Senate Grants Four-Day Holiday New College Calendar Gives Longer Recess

Meeting in special session late Tuesday afternoon, the College Senate voted without opposition to accept the new college calendar which provides for a four and one-half day Thanksgiving holiday.

This action brings back the traditional Penn State holiday with suspension of classes at 11:50 a. m. Wednesday, November 21 and resumption of sessions at 8 a. m. Monday, November 26.

Also included in the revised college calendar is a longer Christmas recess of ten and one-half days, from 11:50 a. m., Saturday, December 22 to 8 a. m., Wednesday, January 2.

Petitions, letters and suggestions by independent organizations all helped to put faculty sentiment behind a revision of the calendar. Calendar committee had the subject referred to it by the Senate.

Revision, which included some changes designed to pave the way for the return of the College to a normal peace-time two semester plan of operation, was directed by the committee. Faculty members of calendar committee are Jean D. Amberson, W. O. Gordon, D. J. Peery, W. S. Hoffman, and R. V. Watkins. Student representatives are Libby Peters and Sidney Eboch.

The Senate, chaired by President Hetzel, passed the new calendar after ten minutes of open discussion. During this time no objections at all were raised to the restoration of the long-absent Thanksgiving recess.

Although the revision lengthens the present semester to the second of March, the last day of examinations, the Spring semester.

Rally Marks Student Day

International Student's Day will be celebrated in a rally in Schwab Auditorium at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

A/S Jim Jones will act as the master of ceremonies in a program emphasizing world cooperation among university students. International Student's Day is celebrated to commemorate the Nazi massacre of Czech students at the Charles University in Prague. Tomorrow's rally will precede next month's drive for the World Student Service Fund, the organization devoted to the rehabilitation of the war-desecrated colleges and universities.

Following the international theme, Virgil Neilly will lead the singing of several well-known foreign folk songs. Audrey Rybach will be the accompanist. Eugene Fulmer will speak on international student cooperation.

Foreign folk dances will be given by the dance group from the School of Physical Education. A representative of Fairmount House, East, the student international group, will give a short speech on tolerance.

International Student's Day will be further observed at tonight's ASTP dance by several vocal selections by Ruth Hill, WMAJ singer.

Tomorrow's celebration is expected to set an annual tradition at the College, as it has at many of the large universities in the country. The aim of the celebration is to increase awareness of international student unity.

J. Burn Helme

J. Burn Helme Dies Suddenly

Professor J. Burn Helme, a member of the department of architecture at the College since 1925, died Monday night from a stroke in Centre County Hospital. He was 48 years old.

Prof. Helme, who was in charge of the division of fine arts at the University of Toronto in Smith Falls, Ontario, May 29, 1897. He had held the degrees of bachelor of applied science and master of architecture from the University of Toronto, and a master of arts degree from Harvard.

In addition, he did graduate work at the Ecole des Hautes Etudes Urbaines a la Sorbonne, Paris, at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, Fontainebleau, and at Harvard. Prior to coming to the College in 1925, he was employed in various capacities with architectural firms in Toronto and was engaged in city planning in Toronto and in Kitchener, Canada.

He was a guest lecturer at the University of Iowa in the summer of 1930 and resident consultant in Paris in connection with the Regional Plan of New York and Its Environs in the summer of 1927. Professor Helme edited a technical bulletin on low cost housing published by the College in 1936 and has contributed articles to many professional journals.

He was an expert in both water color and wood block-cutting and has been represented in exhibitions of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia.

Busch Opens Music Series

Adolph Busch's Little Symphony, created especially to play the 18th century music of Bach, Haydn, and Mozart, will open this season's Artists' Course series, in Schwab Auditorium, 8 p. m., November 26.

The basic purpose of the Little Symphony, according to Mr. Busch, is "to play together so much that works in larger form can be performed like chamber music, like quartets, in which everyone knows his own part thoroughly and is in complete understanding with his fellow players."

Feeling that the finest essence of the music of Mozart, Bach, and Haydn had been lost in the growing craze for bigger and better symphony orchestras, Mr. Busch, in 1935, created the Busch Chamber Music Players, which has become the Little Symphony with 27 musicians.

The orchestra's first appearance was at the Florence May Festival in 1935 when, at the request of the Italian government, it presented the Bach Brandenburg Concert. The Little Symphony is now on its first American tour.

Waring Excites Corner; Gives Coed Autograph

By ELAINE MITTLEMAN and JERRY TRUMPER

The Corner was more unusual than it's been in a long time. "He isn't, he is, he was, he wasn't!" Everyone was so excited they were talking in riddles. The author of "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" was in town.

"Did you see him?" Oh, I'm so excited. He just went out," composed the conversation. Heads were bobbing up and down, in and out of every booth. We were just walking out when we heard "he was! Where? Over on the other side eating dinner." A group walked over pretending to look for a booth and there he was—Fred Waring—sitting next to the window looking as handsome and distinguished as his pictures—only minus the Pennsylvanians.

"Gee, I'd love his autograph," a coed said.

"Go ahead and ask him for it," her friend replied.

"Oh no, I don't even have a pencil and paper."

Somebody remedied the situation, but only after they suggested using a soda check. The group gathered in the aisle to watch "proceedings" and she went over. "Shaky" had nothing on her.

"Hello, could I please have your autograph?" It seemed like centuries before he answered.

"Well—what does it mean to you?"

"A lot. You see it's a dare and besides I'd love to have it." Her knees were changing places with her ankles and her heart just wasn't.

"Are you getting anything out of it?" Mr. Waring asked.

"Well, no," she stammered.

Voters Elect Lundy, Faloon To All-College Positions

In a closely contested election Tuesday and Wednesday 3007 students voted Key party candidates into all but two offices. Van Lundy, Key candidate won the post of All-College president by an even 100 vote margin over Nittany's Vaughan Stapleton. Lundy's running mate, Mary Faloon, defeated Nittany candidate, Judd Healy by a vote of 800-693.

Van Lundy, top, and Mary "Pete" Faloon, bottom, newly elected All-College president and secretary, respectively.

Each Nittany candidate was docked six votes for the party's infraction of election rules, announced Richard Griffiths, elections committee chairman. Two Nittany votes were forfeited for the display of campaign posters in Old Main election days, and the remaining four for campaigning in the Sandwich Shop. The penalty swung the election in eighth semester from Nittany candidate Ray Henseer to Key candidate Jack Seavy.

The two offices falling to Nittany were fourth semester president, which Fred Ernst captured, and second semester secretary, which went to Alice Miller.

Members of the All-College elections committee are: Richard Griffiths, chairman, Charles Appleman, Woodene Bell, Elizabeth Griffiths, Elizabeth Hutchinson, Herbert Mendt, Clyde Metzger, Robert Spinnenweber, and Mervin Will.
