

Ray Analyzes WSGA Votes

Miss Charlotte E. Ray, dean of women, offered the following statement concerning the low percentage of votes in the recent Women's Student Government Association elections:

"Having been asked why the recent election of WSGA officers brought such a small vote, I venture a reply without sufficient student information to confirm my views.

"In the first place, let it be understood that voting is limited to the three lower classes, as outgoing seniors have no part in the elections. Then there are certain positions in Senate for which the voting is restricted to one class; however, facts do not explain the low vote for major offices.

"It is possible that many students were so well satisfied with the choices thus made that they did not think through to the need of voting at the finals. Here is the point at which Senate will wish to add one more task next year: a presentation through Collegian of the education in citizenship always given in the Senate of WSGA. This will probably induce a much larger proportion of women students to express themselves at the polls."

Cwens Install New Officers

Cwens, national sophomore honorary society, initiated 31 new members and installed officers for the coming year at the annual Meade Hall banquet at the State College Hotel, Sunday evening.

Aletha Potteiger was installed as president of the chapter; Sally Henry as vice-president; Janet Lyons, secretary; Marjorie Gorham, treasurer; and Patricia Sutter, ritual chairman.

Newly-initiated Cwens are: Josephine Bihl, Susan Bissey, Madelyn Bush, Elizabeth Cook, Helen Dickerson, Pauline Globisch, Marjorie Gorham, Margie Griffiths, Sally Henry, Lois Heyd, Myrna Hinkle, Betty Lou Horn.

Perhaps your writer is a wee bit prejudiced, but the important event of this weekend was the Collegian banquet. (Nothing concealed here.) Anyway, the high point of the evening came with the appearance of Bud Mellot and a few others from the forthcoming Thespian show. Our congratulations to the tricky little tap dancers in extremely brief shorts who never even missed a step when they glanced down at the audience and beheld the guest of honor, President Hetzel, sitting in the front row. And not that we want to extend free publicity or anything, but if Bud and his troupe are any indication of what the Thespians are preparing, it's gonna be good.

With The Greeks

Recent events in the world of the Greeks, were a Phi Sigma Kappa hayride, a KD picnic at Whipples' Dam and a Zeta picnic. The last was scheduled for Hort Woods, but since State College is enjoying a cyclonic storm, (a la Geography 24) the coeds were forced to picnic in a cozy lounge in Ath. At least it was dry but think of all the ants who missed out. The Beta Sigs will serve tea to the Phi Sig Sigs, the SDTs, and the AEPs tomorrow night.

There was much talk around campus about the fact that Froth was a day late with its first issue, but the climax came when a little boy scarcely tall enough to stick his nose above the Student Union counter came in and asked, "Is that new magazine, Froth, out yet?" And all this time we thought that Froth was a magazine for the BIG boys.

Bride To Be

Zeta Connie Walters, who plans to become Mrs. Joseph Ross come June 12, was feted at a shower in one of the Ath lounges Saturday afternoon. Her maid-of-honor-to-be, sorority sister Bette Craven, was hostess. Another event of June 12 is the birthday party of Jeff, who in case you haven't been

Junior Board Initiates 8

Junior Service Board, junior women's honorary, initiated eight coeds at a formal ceremony in 305 Old Main Wednesday, announced Jean "Skeeter" Nelson, president today.

The following girls, chosen on the basis of scholarship and sophomore activities, were initiated: Mary Margaret Barnett, Edith Laib, Dorothy Lees, Claire Perks, Phyllis Reigle, Wanda Rickard, Claire Robinson, and Margaret Stridinger.

Members of the arrangement committee were Phoebe Forrest, Betsy Heage, and Peggy Hoffman.

Lots of sorority initiations this weekend. Among them were the Alpha Xis, the KDs, and the Thetas. The AOPis recently pledged Gloria Beaver, Elizabeth Cutler, Laura Johnston, Barbara Plumly, Barbara Snyder and Joanne Snyder.

