By FRED KECKER

New gold braid is the order of the day. As of yesterday all the trainees with positions of any authority in the unit burst out with gold sleeve decorations ranging all the way from four stripes for Hershel Adams, the top man, all the way down to one row for men of the color guard like "Eager" Baker. The system is somewhat like regular rank and rate insignia except that ensign, i.e., full-tie, and lieutenant commander are given one, two, three, and four stripes respectively.

For those wondering what happened to the welfare fund, please note the open houses to be sponsored by each barracks in turn from 1800 till 2200 every Sunday evening. The money for refreshments comes out of that fund. The round robin starts December 2 with Barracks 36 playing host first and inviting all sailors and their dates to a good time.

Navy's Dance Band

Big enterprise of the year is the revival of the old Navy-Marine dance band, now minus the Marines. A star-studded combo is in the offing for the winter months with "Nick" Ghezzi, who has been on tour with Jack Teagarden and Eddie LaVoie, former stickwielder for a Philadelphia jump outfit, whipping the band into shape. Other members include Dave Ludwig, former Scranton bandleader, Glenn Orndorf, present Blue Band and Symphony Orchestra prexy, "Gunny" Gunnison, George Ventura, "Rus" Nickerson, John Bisbing and vocalist Homer McNabb. Harmonizing on sextet specialties, these boys look like the answer to the cry for small combinations.

Eager Buddies

A big cry went up from Bks. 26 when "Kraut" Swartzwelder saw Johnny Hopay's picture in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. Johnny, over in Tokyo, is pictured among the eager swabbies buying Japanese wares to send home as Christmas presents. . . . Everybody has seen "Lard". Nelson wandering about helping ship's company while awaiting a long-delayed discharge; but everybody doesn't know that on December 8 "Lard" ties the knot in the Baptist Church with Margie Provost, a seventh semester coed here at Penn State.
