

Lynch Opens New Cabinet's First Session

Panar Heads Committee To Reopen 'Swing Inn'

The newly-elected All-College Cabinet swung into action Tuesday in an hour and a half session under the guidance of president Michael Lynch.

After a brief explanation of the duties of the various semester officers by Mr. Lynch, the discussion turned to the possibility of reopening "Swing Inn" this semester. Jess Panar was appointed chairman of the following committee to investigate the situation: Sally Bernstein, June First, Rita Grossman, Mary Haines, Amy Kalliney, William Morton, Frank Schneider, and Stanley Ziff.

Chairman Judd Healy pointed out that there is still a representative from the fifth semester to be appointed to Tribunal. President Lynch appointed Robert McGregor to represent Cabinet in the standing nominating committee composed of the chairmen of Judicial and Tribunal, Dean of Men, Dean of Women, and a representative from Women's Student Government Association.

Cabinet then approved a motion stating that copies of the Cabinet Constitution be distributed to all first semester students and transfers. Freshmen will be quizzed on its provisions when they take their blue-book on college customs and traditions.

Keeping in line with political pledges, Cabinet expressed favor toward the establishment of a student book exchange. The following committee was selected to report on the project: Joseph Steel, chairman; Jewel Baronoff, Mary Margaret Dunlap, and Dorothy Widmer.

According to the revisions of the Cabinet Constitution made last semester, class meetings should be scheduled by the semester presidents within two weeks after elections. Cabinet voted to extend this period one week in order that more time may be devoted to the planning and organizing of these meetings.

Former Theta Xi House Now International Home For 16 Men Students

Since the beginning of the semester a new international, inter-racial, inter-religious house, called Fairmont House, East, has been operating at the corner of Locust lane and Fairmont avenue in the old Theta Xi house, formerly occupied by the A. S. T. I.P.P.

The idea of a democratic, inter-cultural house was started by a co-ed group of students at the Westminster Foundation last March. With the help of Rev. Donald W. Carruthers and Dr. George E. Simpson, the group obtained a house and put their plan into effect.

At the present time there are 16 men students representing many racial, religious and cultural backgrounds living at Fairmont House, East. The house is run on a co-operative system; the students share all expenses toward running a dwelling unit. No meals are served, and all house duties are shared by the students.

The student executive committee is made up of Henry L. Livas, chairman; Martin Alperin, vice chairman; Bernard Byers, secretary-treasurer; and Robert M. Moore, Jr., house manager.

Members of the advisory committee include Mrs. Arthur T. Thompson, secretary; Dr. George E. Simpson; Dr. Henry L. Yeagley; and Rev. Donald W. Carruthers.

The project will run through the summer semester and if successful may be continued on a larger scale during following semesters.

Tribunal Bids 9 Frosh to Wear Eccentric Attire

Nine frosh will don the eccentric costumes designed by Tribunal this morning and will wear them until 5 p. m. Thursday.

George Miller, who was sentenced to take a quiz last week, appeared before the judicial on charges of dating. Upon entering the room, he said, "I will wear anything you give me. I'm not ashamed of it. I know your object is to get every freshman up here, and customs don't mean a thing." A long white flannel night shirt, a white night cap and mules will compose his outfit, and he will carry a lighted candle at all times.

Nick Danyluk, Jules Steinberg, and M. Liebman will wear a sandwich sign and carry a sprinkler filled with water at all times. Each time they pass the willow tree on the mall, they must water it because they failed to button to it.

Because he broke dating customs, Benny Finesod will be attired in a short skirt, lady's picture hat, and complete facial makeup for the week. E. A. Hook will wear sandwich sign and a green lamp.

AAF Slates Exhibition

The Army Air Force Technical Training Command will hold a demonstration of training equipment and teaching devices used by AAF TTC in the Armory at 1 p. m. Thursday. Motion pictures will be shown in 107 Main Engineering at 11 a. m. Thursday.

The demonstration will be conducted by the Educational Demonstration Program team consisting of three Army Air Force officers and three enlisted men. In civilian life these men were engaged in the field of education, and in the AAF TTC they were instructors.

The mission of the unit is to demonstrate to civilian educators the teaching methods and techniques which have been developed in the Army Air Forces in the present war.

Various mock-ups and visual aids, which are being used at the present in the AAF technical and flying training schools, will be shown. The program will include, in addition, a discussion of approximately 100 separate mock-ups described in booklets on display and the scientific principals which may be taught and demonstrated with these mock-ups.

Proper methods for requisitioning the material being made available and the present status of the supply of these items will be discussed.

The four-hour program will begin promptly at 1 p. m. and it is requested that everyone be on time in order to avoid interruptions.

WRA Stages Traditional Summer Square Dance

The WRA square dance, an institution of long standing at the College, will be held at the White Hall parking lot, 9 o'clock to 12 midnight tomorrow, announced Mary Gundel, president of the WRA summer executive board.

The dance has been held annually for several years and has always been well attended by students, faculty members, townspeople and servicemen who are invited to attend at no charge.

Fred Hartwick will serve as caller Saturday night and music will be supplied by the Bald Eagle Ramblers.

In case of rain, the dance will be in Rec Hall.

Pre-Law Society Elects

Pi Lambda Sigma, national pre-legal fraternity which has been inactive on campus since the beginning of the war, has been reorganized under the advisement of Prof. Joseph T. Law.

Heading the new organization, which has about 30 members, are Sanford E. Rafsky, chancellor; Terry Powell, vice-chancellor; and A/S James P. Pones, secretary.

