

With The AST

This week marks the ending of a five-year tour of active duty for Lt. Col. Guy G. Mills who has served with the US Army Reserve for the last 25 years. His military career began with the last war when Mills was a first lieutenant and captain with the Second Engineers Battalion at Fort Belvoir, Va. Prior to his returning to active duty in this war, Lt. Col. Mills was state adviser on occupational deferments for the Ohio State Selective Service System, in Columbus, Ohio.

Coming to State College—May 15, 1941, the lieutenant colonel was assistant professor of military science and tactics, becoming professor on the death of Colonel Ardery. Lt. Col. Mills was commanding officer of the AST Unit until the recent addition of Colonel Taliaferro to the military staff. Lt. Col. Mills expects to continue his residence in State College.

AST To Continue

All the unofficial rumors were done away with this last week when it was officially announced that the AST Unit at Penn State would be continued for another term at least. Next term, however, the curriculum will be entirely composed of advanced AST work. EE-IV, ME-IV, EE-V, CE-V, CE-VI, EE-VII, will be offered. There will be no ASTP stationed at the College; all those eligible for another term will be trans-

Occupation Forces

To Have Little Difficulty

American occupation troops will have "little or no difficulty" in keeping the rank and file of Japanese under control, according to Dr. Carroll D. Champlin, professor of psychology.

"Once the war lords are removed from power," the education professor says, "the great majority of Japs will be only too glad to settle down to a peaceful existence."

Because they are child-like and long-accustomed to obeying orders, the Japanese present a much easier problem for occupation officials than the Germans, Dr. Champlin claims. The Japs, he insists, are "too naive and provincial" to attempt underground activities.

Self-government in Japan, he adds, "will be utterly out of the question" until an entirely new generation has been educated. Allied control of the education processes in that nation will be necessary, he thinks, for the next 50 to 75 years.

Radio Workshop Holds Organization Meeting

The newly-formed Penn State Radio Workshop held its organization meeting Tuesday night.

The club, which has been formed to acquaint students with the techniques of radio, elected the following officers: Caroline Manville, president; Jane Wolbarst, vice-president; Eleanor Phillips, secretary-treasurer; William C. Reutti, director.

Two committees were appointed by the president: script reading committee with Portman Paget, as chairman and Script writing committee with Helen Rummel as chairman.

Tryouts for the first production will be held in Schwab Auditorium, 7 p. m., Tuesday and Wednesday. Students planning to try-out should sign up at the Student Union before Tuesday night.

ferred to Pennsylvania Military College with the exception of Sentz, who will report to the University of Delaware for fourth term. There are 25 of the 55 AST's reporting to basic training after a two weeks furlough.

Of the advanced AST who finished their work this term and will be graduated tomorrow, the EE-7 are being sent to Fort Monmouth, N. J.; the ME-6 sent to Fort Belvoir, Va.; and the EE-6 are being divided, some being sent to Fort Monmouth and some to Fort Belvoir. Those who graduated number 95.

Here and There

The EE-6 celebrated with a farewell party at the University Club last Monday, as did the ME-6 at the Corner Room on Wednesday evening. The EE-7 celebrated Thursday at the Corner.

Will someone be kind enough to tell one of the fellows of Bks 4 the difference between a brazier and a brassiere? In an English class it seems that he wanted to build a charcoal fire in the latter.

The Engineers are to be congratulated on their swell dance last Saturday. The Log-Rhythm should come around more often, which brings to mind Dry Dock. The unit returning is hoping to be able to attend.

Sydney Boxer of Barracks 12 is stepping out; he played with Dick Berge last Saturday.

Congratulations are in order for Crawford and Gwin of Barracks 8 with the battalion golf championship.

Tuesday night saw the Navy V-12 take over the Army AST Barracks 8 team in softball, score 4-3.

Have you seen the jeep that has replaced the staff car? Bet it will be cold this winter!

Taken from the current "Why We Fight" series: "Boy what you mean you don't hear no reflection? Ah tol' you dat matchin' impedance was too damn low!"

State College will have a brief breather for about seven days starting this Saturday when the unit goes on its regular furlough.

Campus Club Organizes

Ted Lucas was elected president of the Campus Center Club at its reorganization meeting Tuesday. The club has been inactive for three years. Other officers elected include Nikki Gates, vice-president; and Muriel McMullin, secretary-treasurer.

The next meeting of the Campus Center Club will be held in 19 Sparks 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. All students who have attended undergraduate centers are invited to attend.

767 Frosh To Enter

According to Registrar William S. Hoffman, 767 freshmen have made the initial payment for fall registration. Of this number 276 are men and 489 are women.

As a result of the conclusion of the war and the return of many men to civilian life, Hoffman expects the male registration to double before October 31.

