

Vandal Defaces Lion Shrine Head

Cabinet Asks Tribunal To Seek Offender

Lipstick and brown shoe polish were used to deface the face of the Lion Shrine Friday morning, President Michael Lynch told Cabinet Tuesday evening, quoting a report from Captain Marks of the Campus Patrol.

Lynch went on to say that four offenses have been committed since the statue by Heinz Warneke, a gift of the Class of 1940, has been completed. In an effort to locate the vandal, Tribunal was appointed to investigate the case. Robert McGregor will head a committee to aid Tribunal in the search. Other members of the committee are Jean Butz, Gene Folmer, James Hugo, and Jesse Panar.

Alumni Weekend Plans

Cooperating with the Alumni Association in making plans for Homecoming Weekend, October 6, Cabinet was told by committee chairman Jack Seavey that the Colgate football game will be broadcast over station KDKA. According to Seavey, the pep rally in Recreation Hall the Friday night before the game may be broadcasted too.

Working on the Homecoming Weekend committee with Mr. Seavey are Dick Bradley, Ephraim Catsiff, Lois Cleaver, Dorothy Davis, Mary Margaret Dunlap, June First, Dick Griffiths, Helea Hatton, Judd Healy, James Hugo, A/S James Jones, and Stanley Ziff.

In conjunction with these plans, Cabinet approved the appointment of Jack Davenport and Jeanne Weaver to send a special invitation to the leaders of student government at Colgate to attend a luncheon given by Cabinet Alumni Weekend.

June First received a vote of congratulations for her committee's work in making Dry-Dock a success. Miss First announced that Dry Dock will again be open tomorrow night and will probably continue Saturday nights throughout September.

Book Exchange Report

Chairman of the Student Book Exchange committee, Joseph Steele, reported that as soon as enough students have been engaged to work in the Student Book Exchange, the project will be ready to operate next semester.

Navy personnel will register for student government elections at registration or at a later date if they so desire, according to the plan proposed by the Naval Relations Committee headed by Jack Davenport. Final plans for the official registration after the sailors have paid their 75 cent fee will be decided by the Elections Committee, Davenport stated.

An amendment to the Constitution which would grant the privilege of sending an ex-officio member to Cabinet from the X-G-1 Club was introduced. In order to (Continued on page seven)

$354.10 Donated To Wilson Fund

Donations amounting to $354.10 poured in late last night as the Collegian's Jimmy Wilson Fund drive neared the finish line. What proved to be a successful campaign.

Sometime next week, Jimmy Wilson will receive Penn State's gift at the Army Hospital in Atlantic City. The money will be presented to him through the Philadelphia Inquirer, which ended its own campaign earlier in the week.

After getting off to a slow start, student organizations on campus, along with individual donors, rallied late in the week to boost the total amount higher and higher. Because some contributors failed to make returns before the deadline, Collegian was requested to extend the drive a day longer.

For those who still wish to donate to the fund, the Student Union Office will accept contributions until noon tomorrow. At that time, the campaign will officially end.

The ASTP unit was the first organization to solicit for the fund. The Army boys generously contributed $67.42 before they left on their furloughs last Saturday. This is the largest amount contributed by a single organization thus far in the campaign.

Phi Sigma Delta fraternity members donated one dollar apiece for a total of $30 which took top honors among the fraternities. Beta Sigma Rho followed close behind with a donation of $28.50.

Private Jimmy Wilson is the 20 year old Army Air Corps boy who lost both arms and both legs in a bomber crash in Vermont last October. Since then, he has been recuperating in the Thomas M. England Army Hospital in Atlantic City. Jimmy hopes to be released from the hospital by December and then he hopes to begin college.

Although the Navy V-12'ers haven't contributed as yet, they promise to do so as soon as they receive their checks which have been delayed enroute. Thanks, Navy.

Despite his tremendous handicap, Jimmy looks forward to a bright future. Somewhere in his dreams is a girl. Generous Americans from all over the nation have helped him face his great problem with the assurance that his people, you and I, would not fail to come to the aid of one of our most at- (Continued on page five)

'Blind Date' To Highlight Dry Dock

After registering a smashing hit with students and servicemen on opening night, Dry Dock will make its second appearance in the Sandwich Shop, Old Main, from 9 to 12 o'clock tomorrow night with a complete new floor show and band.

Hundreds of students and servicemen welcomed Dry Dock back into campus activities last week, and showed tremendous enthusiasm toward having it continued indefinitely.

