TIENSIN—China's civil war showed no signs of diminishing. A Catholic anti-Communist newspaper, the Tientsin Social Welfare, said that Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalists had launched a land and sea assault on Chefoo. The unconfirmed dispatch added that one Nationalist column had penetrated the suburbs of the Shantung port city and that its fall was imminent.

WASHINGTON—Both sides in the Transworld Airlines dispute accepted the National Mediation Board's invitation to a conference in Washington which raised hopes of settling the strike by 14 hundred TWA pilots.

NEW YORK—The president of the CIO American Communications Association, Joseph Seely, announced that a threatened Western Union telegraph strike had been postponed, one week until October 30th.

WASHINGTON—It's being whispered in certain circles that those long-missing bottles of scotch and old bourbon may be on liquor dealers shelves next week. Certain industry leaders who don't want their names mentioned are hinting those much-prized beverages have been around all the time, waiting for the end of OPA. And the price agency is lifting all food controls at midnight on everything from bread to whiskey. The only food ceilings left will be on sugar, syrups and rice.

Robert St. John To Open Forum

"Can We Avoid World War III?" will be discussed by Robert St. John, war correspondent, author and well-known radio personality, in Schwab Auditorium tomorrow at 8 p.m. as the first lecture of the Community Forum Series.

Mr. St. John is replacing Herbert Agar, who was forced to cancel his engagement due to ill health.

St. John, who since 1939 has lived among the peoples of 29 nations involved in World War II, was in Paris when Poland was invaded and then he witnessed the entrance of Nazi troops into Bucharest and Bulgaria.

Following the fall of Greece, from which he escaped on the last British evacuation ship, St. John went to England to become NBC's London commentator.

During 1944-45 he witnessed the Nazi monster's dying struggles from vantage points in both England and France, and at the same time produced his first novel written against a background of war, "It's Always Tomorrow." His first book, "From the Land of Silent People," is the graphic story of the four terrible weeks which followed his flight from Belgrade.

St. John is an inside informationist, always persisting in digging far below the surface for news to bring to his listeners. His deep

Sudden Death Strikes Jack Hulme, Nittany Lion Trainer For Ten Years

Jack Hulme, 57, athletic trainer for Penn State teams for the past ten years, died at the Centre County Hospital shortly before noon yesterday.

Hulme, who hadn't missed an athletic event since his arrival at the College in 1936, entered the hospital the day before the season's opening game against Bucknell. He had undergone an operation for ulcers a week ago.

One of the best known athletic trainers in the nation, Hulme was outstanding for his work in football and basketball.

He was respected among medical circles for his physiotherapy work and frequently taught first aid at the State College High

Foote, Smiley Take All-College; N.-I. Captures Six Class Offices

Nittany-Independent candidates out-classed Campus-Key in the All-College elections by sweeping the All-College offices and two of the three class elections.

Robert Foote and Russell Smiley won the All-College presidency and vice-presidency respectively from Campus-Key candidates Clifford St. Clair and James Duff by a margin of over 600 votes. Foote received 1,652 ballots to 1,023 cast for St. Clair.

Riding the Foote bandwagon, Albert Green defeated Raymond Shibley 1,392 to 1,263 for the post of All-College secretary-treasurer.

In their only victory of the election, Campus-Key candidate James Sheehan won the Senior class presidency by less than 100 votes over Nittany-Independent Arthur P. Miller. Sheehan polled 341 votes to Miller's 264.

Eugene Fulmer, Nittany-Independent was elected Junior class president by 50 votes over Pete Johnson, Campus-Key candidate. Fulmer received 457 votes to Johnson's 403.

In another hotly-contested race Richard Sarge won the Sophomore class presidency for Nittany-Independent over Campus-Key Emory Brown by a 58 vote margin. Sarge polled 623 ballots to Brown's 569.

William "Red" Moore was elected president of the Athletic Association when male voters cast 1,124 votes for him while giving 625 to his opponent, Curtis Stone. Stone automatically received the vice-presidency.

Another footballer, Bronco Kosanovich won the secretary post of the Athletic Association over Dave Hornstein by pulling 1,295 to Hornstein's 431.

Campus-Key Barbara McCleary won over Rosemary Genetti 324 to 263 in the Senior class; Jacqueline Zivic defeated Louise Grossman 459 to 368; and Patricia Kinkead tallied 685 to Jane Fouracre's 526.