Pi Lam Initiates 4

Four men were initiated into Pi Lambda Phi Sunday. They were Alan Baskin, Norman Alterman, Murray Liebman, and Jules Steinberg.

CA Plans Panel; Postpones Tour

A bus tour of the campus sponsored by the First Semester Club of PSCA and scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Monday has been postponed until September 10 because of the Labor Day holiday, James McDougall, chairman, announces.

Fifty-two freshmen have purchased tickets for the hour's tour. There are eleven more places on the buses for freshmen wishing to make the tour, and tickets are on sale for 25 cents at 304 Old Main. After the tour there will be a dance and refreshments in 304 Old Main.

"What Changes Do We Need in Campus Politics?" will be the subject for discussion at the PSCA Upperclass Club meeting in the Hugh Beaver Room at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Members of a panel which will present good and bad features of politics in the Penn State student government will be Robert Yurk-anin, semester chairman for the Nittany Party; William Morton, semester chairman of the Key Party; and Sidney Eboch, who will present his views on reforms needed if politics are to be fully democratic and progressive. There will be time for discussion from the students.

The program is under the direction of Larry Marcella, program chairman. A president will be elected to fill the vacancy caused by Barbara Stocker's leaving. Rene Kuntzleman will be in charge of the social hour immediately following the meeting.

An International Picnic with all students from countries outside the continental limits of the United States as special guests has been planned for Friday evening, September 14, at Whipple's Dam.

Trucks will leave the rear of Old Main at 5:30 p.m. and return by 9:45, Marjorie Griffith, chairman, announces. The program will include a picnic supper, campfire, songs and games of other nations. All Penn State students are invited to attend. Tickets may be procured for 75 cents at 304 Old Main any time before September 13.

Students Do No Damage

Capt. Philip A. Mark, of the campus patrol, announced that there was no damage done to the town or campus during the celebration of the end of the war.

"I want to thank the students for their cooperation," said Captain Mark. "They should be commended for their action."

Navy V-12 News

When Fall football practice begins in September, the Lion squad will have its training table in Mac Hall. The team will eat after all barracks have gone through the chow line.

Talking about teams, Barracks 37 has taken the V-12 softball championship for this semester. They also took the service championship from a team of AST all-stars. Navy won, 4-3. MacHale pitched the whole game. Snappy fielding resulted in one double play—Hopkins to McGowan to O'Neil.

Inspections

Lieutenant Jones, speaking of last Saturday's rather damp inspection, says: "The barracks were in the best condition so far this semester." As a whole, the unit was in excellent condition.

From now on, since all reviews and inspections will be on Friday, weekend offstation liberties start after the last class on Saturday. This means that men with no Saturday classes can pull out as early in the morning as they can secure transportation.

Fleet Movements

Newly commissioned Ensign J. T. Anderson was back on campus before leaving for optical school on the west coast. Ensign French, complete with new service bars, was also aboard. "Bugs" Colvin dropped in for an hour or two after completing his training at Great Lakes. He is now in an outgoing unit for the west coast. Roy Flack and Roger Hill left for Great Lakes. Johnny Ireland is on a motor torpedo boat tender based on New York. Our two appendicitis cases, Walt Nickle and Verne Condon, are back from the hospital.

Because of the unexpected extension of liberty over Labor Day the party planned by Barracks 37 for this weekend has been cancelled. The affairs scheduled by Barracks 36 and 13 have been postponed to the eighth of September.

Ordnance

More ordnance is steadily accumulating at the Armory. Last week there were received one three-inch fifty, a twenty millimeter, several fifty caliber machine guns, and some crates of carbines and Gar-rands. The largest gun expected is a five inch.

Bob Parker and George Meeker intend to return to State next March as civilians. Meeker was married Wednesday to his hometown girl. Leigh Woehling will do the same this Fall if his discharge comes through.

Common Sense Hears Ballad Singers' Records

Recordings of ballads by Buel Ives, Josh White, the Almanac Singers, and John Jacob Niles were presented by Edward Abramson, assistant professor of sociology, at the Common Sense meeting Wednesday night.

The business of the evening consisted of nominations for a new executive chairman and plans for the next meeting, which will be held in the Hugh Beaver Room, Old Main, at 7 p.m., Sept. 11. The topic for the evening will be "Full Employment."

Phi Kappa Psi recently initiated Ernest Goodling and William Deutsch. Jack Greene, Raymond Murphy, and James Calvin have been pledged by this fraternity.

Ye Poet Laureates, Come To the Rescue

Can anyone help a perturbed student and the distraught librarians? For several days they have hunted through encyclopedias, books, pamphlets, leaflets, and what-not, searching for the poem from which the following line is taken:

"So Saturday's Child Com-mutes"

Anyone knowing the name of the poem or additional lines may call Collegian office. Both the student and librarians will be much relieved.
