NEW YORK—The shape of Soviet policy abroad has begun to emerge more clearly following yesterday's lengthy footnote by Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov to the comments yesterday of Premier Stalin. The Stalin statement was viewed by foreign observers in Moscow as likely to have an immense effect on building peace and in implementing the effectiveness of the United Nations and the Foreign Ministers Council.

Here in brief is what the Soviet representative had to say:

He underscored Stalin's attack on Winston Churchill by accusing the wartime British prime minister and his friends of managing a campaign against the Soviet Union. He said Churchill's group had influence both in Britain and America and he said the aim of the campaign is domination by the people running it.

The Soviet Foreign Commissar charged that two political tendencies are in conflict. He identified one, as aimed at cooperation for peace—"with which," he said, "we all agree." He said the other was aimed at the domination of other countries. Molotov dismissed the

Pollock Circle Elects Officers

Pollock Circle Council elected Phillip Davis president at its first official business meeting Monday. As Council president, Davis will represent Pollock Circle on the All-College Cabinet in an executive capacity.

Dropping their numerical identities, the fourteen units of the Circle will adopt the names of fourteen State men who died in World War I and II, according to Alexander Atty, resident counselor of Pollock Circle. The names will be adopted at the second council meeting scheduled for next Wednesday.

Other officers elected at the Council meeting were Edward Koval, vice president; W. Wilson, secretary; A. H. Lentz, treasurer. Committee chairmen appointed were A. Serafini, program; Edward Koval, scholarship; T. Reissmann, social; P. Ianni, recreation; M. Shapiro, public works; F. Maguire, health and sanitation; J. Hartman, cultural; G. Lytchko, athletic; J. P. Green, public safety; D. W. Mitchell, fire prevention.

College Artist To Attend Chicago Cocktail Party

By RALPH PEARSON

A junior in the Department of Fine Arts has been granted permission by the Dean of Men to attend a cocktail party in Chicago Friday.

Don't get the Dean wrong, however; it will be a party with a more serious purpose than have most such affairs. It is being held in honor of John T. Biggers, the above-mentioned junior, and at it he will meet

Chicago's most noted artists and writers. The following day he will formally unveil two murals that have brought him considerable fame in the world of art.

Biggers, a Navy veteran, transferred this semester from Hampton Institute where he had planned to study plumbing with the intention of eventually going into business in his home town of Gastonia, N. C. He was graduated second in his class from prep school at Lincoln Academy in King's Mountain, N. C.

In his freshman year at Hampton, he made such outstanding progress in art, a subject with which he had had no previous experience, that he decided to change his course from plumbing to painting. He has completed a sculpture and several paintings, but it was chiefly his two 8x10 foot murals done in the tempera technique that attracted critical

Tickets On Sale For Belle Hop

Tickets for Saturday night's Belle Hop, annual All-College dance sponsored by the Junior Greeters Club are now on sale and may be purchased from any Hotel Administration student for $2 including tax.

Latecomers may also purchase their tickets at the door or at Student Union, George Earnshaw, publicity chairman of the dance, stated.

The feature of the dance this year is the selection by applause of a coed to reign as "Belle of Belle Hop" with the prize of a free room in one of Pittsburgh's leading hotels for the Pitt Weekend.

Glenn Michael's orchestra of 14 pieces plus three vocalists will supply the dancers with rhythms in the style of the late Glenn Miller. Sweet danceable ballads are the specialties of Michael's group, who is establishing a name as one of the favorite orchestras for college dances in the East.

The Penn State Junior Greeters Club is an organization of Hotel Administration students. The name comes from a nationwide society of hotel managers and front office employees to which the local group was one of the first to be granted a junior charter.

The purpose of the dance, Earnshaw stated, is to acquaint students with the club and raise funds with which to entertain visiting prominent hotelmen who journey to the campus to lecture to the hotel students.

Foote to Take Oath of Office

Jack Branigan, chairman of the Elections Committee, will administer the oath of office to All-College President elect, Robert Foote, in 104 Old Main at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow.

Witnessing the ceremony in his capacity of Tribunal head will be Gordan Miller. Foote, in turn will inaugurate the remainder of the recently elected All-College Cabinet officers.

James Sheehan will become the first senior president under the newly revised constitution. Eugene Fulmer will take office as junior president and Richard Sarge as Sophomore president.

attention to his work.

The first was "The Dying Soldier" which won acclaim when it was exhibited at the Museum of Modern Art in New York City. It depicts a soldier dying on a barbed-wire entanglement while above him are shown scenes from his life as they crowd through his mind. The left side shows the spiritual side of the soldier's life while on the right is a graphic series of realistic episodes recalled from his ordinary experiences. Both elements combine to sweep away into the clouds.

The second mural entitled "The Rural Preacher" was first exhibited at the Museum of Fine Arts in Richmond, Va. It is a detailed study of the reactions and thoughts of a rural religious group as they respond emotionally to the eloquence of the preacher. Each

To Sing

Roland Hayes To Give Recital

Roland Hayes, celebrated Negro tenor, will give a concert in Schwab Auditorium November 14. Best known for his singing of spirituals, Hayes musical genius extends to all types of songs, no matter what the language or who the composer.

