Blackwood, Nelson, Porter, Walker Vie For Honor Title

Today is the last day to vote at Student Union for Quill Girl, most popular woman on campus. An outstanding coed receives this honor annually. The name of this year's Quill Girl will be announced Monday night at the Matrix Dinner, sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, national journalism honorary. The following coeds are candidates for the title: Marjorie Blackwood, Jean (Skeeter) Nelson, Florence Porter, and Rebecca Walker.

Marjorie Blackwood, Alpha Lambda Delta, Cwens, president of House of Representatives, Ellen H. Richards Club, junior and senior senator on W.S.G.A., Omicron Nu, president of Mortar Board, senior sponsor, and listed in "Who's Who Among Students."

Jean Nelson, president of Junior Service Board, is also a member of Senate, treasurer of W.S.G.A., assistant chairman of the May-Day festivities, corresponding secretary of Gamma Phi Beta, and treasurer of Tau Phi Sigma, business honorary.

Florence Porter, W.S.G.A. president, is a member of All-College Cabinet and the Penn State Christian Association.

Rebecca Walker, who is a W.R.A. senior advisor, president of Lakonides, All-College secretary-treasurer, and secretary of Chi Omega, also competes in intermural and all-college sports.

First May Queen Reigns in 1914

This year's revival of May Day ceremonies on the lawn of Old Main brings a sister act to crown a long series of traditions interrupted only by two wars.

Though Sara and Jayne Pollard, this year's queen and maid of honor, are the first sisters to hold May Day positions together, two former May Queens have sent their daughters to the College, perhaps hoping to keep Penn State May Days in the family.

Red Cross Certificates Go to 5 College Coeds

Penn State is one of the first colleges in the United States to complete the Red Cross Home Service Course. Five coeds received certificates for the course sponsored by the Red Cross campus unit.

Norma Fuller, Shirley Kruman, Betty Jane Mellinger, Gertrude Spector, and Millicent Watson are the coeds that have completed the course and are now qualified to do volunteer work. They attended ten two-hour meetings and did fifteen hours of volunteer work at Red Cross Headquarters.

Mrs. William Snyder conducted the course. There is another Home Service Course being given now in Altoona but none on campus.

men will agree that combined action by a truly representative group such as the council or a committee appointed to make a study of the facts concerned, would find a much more receptive ear and obtain more satisfaction than three men, who seek to gain added strength and sway public opinion to their petty complaints by publishing such an article based on half-truths and ignoring the many things which have been done up to the present.

Contact Council
I take this opportunity to remind these men that I, too, am in favor of further improvements in our community and I extend to them a personal invitation to contact me either singly or as a group with their complaints. In this way, I feel that something constructive can be accomplished. I shall be glad to present their complaints to the next regular meeting of our Council or to have them appear in person to present their case.

This is a public reply by a member of the present administration of Windcrest. I have stated facts, not biased opinions, and I stand ready to corroborate all statements made above. Ordinarily, I would not dignify such an article as the Engineer editorial by an official reply, but I feel that such undue misrepresentation cannot be tolerated. Finally, I would like to set an example for these men by signing this article with my name. I do not wish to lay down a smoke screen behind which I can conceal my identity while I snipe at various people. I have the courage of my convictions and confidence in the Council which represents the residents of Windcrest.

STANLEY C. GROSS,
Burgess

and all councilmen.

The first May Queen was Mildred Ride, 1914, who is now Mrs. Bruce Dunlap. Her daughter, Mary Margaret Dunlap, was WSGA president before her graduation last October, but never had a chance to repeat her mother's role because of the suspension of May Days during the war.

Margaret Barnard '34 was the May Queen's freshman attendant in 1931 and then reigned over the ceremonies as queen in her senior year. In 1949, when this year's freshman maid of honor will be eligible to be queen, another May Queen's daughter will also be in line for the honor. She is Dorothy Huber, daughter of the 1923 queen, Mary Youngs.

May Day ceremonies have been held every year since 1914 except the two wartime periods, 1914-21 and 1941 until this year.

Dr. Snyder To Discuss
