

Frog Motives in Art On Display in Library

A collection of unusual frog motives in art has been arranged by Dr. S. W. Frost of the Department of Entomology and placed on display on the main floor of the College Library. For the most part the exhibits are the workmanship of ancient craftsmen and have been gathered from many parts of the world, especially Egypt, China, Japan, and South America.

The oldest specimens are casts of two Egyptian seals, one bearing the pronomen of Amenophis II, 1405-1370 B. C. Many of the Chinese Ivories and bronzes are several hundred years old.

The frog was not used as a mere ornament, even by primitive people, but has a special significance and usually illustrates some legend or folklore. The exhibit includes examples, carved or fashioned of pottery, wood, stone, ivory, amethyst, jade, bronze, gold, and other materials.

Lt. DeMarino Plans College Return After War

War is only an interlude in the career of Lt. Daniel DeMarino '37, USNR. Visiting the College while on a ten-day leave, the former Nittany athlete said that he intends to return to the College and resume his duties as assistant dean of men as soon as he is discharged.

Lieutenant DeMarino led a varied life prior to his enlistment in 1942. Besides playing tackle on the 1935, 1936, and 1937 football elevens, he was also known for his boxing ability. His prowess in these sports is evidenced by the fact that he was made assistant coach for the freshman gridiron and boxing teams after graduation.

Recognizing his qualities in leadership and in handling men, "Danny" was appointed assistant dean of men in 1939.

Presently the athletic director of the big naval air station at Grosse Ile, Michigan, Lieutenant DeMarino is toughening up airmen before they begin their duty aboard the carriers of the fleet. This is the second time he has been stationed at Grosse Ile as he reported there after finishing a five weeks officers' "boot" course, at Annapolis, immediately after his enlistment.

After spending more than two years at this base, DeMarino was sent to Norfolk, Virginia, for sea duty. However, before he could ship out, he was transferred to the Carrier Aircraft Service Unit at Quonset Point, Rhode Island. He spent eight months there directing the physical fitness program until reassigned to Grosse Ile.

The former gridder found time from his duties to marry Helen Louise Hartsock, from Bellefonte, and one time nurse at the College Infirmary, on August 28, 1943.

While a student at the College, Lieutenant DeMarino, in addition to football and boxing, was a member of Student Board, Student Council, Parmi Nous, and Druids.

College Trustee Dies At Concordville Home

Frank P. Willits, 88, former State Secretary of Agriculture and for 20 years trustee of the College, died at his Concordville home.

Before retirement, Mr. Willits was active in farming, the dairy industry, and the State Grange. He was born in Berks County and attended Maplewood Institute. Active in educational circles, the former trustee was also a member of the Concordville School Board.

All-College Vic Dance Scheduled for July 28

"Summer Skip," this semester's first all-College vic dance, will be held in the Armory from 8:30 p. m. to midnight July 28. Admission will be 35 cents per person.

Sponsored by the Independent Women's Association and the Penn State Club, the affair will feature a surprise intermission event. Cokes will be sold.

In charge of general arrangements for the dance is Michael Halikis. Mary Bitner is handling the publicity while Florence Zankel is looking after refreshments. George Dagir and Violet Grubin head the decorations committee, and Birdie Deimel and Edward Trabol are co-chairmen of the finance committee.

Engineer Subscriptions On Sale at Armory Today

Subscriptions for the Penn State Engineer will be on sale in the Armory today during the hours set aside for payment of fees. This announcement was made today by Gladys Rinemach, circulation manager for the Engineer.

The July issue of the Engineer will go on sale at Student Union and outside the Corner early Wednesday. Five special student written features will be included in this month's issue in addition to such regular items as "Talk of the Campus," "Sly Drools," "New Developments," and the monthly contribution by Harry P. Raymond, dean of the School of Engineering.

Still Seek Learning

Uncle Sam's doughboys are a studious lot. In the past year the College has received 5,000 inquiries from overseas regarding correspondence courses.

Letters To The Editor

(Editor's Note:—Letters to the editor may be addressed to the Collegian office, Carnegie Hall. Names and addresses must be included although not necessarily for publication.)

To the Editor of Collegian:

The Collegian has in the past boasted of its loyalty to the school and its desire for more school spirit, but, judging from its headline in last week's issue, it shows tendencies to destroy practically all proof that it is a school paper working for the betterment of the school and not for financial profit or personal fame.

The Collegian enjoys freedom of the press; it must not abuse this freedom to the extent where it can harm the school or school policies.

The headline "Key Crumbles" is slanderous enough to cripple the Key party, for it is a figurative green light to a possibly clandestine political party to go ahead with its plans. This new faction would be dangerously troublesome to such an extent that it would upset the democratic political policies which are supposed to exist on this campus. This then would return us to the two party system—campus and independent—which existed in past years. The active presence of these two parties would create a distinct line between fraternities and independent organizations, for power on the campus would be placed in the hands of one of these two groups—the one with the larger student membership. Obviously, each group would feel independent of the other and the situation would lead to inevitable friction. The lack of cooperation which would arise from this rift would prove detrimental to the college, and would violate the democratic traditions of this institution.

We must remember that an appreciable part of the student body will consist of X-GI's; the majority of this group will not go fraternally, and may, consequently, display animosity to the fraternity clique, if, as independents, they are sharply distinguished from the Greeks.

If such developments should occur, the Collegian would probably editorialize against it, week after week. Thus, it would be fighting against something which it had itself created.
