The Little Man

Music Charms Man with Baton

By LOIS MARKS

When the overture to the Thespian show, "No Time for Trouble," rings out in Schwab tonight, the man behind the baton will be Walt Klinikowski.

The music racket is old stuff to Walt. He has been playing with dance bands since he was 15. He has played with various outfits in and around Allentown, and even spent one season in burlesque. On campus, he played with Pat Patterson's band, and is now pianist with the Campus Owls.

The band Walt will lead in the show is made up of players from Paul Grove's band, and a few other campus musicians. Pat Lamade, who has arranged a great deal of music for "No Time," plays the piano. The string section features George Barber, Thad Komorowski and Anne Wisden, on the violin, and Bob Burge, bass. The sax section is Bunny Rotili, lead; Charles Zoslow, second tenor; and Joby Hess, third solo. Paul rove plays the trumpet and Bob Krebs will beat it out on the drums.

More Than Waving Stick

There's a lot more to leading the Thespian orchestra than just waving a stick. With Pat Lamade and Ray Fortunato, Walt has been busy arranging the music, writing a score for every part. Since music is essential in practicing song-and-dance numbers, the band has to be at rehearsal every night, playing the same numbers over and over again. Putting on a musical comedy, as any Thespian will be only too eager to tell you, is not beer and skittles, but a lot of hard work.

"No Time for Trouble" is not

Thespians Maestro

the only musical Walt has worked on. He also knocked himself out over Player's "Curse of Gold," and says that he will probably continue to work for Players next year.

"This is the only Thespian show I ever worked for," Walt says. "I wasn't at State before the war but transferred here from Lehigh. This is the first coed college I ever attended, and it seemed funny to be going to classes with girls. Nice, though."

Former Navigator

Walt spent his time between Lehigh and State working for Uncle Sam as a navigator in the Army Air Corps. Before that time, he couldn't make up his mind between music and psychology. He is now a sixth semester psych major, claiming that frustrated people fascinate him. But it is obvious that music still has its charms.

"I wrote two of the numbers in the show," Walt says, "He's Such a Nice Boy" and "Shinbone, Pa." I did the arranging on the operetta and the overture, "Paris in the Spring," and "Broken-hearted Joe."

Walt, who is a D U has not lost his touch for music my majoring in psychology. He has just had an offer to quit school and play the piano with Johnny Long's band. A guy like that is bound to make any show good listening.

Navy Honors Ordnance Men

Seven members of the staff of the Ordnance Research Laboratory at the College have been awarded the Naval Ordnance Development Award by the United States Navy Bureau of Ordnance.

Those cited are Dr. Eric A. Walker, director; A. Nelson Butz, assistant director; R. H. Howe, associate professor of engineering research; Dr. Charles H. Tindal, assistant professor of engineering research; Paul B. Sebring, research assistant; Dr. Carl M. Herget, personnel director; and Dr. Harvey Brooks, until recently assistant director and professor of engineering research.

In letters accompanying the certificates, Rear Admiral G. F. Hussey Jr., chief of the bureau of ordnance, congratulated the men for their "outstanding performance in connection with the research and development of anti-submarine weapons and special torpedoes."

He added that the awards were the "symbol of appreciation from the Bureau of Ordnance and from the entire Navy for your unremitting efforts and keen technical ability which you have consistently displayed."

Montar Board, senior women's honorary, gives annually three scholarships of $50 each to members of their class who have made unusual achievements in self-support, as well as maintaining good scholastic records.
