State Ringmen To Meet Virginia

Penn State's boxing team will be seeking its sixth win in ten meetings with the University of Virginia when the Lions open their season against the Cavallers at Charlottesville tomorrow.

Dating back to 1925 and 1926, when the teams exchanged wins, the series was dropped until 1938.

At that time it was resumed until 1938.

the 1942 season, when they were not scheduled, and started up magain the next year. Last year's working, 5½-2½.

Art Goldberg, will make the trip.

Three, and possibly four seasoned veterans will open in bouts for the Lions. The undecided choice as Collegian went to press was in the 155-pound division, where it was a tossup between veteran Jack Seitchick and Herald, "Buzz" Fahringer, former Williamsport High School champ.

Paul Smith, two-year veteran promote the Lions as the 135-pounder. Navy trainee Bill Cramer and ex-flyer Nick Ranieri, veterans of the past season, are Coach Houck's choices as 121-pound, and light heavy-weight starters.

Strong candidates for nonors

Strong candidates for nonors during the season are the Lion mentor's heavyweight and 165-pounder, although the Lion welterweight, should make it tough for any opponent. The heavy weight, Webb Moriarta, is an ex-GI who was undefeated as a member of the '40 freshman team.

Another ex-serviceman, John Slusarczyk, is the promising, hard-hitting 165-pounder.

Stan Lachowski, an ex-GI who came out for the team two weeks after practice started, has worked this weight down to 145 and re-his weight down to 145 and received the nod as the welter-weight representative. Ray Po-lansky will be the Lon feather-: weight.

Goes To Japan

Penn State's football coach, Bob Higgins, has accepted the Army's offer to join the last group of coaches and professional athletes which will be assembled and sent to Japan under the Army Special Services Unit.

Matmen Test Mighty Navy

Lion matmen formally open their season by facing Navy, the 1945 Eastern Intercollegiate champions, at Annapolis tomorrow. This will be the toughest test for Coach Paul Campbell's wrestlers as Navy has already hit mid-season stride after their win over the University of Pennsylvania, 28-3, at Philadelphia.

Coach Campbell will probably use the same lineup that defeated Lock Haven State Teachers College last week. In the 128-pound class, team captain Sam Harry is out to regain control of the position he held as Eastern Intercollegiate champion before he enterlegiate champion before he enter-ed the service.
