NEW YORK—The biggest problem facing the Big Four foreign ministers, the Trieste issue, appears headed for a showdown battle today. And there are indications that Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov is determined to wage an all-out fight to bring the disputed Adriatic port into the Eastern European bloc.

CHICAGO—The Loop City has a squatters problem on its hands today. Attorneys are trying to figure out legal steps for evicting 14 or 15 families of war veterans from unrented units of a Chicago public housing project. The veterans seized the apartments Monday night, and now they're refusing to budge.

WASHINGTON — There's a possibility that the 16-day strike of Trans World Airline pilots may be ended in a matter of hours. This belief was expressed late yesterday by Federal Mediator Frank Douglass. Attorneys for both sides have rewritten the arbitration proposal and the airline says it is ready to sign the new form.

WASHINGTON—The government resumed its discussion of John L. Lewis's demands for the soft coal miners this morning. The talks were recessed over election day. An election day recess also was evident in the coal pits, where the miners stayed away from work by the tens of thousands.

New Thespian Show Opens Titled 'No Kick Coming'

There's "No Kick Coming", and no kick will be coming Thespians say when they open the doors of Schwab auditorium December 6 and 7 for their first musical show of the year.

There is a possibility that the show may run three days starting December 5, said Bud Mellot, production manager.

Marty Baum, singing veteran of last spring's show, will play the male lead, understudied by Pete Johnson. Jim Madenfort, a newcomer to the Thespian cast, has been cast in the second leading role.

The feminine leads will be play-

Cabinet Calls Pitt Holiday

A half-holiday has been declared for November 23, Pitt Weekend, by All-College Cabinet. According to College tradition, cabinet may choose one Saturday each fall to disband classes thereby giving students time to attend an away football game.

Making his first appointment of the year, Robert Foote, all-college president, named an advisory board to consult with him on issues of student interest. Four members were named from each party.

On the Campus-Key side are Julian Anderson, Lloyd Barkley, James Sheehan and Patricia Trestler. William Douglas, Richard Sarge, Russell Smiley and Barbara Wilson will represent Nittany-Independent.

Foote also announced the names of nine students who will serve on Forensic Council. The group will elect a chairman later. They are Harris Gilbert, Malcolm Goldstein,

'No Booths' Set For Soph Hop

Soph Hop, the semi-formal All-College dance sponsored by the Sophomore Class in Recreation Hall, Friday from 9 to 1 o'clock, will feature Ray McKinley, the singing-drumming leader, and his orchestra.

This Highlight of Houseparty Weekend, the first big dance of the 1946-47 college year, is being held on the eve of the football clash on New Beaver Field between Penn State's Nittany Lions and Temple University.

According to the Soph Hop committee there will be no booths in Rec Hall for the dance. Instead, fraternal and independent groups will be provided marked-off sections of the hall to be used as meeting places.

Decorations will be erected for Soph Hop on Thursday and Friday evenings—a tropical scene being the theme. A huge backdrop picturing a South Seas bay will be placed at the far end of Rec Hall.

Posters and a window display advertising the dance have been placed on the campus and in town under the supervision of Mary Magas, in charge of publicity.

Houseparty Weekend will feature a variety of college activities in the first big post-war Penn State weekend. Soph Hop, Player's Angel Street, Penn State-Temple football game, IMA Fun Night, and fraternity dances and parties provide a full schedule of recreation and entertainment.

Recreation Hall will be made as comfortable as possible for Soph Hop dancers, said co-chairmen Prutzman and Sarge. More dancing space will be available through the absence of booths, adequate ventilation is assured, seats will be provided, and refreshments will be served.

ed by Betsy Heagy, understudied by Laura Johnston, and Charlie Halpern, with Barbara Plumley and Prudy Roat as understudies. Both Miss Heagy and Miss Halpern appeared in the last Thespian show. The Three Stooges, Chuck Pflieger, Jim Mitchell, and Bud Mellot will appear in leading roles in the new show. Cast in supporting parts will be Portman/Paget, Jim Mulholland, Adele Yablon, Jim Calhoun, Bill McTurk, and Herb Rossman. Based on the Student Union theme, the book for "No Kick Coming" was written during the summer by members of Thespians.

Dr. Carl P. Schott received word from Miami officials of the difficulty in carrying out arrangements for the Miami-Penn State game because of our two Negro players.

Give A Long Hooray Frothy's Latest Is On Its Way

Somewhere people may be irate. And somewhere people may pout;

But there's plenty of joy at Penn State.

