamentals, especially stick handling," the mentor said. "We had more shots than Cornell, but ours went straight at the goalie. We would have had at least 3 or 4 more points with better placed shots."
