Thespians elected Bud Mellott production manager for the fall semester, at a recent organization meeting; and set Schwab auditorium, 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night as the scene for the tryouts for the production.

Thespians have already written the book and composed some of the music for the show. "Without giving it away, I can say that the show will plug the Student Union building," said Mellott.

Gorden Fisk was elected stage manager; Bob Wickus, lighting; Al Truax, properties; Portman Paget, make-up. George Wasko, advertising manager; Pete Johnson, business; Richard Frontman, book director; Ray Fortunato, music director.

Bud Mellott will direct the dances; Joe Garner heads construction, John Holmes will be in charge of personnel. Since some of these men are not Thespians, Mellott stated, these posts are not definite.

Looking back to the war years, the president stated that more than 6,000 students left campus to enter the services while another 6,000 were in the armed forces. Four hundred of these gave their lives, he added.

"The faculty and staff gave to the fullest of their genius and resources during the war. We can write into the record another proud chapter of Penn State history," he emphasized.

There is a possibility that the decision may be reversed by the Washington office when an assistant to the Chief of Contract Section of the Wilkes-Barre VA office comes to the campus Thursday for a conference with the College Accounting office—provided an answer has come from the Capitol in the meantime.

Graduate students, who have questioned the paying of $7.50 for the athletic book plus the tax, are in another category. They, like the faculty, are not assessed the $4.00 athletic fee which goes for maintenance, nor the $7.50 for the athletic book. Unlike the undergraduate student, the graduate MAY OR MAY NOT purchase the athletic book, as he chooses.

On the other hand, full-time under-graduate students are assessed the $4.00 for athletic fees and $7.50 for the athletic book. If the student does not desire the athletic book, he will still be billed the $1.50 tax since the College catalogue lists the athletic payment in semester fees just like class and library fees.
