Sage Shrdlu Offers Final Exam Hints

With finals less than two weeks away, Etaoin Shrdlu, renowned sage, dropped into the Collegian office the other day to see what could be done in the way of a little inspiration.

After a quick glance at the listless, glazed expressions on the coed reporters sitting around the rim, he reached for a sheet of copy paper, scribbled down some words, and with a wry smile left the room.

(Editor's note: We found philosopher Shrdlu's advice to Penn Staters in the waste basket, and have reproduced them in the ears of our paper.)

Phi Beta Kappa Elects 7 Seniors

Seven seniors have been elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honor society, it was announced today.

'King of Swing' Skippers SS Penn State Thespians Present 'No Time for Trouble'

Kerns Calls Early 'Curtain' To Accomodate Dancers

When the house lights in Schwab auditorium dim tonight and the curtain parts, students and townspeople will be seeing the first Thespian show in over two years.

"No Time For Trouble" is the title, and the time is 7 p.m. Seats are unreserved and tickets are on sale at Student Union as well as the box-office. The prices including tax are 75 cents for tonight's show and $1 for tomorrow night.

The early curtain time will enable students to attend both the show and the dance at Recreation Hall. Only the capacity of the auditorium will be sold. However, Mike Kerns, production manager, added that in case any seats are unoccupied at curtain time, additional tickets will be sold at the door.

Maestros Attend Show

Thespian officials indicated last night that Benny Goodman, maestro of the Interfraternity Ball, has accepted an invitation to be present at tonight's production. Fred Waring has also been invited to attend. Waring is a former Thespian and has attended most of the group's shows. The band leader is expected to feature "No Time For Trouble" songs on his 11 a.m. NBC broadcast, following past tradition.

The plot of the show centers around the return to the campus of a group of veterans (both male and female). Leads are handled by Ray Fortunato and Tawnie Hillia newly married couple who want to live "Alone in a Trailer;" Vinge Neely, "A Yokel from Shinbone;" Marty Baum, a "Broken-Hearted Joe;" Betsy Heagy, who says that she's just a "Fuddy Duddy;" and Portman Paget as "Mr. Cowbreath."

Groups Back Famine Drive

Four more sororities and one fraternity have pledged their support in the College Emergency Famine Drive.

Phi Sigma Delta fraternity will support a child for one year. Alpha Omicron Pi and Kappa Delta sororities together has pledged the support of one European child. Alpha Chi Omega will donate $25 to the drive and Theta Phi Alpha $5.

A total of $4,787.75 has been sent to six agencies by the State College Committee. This amount is approximately two-thirds of the quota of $7,500, according to Russell E. Clark, chairman of the drive. The College funds have not yet been turned in.

Organizations which have "adopted" children will be issued forms on which they may state the age and sex of the child they prefer and the country they desire. The "adopted" children or their guardians will correspond directly with the organizations, and photographs of the children will be obtained if possible.

Veterans

... who entered school for the Fall semester and have not received their subsistence checks should report to the Veterans Administration at once. Those planning not to return for the Summer sessions should check with the office. Otherwise, the continuance of their subsistence will be in danger.

BENNY GOODMAN

Ceramics Group To Hear Steidle

Dean Edward Steidle of the School of Mineral Industries will speak at the Pennsylvania Ceramic Association banquet at the Nittany Lion Inn at 6:30 tonight.

Other speakers at the banquet, which is being held in conjunction with the ceramics conference on campus this weekend, are Ralph W. Gery, president of the organization, Charles E. Alwine, J. Edward Hansen, and Robert Twells. Edwin M. Fritz will be toastmaster.

The conference which is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Ceramics Association, the Structural Clay Products Manufacturers' Association of Pennsylvania, and the student branch of the American Ceramics Society, includes technical programs of the Ceramics Association this afternoon and tomorrow morning.

Ralph W. Gery will be chairman of the session in the Mineral Industries Art Gallery at 2 o'clock today. It will cover human relations, industrial hygiene in ceramic plants, new developments in safety equipment of special interest to ceramic plants, and increased production with music. Tomorrow, heat and its control, and temperature trends in the ceramic industries will be discussed in the M.I. Art Gallery, at 9:30 a.m.

The Structural Clay Products Manufacturers' Association will hold its June meeting in the M. I. Art Gallery at 10 o'clock today. The board of directors of the Pennsylvania Ceramics Association will have a business meeting and luncheon in the banquet room of the State College Hotel at noon today. This afternoon at 3 o'clock these two organizations will hold a ladies tea in the Nittany Lion Inn lounge. Mrs. E. C. Henry will be the hostess.

Theta Sigma Phi

IFC Tickets Go On Sale At AA Window Today

The one and only "King of Swing," Benny Goodman returns to Recreation Hall tonight after a four-year lapse, to open the Interfraternity Council's weekend on the SS Penn State. Admission for the informal dance is $4 per couple, tax included.

Tickets go on sale today at the Athletic Association window in Old Main, and tickets will also be sold at Recreation Hall tonight. A souvenir dance book will be given with each ticket.

Goodman appears at the IFC dance after an engagement at Sunnybrook near Pottstown last night. Before this the "King of Swing" was at the 400 Club in New York.

Orchestra Reorganized

In the past years the Benny Goodman orchestra has changed and since the end of the war has been reorganized with new feature artists. Mel Powell, rated one of the nation's outstanding pianists, and Lou McGarity, trombone player who has been in many night club combos, rejoined Goodman. They are the two members of the band who played here in 1942.

Other artists in the Goodman orchestra are singing star Art Lund, who has gained in all popularity polls, while newest addition to the Goodman band is Louis Bellson, who played with the pre-war band before going into the Army.

Uses French Horn

Doing what few dance orchestras have done, Benny Goodman uses the French horn, and Addison Collins, who was with the old Glenn Miller Army Air Force band, joins the orchestra to play the horn.
