

PSCA Sets $5,000 Goal For Finance Drive Moyer Leads 1946-47 Faculty Solicitors

Five thousand dollars was set as the goal for the 1946-47 student-faculty finance drive of the Penn State Christian Association at an official finance drive dinner meeting Thursday evening at the State College Hotel.

A ten-day period beginning November 17 was set aside for the drive. During this time all students, faculty and administrative personnel will be contacted for a voluntary contribution to the fiscal budget which has been in operation since July 1 of this year.

Dr. James Moyer of the department of educational psychology has been selected to head the faculty group of chairmen and solicitors, while Fred Kecker and Jo Anne Roraback are organizing the men and women students. Assisting the student chairmen are the following section leaders: Phyllis James, Patricia Kinkead, Jane Healy, Jean Hunger, Carolyn Currier, Gayle Gerhardt, Mark DelVecchio, Robert Drick, Ralph Harris, and Arthur Miller while leaders for Pollock Circle and Wind-

In a brief statement concerning the campaign, James Smith, General Secretary, said: "Since 1875 the PSCA, first in the form of the student YMCA and then with the addition of the YWCA, served the campus community until 1931 when a merger of the two student groups took place. Since that time hundreds of students have served on its committees or participated in its programs of religious, social and recreational interest for a 'Better Penn State.'

"I hope the students and faculty will share enthusiastically in the raising of this year's $13,500 budget. And for those who wish information concerning the areas of administration and program where last year's contributions were expended, an annual audit is available in 304 Old Main. In addition there will be information in the special Collegian Supplement on November 15."

College Offers Riding Curriculum; 4-Year Course Includes Training

"Penn State is the first college in the country to offer a complete curriculum in riding," according to Captain Gregory Gagarin, newly installed head of the curriculum at the College.

The School of Physical Education now offers a four year course in the breeding, riding, training, feeding and shoeing of horses. Also included in the program is veterinarian work. At the end of four years, all graduates will be qualified to instruct in these courses, said Captain Gagarin.

At the present time, there are not sufficient facilities to accommodate all of the applicants, who include not only those persons planning to enter this field, but also many students interested in learning how to ride.

Plans for enlargement are being made so that there will be room for more than 500 students. Included in the enlargement plans is an indoor riding hall, and larger stables. The School of Agriculture plans to breed light horses for the riding school's use.

There are three divisions of the riding class: elementary, intermediate and advanced. The elementary class studies position, walking, trotting, cantering, proper turns and a little jumping. The intermediate group follows through with more jumping and cross country riding. The advanced class learns difficult and cross country jumping and the training of horses. Captain Gagarin hopes that in the near future, the activities of this group will include a polo team and the sponsoring of horse shows. Anyone interested in taking the courses offered may see Captain Gagarin at the Penn State Riding Stables, below Winderest, and get further information.

Tickets Now On Sale For Hayes Concert

Tickets are now on sale for the Roland Hayes concert at Schwab Auditorium Thursday night.

Selling for $1.50 including tax, the tickets may be obtained at Student Union, Keeler's and the Corner Room.

Mr. Hayes will be giving his first concert on the campus after receiving rave reviews for his recital at Carnegie Hall in New York last week.

In reviewing the recital, The New York Times stated that, "His singing art is unique . . . he has every musical factor in superlative degree . . . profoundly sympathetic . . . large and unusually appreciative audience . . . his art is at its zenith."

The concert is sponsored by the Penn State Christian Association and the Citizen's Legislative Action Committee.

Bob Higgins and Andy Kerr are all even in their football coaching rivalry with four wins and one tie each. Although the 1946 victory gave Penn State a one-game edge over Colgate in the series. These two teams played only one game—a Lion victory in 1911—before Higgins and Kerr took command.

James Coogan to Speak About Paying Athletes, Movies, at CA Meeting

"The Pro's and Con's of Paying Athletes" will be the topic of Mr. James Coogan, assistant director of Public Information, when he speaks at the Penn State Christian Association meeting in 304 Old Main, at seven p. m., Tuesday evening.