James Bard, Robert Drick, and Edward Hyde recently attended a regional Phi Sigma Kappa conclave in Philly. The AEPs have installed the following officers: Jeanne Rich, dean; Elaine Mittelman, sub-dean; Naomi Cahuse, treasurer; Lois Morris, scribe, and Sherry Feldman, registrar.

Best Seller?

One of the local English profs highly recommended the book, "Will of the Mill," by Stevenson, to his class, and an eager beaver rushed up to the central library to take out the book, hoping to get there before any one beat him to it. Imagine his surprise to find that no one had taken the book out since 1930. Dusty, wasn't it?

'Penny A Meal' Returns Total Enough for Heifer

"Penny A Meal" returns brought in enough pennies from coeds to buy a heifer announced Doris Jenkins, chairman of the European Relief Committee, today. The totals have mounted to approximately $135.

During the clothing drive an estimated amount of 450 pounds was collected. There were 75 cans turned in under the "Can A Man" plan.

Treble Singers Present 'Opus No. 2' Concert

One-hundred fifteen Treble Singers will sing forth at their concert, "Opus No. 2" in Schwab Auditorium, 8:30 p. m. Friday. This will be their second concert since their organization in December 1945, the first being "Opus No. 1."

The program will include music of a semi-classical, popular and specialty nature, with a piano duet, solo singing and numbers by the "Swing Trio" of Carolyn Detz, Sara Freedly and Jean Isenberg.

Coed Society To Pledge 43

Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's honorary, will tap 43 coeds in the Southwest Atherton lounge at 6:30 tonight. This is the largest group to be eligible for admittance into the society since its founding at the College in 1930.

A 2.5 all-college average either at the end of the first or second semester is required for admission into the national fraternity.

Spinsters Sports

The semi-finals of the intramural softball tournament are now in progress. Alpha Omicron Pi, last year's champs, Alpha Xi Delta and Alpha Chi Omega, all undefeated, are the chief contenders for the title.

Thursday night AChiO, under the speedball pitching of Hannie Ludwig, defeated Chi Omega, 14-6. Nittany Coop defeated Kappa Alpha Theta, 22-0. Coop defeated Atherton and Zeta Tau Alpha topped Phi Mu Wednesday to put those winners in the semi-finals. Chi Omega and Delta Gamma, with one loss each, are also still competing.

Kappa Alpha Theta won the first round of the intramural archery tournament Wednesday night. The next round will take place at 6:30 tomorrow. All teams competing should be at the archery range at that time.

The same sorority which captured the badminton crown won the ping-pong title recently. Becky Walker, Chi Omega, won out in the finals.

Dr. Cramblet—

(Continued from page one) tomorrow. Each fraternity represented should come prepared to pay for two tickets, one to be used by the fraternity's undergraduate representative at the banquet and the other for the use of the advisor.

Women Start Revolution; Make Out On Collegian

Remember? The good old days when women just sat back and looked pretty. A woman could not be the editor of Collegian. Why, she couldn't even be on the Collegian staff.

Men finally realized the need for the feminine touch on September 25, 1927 when they issued a call for candidates, emphasizing that women were eligible too.

In this minor revolution women were allowed to have a column of their own, the first written by Katherine Holbrook. In one issue the "Women's Corner" called down the co-eds for careless table manners and urged them to read the Mac Hall bulletin board.

Until a few years ago the highest a woman could rise on Collegian was to the post of woman's editor. In that capacity she had charge of all the women on the staff.

With the coming of the war, women saw their chance to prove to the male editors that they could hold down that job. When Paul Woodland left for the armed forces in the spring of 1943, Jane Murphy took over his job, that of editor-in-chief.

Once the girls had their hands on the editorship they did not let go. Alice Fox and Leah Learner followed Miss Murphy into the editor's shoes. The girls somewhat lost their touch in the next two semesters, but in the summer semester of 1945 Helen Hatton brought the glory back to the female sex.

The current editor of Collegian, Woodene Bell, is the fifth coed to hold that post—the first to be editor for an entire college year.