Among this week's surprises, "Blind Date" takes the spotlight. The show will be conducted similarly to the nation-wide radio program aired each week. Special prizes for all contestants will be furnished by the Dry Dock committee with June First as chairman.

Jack Sack will be master of ceremonies tomorrow night, heading an entirely new floor show which will feature "The Three Stooges." Other entertainment will include singers and dancers from among the student body. The second Dry Dock band will make its debut, providing music from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Again this week, hostesses from a coed group on campus will be present. Refreshments will be served in the Sandwich Shop cafeteria all evening.

Among the future entertainment features planned by the Dry Dock committee are a "Navy Night" with the sailors doing their own floor show, and a "Truth or Consequences" show with faculty members as contestants.

Players To Present Gay 'Blithe Spirit' Farce Homecoming Weekend

Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit," to be staged by Players in Schwab Auditorium Homecoming weekend, October 5 and 6, is a gay, improbable farce that has delighted theater-goers since it first opened in Manchester, England, in 1941.

Now completing the second of a six-week rehearsal period, the cast of the Players' show feels firmly convinced that "Blithe Spirit" will provide enjoyable entertainment to all who see it.

The story deals with Charles Condomine (Joseph Vispil), playboy-author, and his two wives, Ruth (Sydney Friedman) and Elvira (Dee James). Doing research for a book on mysticism, Charles invites Madame Arcati (Verna Sevast), a mystic herself, to his home to hold a seance. Present at the performance are Ruth and Dr. and Mrs. Bradman (Portman Paget and Fanna Brown), with Edith, the maid (Libby Peters), running in and out of the room at frequent intervals.

To the complete surprise of everyone, including Madame Arcati, Elvira, who has been dead for seven years, is brought back from the "other side" to heckle Charles and Ruth and attempt to break up their marriage. For two acts Elvira, visible only to Charles and the audience, prances about the stage, completely confusing the rest of the cast by carrying on conversations with Charles that no one else can hear.

Ruth in the meantime thinks that her husband has lost his mind until she realizes that Elvira is really on the earth again and is attempting to murder Charles in order to take him back to the world of the supernatural with (Continued on page seven)

'The Hig' Drives Hole-In-One

Just twenty-six years after Bob Higgins became an All-American on the gridiron, he also became one of the "greats" in local golfdom. Playing on the College course with his daughter, Ginger, Saturday, he shot an eagle hole-in-one on the 200-yard twelfth hole.

According to the College's golfing coach, Bob Rutherford, this feat is the first hole-in-one scored on the twelfth hole since the course was built.

Bursar Offers Deferment Forms

Students wishing deferment of fees may secure standard application forms in the Bursar's Office, 110 Old Main now. Forms must be filled out by the parent or guardian and received in the office of the bursar on or before October 1, 1945, according to Russell A. Clark, college bursar.

The total amount deferred in any semester is limited to 60 percent of the fees over and above senatorial scholarships or other exemptions. The deferment may not exceed $50 for students not living in dormitories, or $150 for women living in dormitories.

Deferments must be paid on or before December 15, 1945, and January 15, 1946. That portion of the fall fee not deferrable is payable November 16, 1945. Since only the student can estimate the total charges for the semester during the three-week period between registration and the days for the payment of fees, he should notify his parents of the exact amount that will be needed on the specified day.

Entering freshmen and transfer students are not granted deferment privileges since the new student's academic life may be handicapped by unaccustomed financial problems. The deferment procedure is granted to parents and guardians without charge and according to the above regulations.

The credit already established by the parent at the College is the basis of approval of deferment applications. If exceptional circumstances make it necessary for a parent to make late application for deferment, the same regulations will be enforced and a fee of $5 will be assessed.

Lion Debaters Face Columbia

Columbia University will make an unexpected visit to the College for a debate in 316 Sparks at 8 p.m. tonight, on the subject "Resolved: That the full employment bill is not necessary to national reconversion."

Johns Hopkins University cancelled its debate with the College team suddenly Wednesday night, and a substitute team of Penn State debaters took over the audience-decision type discussion of compulsory military conscription.

Ballots were distributed among the audience to determine whether their opinions had been changed by the debaters' oratory. Seventeen shifted their opinion to the negative, nine to the affirmative, and 29 did not change.

Originally scheduled for the debate with Johns Hopkins were the members of the affirmative team, A/S Fred M. Kecker and Martin Lennig. The substitute debaters, whose negative arguments won the audience's decision, were Otis Castleberry and Kenneth Harshbarger.

Lennig and Kecker will debate tonight for the College. The debate will be informal, and there will be no decision.
