Coeds Learn To Cook; Scorn Can-Openers

Future brides are learning to cook! No longer will the husband have to put up with canned dinners. No longer will hubby have to suffer from lack of Vitamin D.

These future brides include the 31 girls who are now enrolled in Home Economics 209. They are learning up-to-date pointers of an old art. The cake that mother used to make will have to take a back seat when these coeds finish their course.

Freshman, sophomores, juniors, and seniors are enrolled, and not one of them is in the home economics department. In fact they're in everything from Liberal Arts and Education to Agriculture, Physical Education and Chemistry and Physics.

Most married women cringe at the idea of planning three meals a day, seven days a week. It's not an easy job, but these girls are finding out what fun it can be. By searching and finding out what's new and different, they have a dozen ideas on how to get the lazy man up in the morning, and how to make luncheons good every time . . . even dinners fit for a king.

Besides variety and attractive meals the coeds are taking into consideration the nutritive value of foods. Probably most important of all—to the future Mister is that when the coeds are finished they'll also be experts on keeping a tight hand on the pocket-book. So men beware—these girls are well aware of the adage that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, and are out to prove it.

Co-Edits

And those bouquets of spring flowers which brightened the women's dormitories over the weekend were the gift of the X-G-I Club. Those fellahs really believe in "saying it with flowers." Many thanks from campus coeds.

Post Rushing Stories

Now that rushing is over the common phrase upon seeing a be-ribboned coed is, "Oh, congratulations. I'm so glad you made it . . . whose colors are they?" To avoid showing your ignorance, the thing to do is to keep quiet until the ribbons are exchanged for a pledge pin, and then do your congratulating.

And out of rushing comes the story of one pledge who received her ribbons via nurse. She is Betty Gibson, Gamma Phi Beta pledge, and Sunday night, the Gamma Phis serenaded their new "little sister" who is recovering from the measles in the infirmary. Incidentally, if you notice any sailors wearing brown and mode campaign ribbons, they were won in the battle of Gamma Phi Beta. And then there's the Chi Phi who wants his name to appear in the women's column. Sorry, can't think of any reason for using it, Wall.

Parties Galore

With things settling down to normal there is the usual round of parties to report with AChiO taking the lead, for they were entertained twice within the past week. On Sunday afternoon by the Chi Phis and at a dinner Wednesday night by the SAEs.

The Kappa Deltas will entertain for the Pi Kappa Phis and the Phi Sigma Kappas in the Northwest lounge of Ath, at o'clock tonight. And the Pi Kappa Phis recently entertained Miss Ray at a dinner party.

Triangle recently initiated the following: John Bowman, Robert Carothers, John Fogle, James Stevenson, and Blair Thompson. Following the ceremony, the new brothers were honored at a dinner at the Nittany Lion Inn. Dean Hammond was guest speaker. And Phi Gamma Delta has elected Berne Cramer president. Other officers are: Charles Hauth, treasurer; Russell Smiley, secretary; Norman Walter, corresponding secretary, and Barry Anderson, historian.

Phi Mu Alpha, national music honorary, held elections recently, and the results are: G. William Henninger, supreme councilman; Bob Fredrickson, president; Herman Weed, vice-president; Al Zimmer, secretary-treasurer; Jim McKecknie, Warden, and Peter Danos, historian.

Coed Wins Air License

Piling up 100 flying hours since 1939, Marion Whitmore, pre-medical student and daughter of Frank C. Whitmore, dean of Chemistry and Physics, received her pilot's license under the Private Pilot Approved Curriculum at the State College Air Depot this year.

With these hours behind her Miss Whitmore has to spend approximately 50 more in the air to become a commercial pilot.

At the age of 13 the aviatrix started flying lessons with instructor Sherm Lutz, but that same year she went away to school and any flying she did was on weekends and during vacations.

The Private Pilot's course has been taken by several students here, two coeds being "Pete" Faloon, and Virginia Klaus, both graduates of last semester.

Druids

. . . sophomore men's honorary, recently elected John Sadden, president; Donald Herb, vice president; and Marvin Dempsey, secretary treasurer.

No Shorts, Rules WSGA

WSGA announces that shorts and slacks are to be worn only for recreational activities and labs. Coats or skirts should be worn over shorts when crossing the campus to a recreational area.

Sunbathing on campus will not be permitted after 3 p. m. on Saturdays, with the exception of McAllister Hall and Atherton where secluded areas have been provided for that purpose.

All women students living in town are to refrain from sunbathing because of the nearness of streets and neighbors to town houses.

Look Out, Fellows!

A Coed May Hook Ya

For 'Dungaree Drag'

Susie coed, your day has come! This is your chance to show your favorite beau, who's been squiring you all over campus; how really sweet you think he is. Or to get to know the fellow whom you see in psych class and who's somehow learned your first name. Or to meet your basketball hero. Ask him to Owens' "Dungaree Drag," which will be held in Recreation Hall from 9 to 12 p. m., April 27th. Music will be provided by the Campus Owls.

The third annual girl-ask-boy-dance sponsored by Owens, sophomore women's honorary promises to be one of the most novel on the College calendar, according to Mary Lou Waygood, Owens president. Coeds will wear dungarees and plaid shirts instead of the formal gowns.

"As in previous years, this is strictly a girl-ask-boy affair," stresses Miss Waygood. Coeds completely "turn-about" the date-calling for fellows at their rooming houses or fraternities, opening doors for them, and sending them vegetable corsages.

Co-chairmen for the dance are Russella Adamitz and Jo Ann Roraback. Other committees are: publicity: Doris Stowe, chairman, Jean Alderfer, Kay Badollet, Mary Lou Callahan; ticket chairman, Jean Posey; orchestra, Carol Preuss.

Book Exchange

. . . requests that all students who have receipts for books still out must call for their money at Student Union from 1:30 to 5 p. m. Tuesday.

MI Honorary To Initiate

Sigma Epsilon Sigma, newly organized honorary for women enrolled in Mineral Industries courses has selected Selma Moses as president, Mrs. Alfred Griess vice-president, Doris Handwerk, secretary, and Betty Rugh, treasurer. Formal initiation will take place in 106 Mineral Industries at 7:30 p. m. Monday.

In addition to the officers named, the following are charter members of the new group: Mrs. Katherine Fisher, Mrs. Elizabeth Hartner, Mrs. Ruth Hotton, Mrs. Evelyn Marboe, Anne Mulvehill, Mrs. Marjorie Nelson, Dorothy Pate, Hildreth Rose.