Hayes' favorite spiritual is his great-grandfather's account of the crucifixion called "He Never Said a Mumberlin' Word." His great-grandfather had been a high-born chieftain on the Ivory Coast until he was ambushed and sold into slavery.

"Anyone can sing spirituals," says Roland Hayes, "if the approach is only right. For so many years my people have been thought of as being light-minded and light-footed, the 'song and dance' attitude. What is not always realized is that feeling runs deep among the Negroes, and religious conviction is a very real thing."

Tickets for the recital, sponsored by PSCA and the Citizen's Legislative Action Committee, are $1.50, including tax, and may be obtained at Student Union, Keeler's or the Corner Room.

LA Students to Elect Members for Council From 25 Candidates

Liberal Arts students will have a student council of their own, for the first time in campus history—if they turn out for the special elections to be held Thursday evening.

A total of 25 candidates, from which 20 will be elected, are to be placed in nomination for the election. Students may file their own names, or the names of other candidates in Room 132, Sparks Building, by 5 p. m. today. Of those names presented, the 25 having the highest All-College average for last semester will be officially listed as nominees.

The election will take place Thursday evening, at 7:30 p. m., in Room 121, Sparks Building.

Fred C. Abel to Manage Windcrest Cooperative; Sparks Heads Directors

Fred C. Abel has been named manager of the cooperative store to be operated in Windcrest. Howard Sparks, who is chairman of the cooperative's board of directors, will work with Mr. Abel in setting up rules and regulations. The store will be operated in the community hall.

Mr. Charles F. LeeDecker, assistant executive secretary of the College's institute of local government, and member of the board of directors of the State College cooperative, will act in an advisory capacity to the Windcrest cooperative board.

Excited Father Rushes To Critically Ill Daughter

An anxious and worried father—Roy Heidt, an Army Air Forces veteran of the Italian campaign and now a postgraduate education major at the College—rushed from his 4 o'clock class yesterday at the urgent summons of his brother-in-law to speed over the 60 miles that separates him from his critically ill daughter in Broad Top, Bedford County.

Little Suzanne, who will be two years old next month, is dying feverish on her bed, her mother and a physician by her side. She has pneumonia. With the crucial temperature of 106 degrees, she is given only a fighting chance to live.

The family doctor has administered sulfa drugs and penicillin to the diminutive pneumonia victim in a last attempt to bring her through the crisis.

The child showed the first symptom of illness last Sunday, during a visit with her mother and her veteran-father on the Campus. Given an ice cream cone, the child would not eat it. She suddenly developed a cough. Her forehead became warm. Taken home she was found to be running a temperature which led rapidly to a critical case of pneumonia.

Judge Grants Student Vote

Declaring that he has no other residence than State College, Edward Banyai, a student at the College, was granted permission to register to vote by Judge Ivan Walker in Bellefonte Monday.

Under the law stating that students in a community other than their own are not permitted to register in the community in which they are attending school, Banyai had been refused permission to register by the County election board in August.

Banyai appealed to the court saying that he had no other home and that he intended to continue using Centre County as his residence.

Judge Walker explained that the procedure was in no way a test case and that any such case in the future would have to be decided on its own merits.

Banyai, an ex-serviceman, had never been registered in any other community.

Phi Mu Alpha Elects

Phi Mu Alpha, music honorary, elected Frank Hess president at a recent meeting. Other officers named are Donald Lehrman, vice-president; Norman Walter, secretary-treasurer; George Winnett, historian; Prof. G. William Henninger, faculty adviser.

Defense Sees Galloway Case As Accidental

Evidence that death was accidental will be presented at the trial of John Edward Galloway, State College student charged with fatally shooting his wife in their trailer home at Windcrest early Saturday morning.

Furst and Furst, attorneys retained by Galloway, said in a statement today that they are convinced the bride's death was a "horrible accident."

"Upon the thorough development of the case in court," James C. Furst said, "the public will agree that our conclusions are correct."

The bill charging Galloway with homicide will be presented to the Centre County Grand Jury the week of Nov. 25, District Attorney Edward L. Willard said today.

If the jury returns a true bill, the case is scheduled to be tried in criminal court the week of Dec. 9.

Mr. Willard said that an inquest would be held next week when Coroner Charles Sheckler returns from a vacation trip.

Funeral services were held today at Nanticoke for Galloway's bride whom he married in State College 34 days before the shooting.

Galloway, being held without bail in the County jail at Bellefonte, has been "standing up well," it was reported by jail officials. He has been visited by his attorneys.

Football Tickets

Tickets are still available for the Fordham, Temple, and Pittsburgh football games. They are on sale at the A. A. Office window in Old Main at $3 per ticket.

'Dad' Dennis To Speak At AVC Meeting

William V. (Dad) Dennis, professor of rural sociology, will be guest speaker at the regular meeting of the American Veterans Committee tonight at 7:30 in Room 121 Sparks.

The chairman of the college chapter of AVC is urging all members and their friends to be present at this evening's meeting "not only to hear our guest speaker, but to listen to a detailed report of what was accomplished at the state constitutional convention last week."

Other matters to be considered at the gathering are final adoption of the local chapter's constitution and assigning of committees to work on the plans for the AVC Collegiate Conference to be held in State College November 24.