Players Speed Through Practice For New Show

There is bustle and confusion in Schwab auditorium this week as actors go through speed rehearsals of "Guest In The House," to be given on August 3 and 4.

With imaginary props pulled out of the air and a minimum of settings, the actors rush through their lines, using all the necessary action but no expression. Love scenes, emotional scenes, dramatic scenes all sound the same to the audience as members of the cast work to perfect their lines.

"Didyoumissmeatall?" Dan (James McDougall) asks of Evelyn when he returns from a long absence.

"Didyoumissme?" she replies. "MorethanthoughtIcouldmiss anybody," he tells her, with none of the expression that will appear in the finished production.

Meanwhile, Director Henning Nelms paces up and down in front of the stage, glancing every few seconds at his wristwatch to see how long it is taking the cast to get through its lines. As actors leave the stage he calls them over to correct some of their motions, watching the rehearsal at the same time.

Registrar Refuses 366

With over 1200 men and women already applying for the fall term, William S. Hoffman, registrar, announced that he has had to refuse 366 women. 476 girls and 214 boys have been admitted.

Of the women refused, over one half are non-Pennsylvania. Nine men and 51 women from out of the state have been accepted. Mr. Hoffman feels sure the incoming freshmen will be good students, saying, "306 of the girls graduated in the upper fifth of their graduating class, and the remaining 170 were in the upper two-fifths. Of the men, 64 were upper fifth, 68 upper two-fifths, and 56 upper three-fifths."

Because the quota of 600 women students has been reached, no more girls will be accepted unless they plan to live in town. Besides the 600, 145 are taking their first semester during the summer, 8 live in State College, 7 commute from Bellefonte, and one is working.

College rulings permit only ten percent of out-of-state women applicants to be accepted each semester.

Police Issue Warning

Captain Phillip Mark, of the Campus Patrol, has issued the warning that the police will start fining all people going through stop-signs.

3 Faculty Members Accept Positions In European Area To Teach Servicemen At Shrivenham, England

Three members of the College faculty have been granted leaves to accept assignments as teachers at the university study centers now being established in the European theatre for the benefit of Army officers and enlisted men.

These and other leaves, plus a series of resignations and appointments, were formally acted upon at the meeting over the weekend of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees.

Granted leaves and already enroute to their assignments, which are expected to take them to the Army center at Shrivenham, England, are Thomas C. Benton, professor of mathematics; Ralph U. Blasingame, head of the agricultural engineering department; and Grover C. Chandee, head of the chemistry department.

The executive committee also acted upon six resignations, as follows:

B. K. Johnstone, head of the department of architecture, to become director of the College of Fine Arts at Carnegie Institute of Technology, effective October 31.

U. Vivian Crow, associate professor of home economics, to become head of the department of home economics at Carnegie Institute of Technology, effective September 10.

Fred V. Grau, associate professor of agronomy extension, to become director of the greens section of the United States Golf Association.

Anna O. Stephens, physician in the College Health Service, to accept a similar position at Woman's College, University of North Carolina.

Laura W. Drummond, head of the department of home economics, to join the staff of Teachers College, Columbia University, effective June 30.

Katharine M. Stokes, assistant librarian in charge of readers' service, to become circulation librarian at the University of Illinois, effective July 15.

Harold J. Read, graduate of the University of Illinois, and later a member of the staff at Illinois and also at the University of Pennsylvania, and more recently a research fellow at the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, was appointed associate professor of metallurgy, effective July 1.

Freshman Boy Dies In College Hospital

Ralph "Gene" Flora, Jr., 17, a first semester freshman from Mt. Jewett, died suddenly at the College Infirmary at 12:05 p. m. Monday. Flora, acutely ill since his admission to the Infirmary Saturday evening, had symptoms of leptomeningitis.

He resided at 419 W. Foster avenue where he was first taken ill on Friday. Late Saturday afternoon his condition became worse and Dr. E. Cullen of State College was called. On Dr. Cullen's advice Flora was rushed to the Infirmary in an ambulance.

At the Infirmary he was given injections of penicillin and sulphamerazine and seemed to respond satisfactorily, according to Dr. J. P. Ritenour, head physician at the College dispensary. His parents, summoned from Mt. Jewett, arrived early Sunday morning.

Monday morning the boy's condition seemed improved although he still remained in a semi-conscious state, Dr. Ritenour said. At noon, his parents went out to lunch. During their absence the boy took a sudden turn for the worse and died.

Flora was the second patient to die at the infirmary in over five years.

WAVE Representative Seeks Recruits

To help fill the Navy's need for 20,000 additional women, WAVE Recruiter Anne Kirkpatrick will be in State College from July 31 to August 3.

Interviewing headquarters of Recruiting Specialist Kirkpatrick will be the lobby of the State College Hotel. Interested women may speak to Miss Kirkpatrick from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. on any day between July 31 and August 3. Special evening appointments may be made by those who are unable to see the recruiter during her regular hours.

According to the Navy Department, all young women between the ages of 20 and 36 are eligible to apply for admission to the WAVES. New recruits receive a preliminary intensive eight weeks training program at Hunter College, and are then given aptitude tests which help in determining their choice of work. After six months of service in the United States, a WAVE may apply for overseas service.

At present Naval Department figures state that approximately 3,000 WAVES are serving in Hawaii alone. WAVES replace sailors overseas in such positions as telegraphers, radio operators, storekeepers, aviation machinist mates, stenographers, secretaries, pharmacist mates, and hospital corpsmen.

Fees Due Today

All summer semester students must pay their fees at the Armory today from 9 a. m. to 12 noon or from 1 to 5 p. m., according to an announcement from the office of the bursar.
