

Ex-Missionary Talks on Faith

Former superintendent of the Polish Mission of the Methodist Church, Rev. Gaither P. Warfield, will speak on "Except Ye Have a Greater Faith" at Chapel service in Schwab Auditorium, 11 a. m., Sunday.

Reverend Warfield held this post in Warsaw until the entrance of the United States into the war with Germany. After that he was imprisoned by Poland, Russia, and Germany, the latter country placing him in a Laufen internment camp where he was exchanged for German internees permitted to return to Europe from America with his wife and daughter, he returned on July 1, 1942, on the diplomatic exchange ship "Drottningholm."

At the request of Bishop Beauchamp, Dr. Warfield first went to Poland in 1924 as missionary of the former Methodist Church. At that time he was assistant pastor of St. Pauls Methodist Church in New York City. In Poland, he became superintendent of the Poznan District and was founder and principal of the Bible Training School for the Evangelical ministry in Poland.

A native of Rockville, Md., Dr. Warfield was educated at Dickinson College and Drew Theological Seminary. While in an internment camp in June, 1942, Dickinson College awarded him the degree of Doctor of Divinity in absentia.

Scholarship—

"The idea was originated by the present Mortar Board members in their search for a way to honor Miss Ray and make a worthwhile contribution to the College. They feel that a scholarship, aiding women students, is truly representative of the manner in which Miss Ray has unselfishly and unobtrusively helped so many women students."

Contributions may be sent to the Charlotte E. Ray Scholarship Fund, Bursar's Office, Old Main.

Coed Ends Date In 'Sad Sack' Fashion

"Hey, quit shovin." "Sure there's plenty of room in our booth." "Two ham a la corner's comin' up." But somehow the "Corner" didn't have its usual glamor—her boy-friend was in the infirmary.

It was Friday afternoon and no date. "Oh, for a man, a tall, blond man with dreamy blue eyes," she mumbled dismally to herself. Then it occurred to her, a blind date. "Hey, Ed, how about a little private conversation." And so it was arranged.

She looked perfect, the borrowed black dress was terrific. "Meet him in the lobby, in front of the bulletin board, at 8," she said, repeating the memorized directions aloud. Putting one last dab of "Dark Secret" behind her ear she walked slowly and nervously to the lobby. There he was, tall, blond—good old Ed, he certainly was a friend. "Hello," she managed to blurt out, "I'm your blind date for this evening."

The lights of Bellefonte were ahead. She suddenly realized that they were probably using Ed's car. "Perhaps we should pick up Ed and his date," she volunteered generously.

"Ed—Ed who?"

"Ed Miller, he's the one who arranged this blind date." "I'm sorry but I don't know any Ed Miller and besides Jim fixed up this date for me." The next few minutes seemed like years to her. "No, this couldn't happen to me," she cried. It just wasn't true. He was kidding. There was only one thing to do.

It was 9:30 when they got back to Ath. Hurrying in, they immediately saw a forlorn-looking girl sitting in the corner. He dashed up to her and asked her the fatal question. It was the right girl.

She sat there for what seemed hours. Couples came and couples left but he never came. Perhaps he had been there at 8. By the way fellas, she still wants to meet the tall, blond man she had a date with on Friday night.

G. Veterans who were graduated from Pennsylvania high schools but did not enter college prior to going into military service.

Room, Board Considered
Dr. Hetzel said: "Admission to the College will be definitely conditioned upon the student's ability to obtain room and board, but the fact that a given student has obtained accommodations will not change his priority."

President Hetzel said that these priorities "obtain only for the semester beginning in March 1946. Policies governing admissions in September 1946 cannot be determined," he said, "until some time after March when more is known about accommodations for September."

He said the College had never had facilities equal to the demand and that for the current semester, which began in November 1945, every available room on campus and in town was occupied. Nearly 6000 were enrolled, he added, and many applications for admission had to be denied.

Married veterans have been installed in 100 trailers, and 100 more may be added.

"Every effort is being made," President Hetzel said, "to obtain temporary housing, but this cannot be erected in time for the semester beginning in March."

College Makes New State Film

A new 22 minute sound film, sponsored by the Department of Internal Affairs, and produced by the motion picture and recording studio at the College, is now ready for distribution to local government groups, service clubs, civic organizations, and schools, free of charge.

William S. Livengood, secretary of the Department of Internal Affairs, is the film narrator. Entitled "Pennsylvania Local Government in Action," the film was written and directed by Frank Neusbaum, head of the studio at the College. Paul Seitzinger served as sound technician and editor, and Delmer Duvall as cameraman.

Technical adviser was Harold F. Alderfer, executive secretary of the Institute of Local Government at the College and director of the Bureau of Municipal Affairs of the Department. He explained that the film serves four purposes: first, to show the variety and color of day-by-day local government; second, to indicate some of its most pressing current problems; third, to make citizens and officials cognizant of the importance of local government in the system of American government; and, fourth, to help to cement unity of spirit and purpose among Pennsylvania local government officials.

The film includes several sequences to illustrate governmental organization, shots of playgrounds and parks, housing, traffic, a health clinic, road building, police, fire company, water works, a sewage disposal plant, and other local government activities. Scenes were filmed in several dozen towns and cities throughout the state.