'Cause FROTH is coming out! Highlighting this weekend of housepartys and music by McKinley, the Soph Hop Issue of Froth goes on sale today.

In addition to a special "Letters from an Import" feature, The Foolish Gentlemen have packed this issue full of "hilarious" (so says the editor), "sensational" (so says the managing editor) features designed for top entertainment (so says the feature editor).

Among the "prizes" found behind the cover designed by Hymowitz, are: "The Tale of Unrah-Shend-Bheer," a chapter from the tales of X. G. Eye; "My First Date," information for those of you that are still waiting in anticipation; and "Pin Ball Mania," a critical study of Penn State's nickel-athletes.

Added to the above are the magazine's regular features: Mug & Jester, Wax Impressions, Round the Town in Style, the Women's Column, the Movie Column, and Campus Faces at places—Froth's double-page spread of photos.

Topping the mug, is the usual abundance of Froth-style cartoons and jokes.

Because of the continuing paper shortage, only a very limited number of copies, short of the

Glenn Releases Hunting Rules

Dr. Herbert Glenn, director of the College Health Service today released several reminders for students taking advantage of the present hunting season:

- 1. A shot gun fired at a few feet distance is still one of the deadliest weapons invented by man.
2. The front end of the gun is the one that is dangerous. Never point that end at anyone, even yourself, or anything you do not intend to kill.
3. Wear red clothes.
4. Shells are scarce and many old ones are being recovered from forgotten places in the home. Be sure the old shells are sound and of the same gauge as the gun. A blown breach may cause blindness and other serious injuries.
5. Open the action while crossing fences, traversing steep grades, when gathered in groups for rest, or the cigarette pause that refreshes.
6. Tetanus (Lock Jaw) may follow injuries in the field. Scratches on old barb wire fences are especially apt to cause trouble. Have a Tetanus injection many times too often rather than once neglected.

Miami Agrees To Cancel Game

The Pennsylvania State College and the University of Miami today agreed to cancellation of their football game scheduled for Miami November 29. Penn State officials indicated no effort would be made to fill the vacant date.

Dr. Carl P. Schott, dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics, said the action was in keeping with "the

Appointments for taking of individual pictures for the 1947 La Vie are on their way to seniors who expect to graduate by next June.

College Marks Armistice Day

Armistice Day will be observed at the College with brief ceremonies Monday morning, Ralph Dorn Hetzel, president revealed today.

Army and Navy ROTC trainees will form along the inner diagonal walks in front of Old Main, and the Blue Band will take a position near the flag pole.

Old Main bell will be tolled from 10:58 to 10:59 a.m., and one minute of silence will be observed following the tolling of the bell. At the end of the period of silence, taps will be sounded. The Blue Band then will play the national anthem, while military personnel will raise the flag from half mast.

The State College posts of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Society of the Purple Heart have been invited to send representatives to the ceremony.

Instructors have been asked to dismiss Army and Navy ROTC students and members of the Blue Band at 10:40 a.m. Eleven o'clock classes will not begin until 11:10 a.m. Heads of departments also have been asked to arrange for office personnel desiring to attend the ceremonies.

Gaslight in 'Angel Street' Produces Sixth Character

Only two nights of rehearsal remain before the Penn State Players present "Angel Street" in Schwab Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday—and still there's much to be accomplished.

Finishing touches must be added to most of the technical aspects of the production. Slight alterations will have to be made in the decoration of the set, actors' costumes and make-up will need perfecting, and stage lighting brought to the desired effect.

Next to the five actors and actresses in the play, the most important single thing in the production is the lighting. So great a part does it play, that it might be called a sixth character. Not only must the whitish-blue of the gas-policy of the College to compete only under circumstances which will permit the playing of any or all members of its athletic teams."

He explained that Miami officials advised him it would be difficult to carry out arrangements for the game if Penn State used its two colored players in the lineup. The Negroes, Wallace Triplett III and Dennie Hoggard, both of Philadelphia, are members of the Nittany Lion squad.

Dr. Schott's statement follows: "We recently advised the University of Miami that two colored boys are regular members of the Penn State football squad, and that it is the policy of the College to compete only under circumstances which will permit the playing of any or all members of its athletic teams. "The officials of the Miami school advised us that it would be difficult for them to carry out the arrangements for the game under these circumstances."

Triplett, who is playing on the varsity squad for the second year, early this season was shifted from ailback to wingback, and has been the team's offensive star in its last three games. Hoggard, reserve end and war veteran, returned to Penn State this fall and played in every game until he injured his thumb two weeks ago.