In addition to this open forum a sound film entitled, "Football Thrills of 1945" will be shown. This meeting, chaired by Ann Dunaway, is open to all students and faculty, and will be followed with refreshments and dancing.

Artists Course Adds Enesco

Georges Enesco, Rumanian violinist, composer, and conductor, has been engaged for the Artists' Course series at the College. Dr. C. E. Marquardt, chairman of the committee, announced today. Enesco will appear on March 3.

Although Enesco is noted as one of the most famous living violinists and as a distinguished composer, he is especially well-known as an outstanding conductor, having frequently been the guest conductor of America's leading symphony orchestras.

Enesco's appearance in State College will not be his first. In 1937 he played on the Artists' Course program, accompanied by Charles Naegele, pianist. The following year he again appeared on the program.

When Yehudi Menuhin was here in 1944, the second part of his program consisted largely of Enesco's compositions. Before playing them, Menuhin spoke in glowing terms of his great teacher, Enesco.

Other numbers on the series this year will be Paul Robeson, Negro baritone and actor, December 9; Paul Draper, tap dancer, and Larry Adler, harmonica virtuoso, January 16; and the Rochester Civic Orchestra, April 10.

Home Ec Grad Student Receives $500 Fellowship

A $500 fellowship for graduate study has been awarded by the Phi Kappa Phi Honorary society to Sara T. Masurovsky, it was announced by D. L. Markle, secretary of the College chapter.

Miss Masurovsky graduated from the School of Home Economics in June 1946. She is now enrolled as a graduate student in Public Health Nutrition at Simmons College.

Hoffman Says All Counties Represented

Every county in Pennsylvania and 42 states are represented in Penn State's enrollment this semester, according to figures compiled by Registrar William S. Hoffman.

The survey included 7064 students on the campus and 131 men enrolled at the Pennsylvania State Forest School of Mont Alto.

The 1628 freshmen at State Teachers' Colleges and other co-operating colleges in the State, and the 1705 freshmen and sophomores attending the four undergraduate centers of the College, are not included in the survey.

Centre County leads with 748 students enrolled, but it was pointed out that many of these students are men and women who made State College their home when they first enrolled. Allegheny county has 582 students enrolled, and Philadelphia county lists 457. Luzerne, Montgomery, Blair and Delaware counties follow in that order.

Every state in the nation is represented on the campus this Fall except Arizona, Arkansas, Missouri, Nevada, North Dakota, and Oklahoma. Most of the states, however, are represented by only one or two students.

Wide Distribution It was explained that the wide geographic distribution this Fall resulted largely from the policy of the College to admit only veterans who had previously been enrolled here. Many of them were here for one or more semesters under the ASTP, NROTC, or V-12 programs and desired to return as civilians and get their degrees from Penn State.

For example, half of the 98 men presently enrolled in Navy ROTC, men who had taken training here while on active duty with the U.S. Navy, are out-of-state students.

Lowenfeld to Address Pre-medical Society

Dr. Viktor Lowenfeld, noted art education teacher and psychologist spoke to the Pre-Medical Society last night. This will be a return engagement for Dr. Lowenfeld who lectured to this same group earlier in the semester.

The title of the discourse will be "Art and Therapeutics," with the public invited to the talk.

Norman Halpern is president of the society. Other officers are Norman Brust, vice president; Joseph O'Tousa, treasurer, and Frank Franco, secretary.

IMA Discusses Effort To Open Dining Commons

Following a business meeting in 121 Sparks at 7 p. m. Monday night, members of the Independent Men's Association will meet with members of the Independent Women's Association for a social gathering.

IMA business will concern the effort to have the Sandwich Shop opened as a dining commons for men students, formulation of a dating code for independent houses, and intramural sports programs. President Eugene Fulmer asks that all men interested in any of these activities come to the meeting.

Robert Holtzinger Wins Borden Scholarship Fund

Robert Louis Holtzinger, seventh semester student in dairy husbandry, has been awarded the annual $300 Borden Scholarship. The recipient of this award must be a student in the School of Agriculture, who, upon entering his senior year of study, has achieved the highest average grade of all other similarly eligible students in all preceding college work.

Those students will be eligible for the award who have included in their curricula two or more dairy subjects.
