

With The Editor— Politics

Since so many men are new to the campus this Fall a short account of the politic set-up might not be amiss.

There are, at the present two political parties: Key and Nittany-Independent. In view of the fact that preliminary nominations must be made Sunday evening, October 6, it is unlikely that any other parties will be in competition this Fall.

They could not possibly get a petition signed and have it approved by the Senate Committee on Student Welfare by Sunday.

At the present time both parties are open for suggestions and it is possible to join either one. Students interested should contact Al Green at the Phi Epsilon Pi house, for the Nittany-Independent party, and Lloyd Barkley at the Alpha Chi Sigma house for information on the Key party.

While it is too late to form new parties, it is not too late to join either party and make nominations from the floor Sunday evening.

Neither political party, at the present, can be considered a machine. Both have the usual "inner circle," but these inner circles don't always successfully call their shots.

Both parties are comprised of fraternity and independent men. It is therefore possible for independent or fraternal groups, interested in backing any particular student, to work on either party.

The important decision to make, of course, is which party can offer your candidate the most.

Letters to the Ice Box Cool Off Here

TO THE EDITOR: I want to express to you my very sincere appreciation for the fine way in which you handled the story of Education 105 in your opening issue. That story has been responsible for bringing our course to the attention of a great many students who are interested and who need the kind of help that we can give them. You have done both us and the students a favor.

Very sincerely yours,
Eason Monroe

• We note, after glancing at a recent issue of LOOK magazine, that The Pennsylvania State College is not one of America's 100 best schools, according to a polling of state superintendents and other prominent educators in the United States.

• We notice that the Bellefonte Chamber of Commerce has decided not to oppose OPA rent control in the County. The Centre Daily Times suggests that perhaps one group, at least, can see the handwriting on the tenants.

But we would like to point out that Bellefonte has no large transitory group of students as State College does. And then, too, the State College C. of C. just might have a more active secretary than the Bellefonte group. There is no denying the fact that Col. Guy Mills has done an excellent job in carrying out his duties as Secretary of the State College Chamber of Commerce.

Rent Control

There has been quite a bit of howling about OPA rent control from various sources.

Tuesday evening, Mr. Schumacher, OPA Rent Control Administrator from Williamsport, talked before a group of students and townspeople.

In view of the fact that so few people found time to attend the meeting, Collegian gives you a few quotes from his address:

"Every tenant should have received a copy of his landlord's registration, if he is living anywhere other than a rooming house. This registration shows the maximum rent that may be charged for such an accommodation.

"If the rent is higher than that of January 1, 1946, or if the tenant has never received the registration report from his landlord, he should report it to the OPA office in Williamsport.

"New tenants do not receive a copy of the landlord's registration, but the landlord must present his registration for the new tenant to sign.

"In addition, the landlord must report on a proper form within five days after renting to a new tenant. This form shows the maximum legal rent; rent received from the former tenant; new tenant's rent and also any change of equipment since last renting.

"The rooming house is handled by the OPA in a different manner, which was devised to protect the landlord form being forced to comply with eviction rules.

"If the accommodations are a rooming house, the situation is handled differently. Each room must have posted in a conspicuous place the maximum legal rents for that room for a certain number of occupants on a monthly, weekly, or daily basis.

"If a landlord rents to one or two tenants in his own home who are not members of his immediate family, the tenants are not subject to eviction regulations of the rent control law. The landlords, however, must register with the OPA and ceiling rents apply to their rooms."

Thespians Try Talent Tonight

No experience is necessary to try out for Thespians in Schwab auditorium, 7:30 o'clock tonight, stated Bud Mellott, production manager.

"Some previous experience may be helpful for those interested in construction, lighting, properties, or costumes," said Mellott, "but it is not necessary for anyone trying out for the singing or dancing. Thespians would like to encourage men as well as women to try out for dancing and singing."

Because one of the Three Stooges will graduate in January, Thespians are looking for someone to understudy the part. They are also interested in any material for the Stooges, or original music and songs.

Tryouts will also be held tonight for the orchestra. Pianists are needed.

Next week, Thespians will hold tryouts for speaking parts.

Three of Faculty Join Acoustical Society

Three members of the faculty of the College have been elected fellows of the Acoustical Society of America.

Elected for "rendering considerable service in the advancement of acoustics and for notable contributions to the field" were Eric A. Walker, professor of electrical engineering and director of the Ordnance Research Laboratory, Harvey Brooks, professor of Engineering Research and Harold K. Schilling associate professor of physics.

In 1867 the first three experimental physics were established by the College.

Ain't Always Funny:

Comic Angles Bright Spots

"Newspaper comics used to be only funny, or what then passed for being funny, but now they are many things. They are fantastic, gruesome, adventurous and at times tremendously moral," Louis H. Bell, director of the Department of Public Information at the College, told Bellefonte Kiwanians yesterday.

Mr. Bell, a former newspaper man, spoke in celebration of National Newspaper Week at the club's weekly luncheon at the Penn Belle Hotel.

In his talk, "The Serious Side of the Comics," the speaker stressed the importance of newspaper comics and the great following they have among readers of all ages.

In a world in which papers relect many unpleasant events, the comics are the "spot on the bright side of the street," Mr. Bell said.

He explained the mechanics of producing comic strips, the manner in which they are sold and something of the men and women who write and draw them.

Comics reach 81,000,000 readers in 2,000 daily and Sunday papers and another large audience in weekly and semi-weekly papers, the speaker said.

He paid tribute to the "good, progressive and intelligent" job being done by newspapers in Centre County and throughout the country. He said that a community gets the type of papers that the people in the community want.

ley, newly elected chairman of the Key clique, announced that all clique members and also those interested in the Key clique should attend a meeting in 121 Sparks, 7 o'clock tonight.

Barkley added that one of the possibilities as the new name is Campus-Key.

Over on the other side of the race, Al Green, chairman of the Nittany-Independent clique, announced that a new junior clique chairman will direct the Nittany-Independents' race for junior class offices. Neil DeVries has been appointed to take over the duties from Robert J. Day.

Both cliques will meet Sunday night to present a preliminary slate for the coming elections. Time and place of these meetings will be listed in tomorrow's Daily Collegian.