Greeters Plan Dance

The Penn State Junior Greeters' Club will sponsor "The Belle Hop," an informal dance in Recreation Hall Nov. 2 according to George Earnshaw, dance chairman.

Featuring Glenn Michaels and his orchestra from Wilkes-Barre, dancing will be in vogue from 8:30 p.m. to midnight, Earnshaw stated.

No Reason For Birds To Travel South This Winter

Have you seen "the beard" on campus lately?

He is Ed Hinkle of Pollock Circle, who, by the way, was the winner of last week's Collegian cheer contest. As far as he knows, his is the only beard on campus.

Ed started growing his fiery red "spade beard" about five weeks ago, and it is now 3/4 inches in length. When asked why, all he would say was, "I just grew it, that's all."

At the time, his father and brother encouraged him in the project, and now he is so accustomed to it that he thinks it may be a permanent attachment.

A final word from Ed: "You can laugh or stare all you want, but don't get too familiar."

Drop-adds Jump

Although a fee of $1 is charged for drop-adds, students have dropped approximately 2600 since the beginning of the semester. It takes as much work to straighten up a drop-add as it does to record the original schedule of the student, the registrar's office said.

News Briefs

Artists' Course Tickets

Student tickets to the Artists' Course were sold out by 3:30 p.m. yesterday, announced Dr. C. E. Marquardt, chairman of the committee. Approximately 700 seats were sold to students. The remainder of the 1400 seats will be sold to faculty and townspeople today on presentation of priority stubs. Tickets will go on sale at the Athletic Association office window in Old Main at 8 o'clock this morning.

Pollock Circle Elections

Men of Pollock Circle will elect their permanent semester officers during the luncheon hour today. Voters will present their meal tickets as they enter the cafeteria and they will be issued their ballots. Each unit will elect a president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer; the presidents of all the units forming the Pollock Circle Council.

Men's Bridge Club

An organization meeting of the Men's Bridge Club will be held in 405 Old Main at 7:30 p.m. tonight. The meeting will include playing of a few hands of bridge and discussion of the following questions: number of meetings each month, men only or invited guests, fee for prizes, meetings with WRA, and tournaments. The club is sponsored by Student Recreation of the School of Physical Education and Athletics.

La Vie Call

Meeting of seventh and eighth semester students interested in staff positions for La Vie, and especially those who have already worked on La Vie, will be held in 412 Old Main, 7 o'clock.

Rod and Coccus Elects

Rod and Coccus Club, medical technology and bacteriology organization, elected the following officers at a recent reorganization meeting: Kathleen Angelillo, president; Helen Herr, vice president; and Jane Pollard, secretary-treasurer. Ag Student Council representatives elected are Kathleen Angelillo, Ruth Brenner, and Michael Swantko. Future meetings will be held the first Thursday of and Allen Vohden, treasurer, every month at 7 p.m.

Panhel Extends Open Bidding

Open bidding for the first week of the spring semester has been approved by the Panhellenic Council. Girls who were here up to and including last spring semester and with an All-College one will be eligible for rushing during this period.

After the first week of the spring semester there will be open rushing. No definite rules concerning this period have been set up yet, except that at this time girls who have been on campus one entire semester will be eligible, provided they have the required average.

Further committees were announced for the Panhellenic Ball to be held in White Hall, January 10. Tickets for the dance will be available only through sorority social chairmen. The chairmen of committees are as follows: Margaret Cook, tickets; Sarajane Cherasore, program; Jacqueline Zivic, orchestra; Jo Ann Kranich, decorations; Ruth Wilson, publicity; Virginia Babbitt, refreshments; and Jane Spicher, entertainment.

Bridge Club For Men Holds Initial Session

The call-to-Culbertson was sounded by Ray Conger, in charge of student recreation yesterday. The meeting will take place tonight in 405 Old Main, at 7:30 p.m.

Tonight's gathering will be for men only, however one of the things up for discussion will be the status of women in the new organization. Mr. Conger realizes that some of the Winterfest residents come in non-detachable pairs, and provisions will be made for this. The possibility of meetings with the WRA Bridge Club will also be discussed.

Although the first meeting will be mainly for organizational purposes, a few hands of bridge will be played.

Tournament playing will feature these meetings, with the hope that if enough interest is shown the College might eventually be represented in the scheduled nation-wide intercollege contract bridge contest.
