

ROLAND HAYES, tenor, who received praise reviews for his recital last week in Carnegie Hall, will present the same program tomorrow night in Schwab Auditorium. Tickets are now on sale at Student Union, Corner Room, and Keelers for $1.50 including tax.

La Vie Names Junior Staff

La Vie, Penn State's senior yearbook, has selected one senior and 27 junior students to its editorial staff, according to Seymour Rosenberg, editor.

Added to the senior staff is Lois T. Berriman, while the following will make up the junior editorial board: Frank R. Anderson, Barbara A. Blume, Jo Ann Brennan, Mary A. Conahan, Eleanor L. Fehnel, Marilyn A. Ferdinand.

Arne M. Hagy, Lois M. High, Barbara L. Jelen, Doris L. Kerick, Nancy J. Killam, Irene F. King, Annette M. Lanning, Lois M. Maloy, Harriet E. Morgan, Eloise M. Morris, Marjorie D. Mousley, Nancy L. Musser, Allen Ostar.

Donna Gutman, Jean A. Posey, Mary K. Rice, Stanton F. Roth, Jane N. Shoemaker, Louise E. Smith, Elizabeth R. Watts and Selma Zasofsky.

Further additions will be made to the junior staff by the senior board, Rosenberg added, while failure to do the assigned work by staff members will necessitate dropping them from both the senior and junior groups.

All students who are registered as sixth semester at the present, but who intend to graduate by June 1947, should contact members of La Vie in Room 412 Old Main any time after today, so that arrangements may be made for them to have senior photographs taken.

NEW YORK—The United States is welcoming with open arms a renewed Soviet offer to begin work on the question of solving the problem of world armament reduction. Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov said in a New York speech last night he thought America and Russia could get together on their proposals.

WASHINGTON—A Republican Senator Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska has called for removal of rent ceilings. Wherry says the best way to ease the housing shortage is by junking rent controls.

WASHINGTON—President Truman has apparently been unsuccessful in attempts to conciliate a clash between housing boss Wilson Wyatt and Reconstruction Finance Corporation head George Allen. The dispute involves $90,000,000 in loans to assembly-line home producers. After a conference today, both Wyatt and Allen said they were in no mood to smoke the peace pipe.

WASHINGTON—Massachusetts Representative Joseph Martin Jr. is asking for a 20% reduction in income taxes. Martin, a Republican, is scheduled to be the new Speaker of the House.

WASHINGTON—Some 10,000 OPA workers have been given 30-day notices. Approximately 12,000 more are slated to get the same news about November 30.

Fulmer Reports Dining Needs To Cabinet

Frank Tidona, president of Independent Student Committee, has been appointed by Robert Foote, all-college president, to serve with Eugene Fulmer and Frank Davis on a committee to further investigate possibilities for men's dining commons on campus.

Fulmer reported upon the meeting he and Davis had with Harold W. Loman, director of the College Dormitories and Dining Commons, saying that Mr. Loman is not convinced of the need for such a dining commons and would like to see figures proving the existence of a definite need.

Fulmer said that proposed solutions for the problems of a men's dining commons on campus, other than the already-suggested Sandwich Shop, were that men from the eastern part of town be permitted to eat at the Pollock Circle Dining Commons, and that another temporary dining commons be erected at the western end of campus.

The committee will investigate further into the matter and attempt to convince College officials that further eating facilities for men are needed on campus.

Cabinet agreed to accept the proposed committee compensations for the coming year.

A proposed amendment, namely, that any committee chairman be permitted to deprive any committee member of compensation if he thinks they have not earned it, was defeated.

Cabinet also agreed to accept the proposed list of persons to receive complimentary tickets for college functions.

Florence Ratchford reported on the College flag, for which a design was submitted last year. She said that President Ralph D. Het-

College Rejoices As Graham's Bench Reappears

It's Back! The Bench is back at its accustomed place in front of Graham's A. C.

Vanishing in the dark hours of last Friday night, The Bench provided the plot for a mystery story until it was recovered Monday morning. Its absence gave a new and unusual appearance to the front of Graham's store since the wooden bench which started as a wooden box has occupied that spot for half a century. Absence of the bench also prompted untold discomfort for those who used it as a repository for their posterior.

Robert Graham explained the return of the historic and much-missed bench by stating it was found on the lawn of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity house. Mr. Graham said it was impossible that the housing shortage over the houseparty weekend was so acute that the bench may have been used for emergency service.

The bench was found by Mr. Graham while delivering newspapers on campus. He was elated to discover the prominent off-campus tradition. Equally glad to see it back were the large number of students and faculty members who commented on the re-appearance of the well-worn lumber.

Wyand to Lead Discussion At Student Union Meeting

Student Union Committee will meet for the first time this semester in 10 Sparks at 7 o'clock Thursday evening to hear George S. Wyand, assistant to the president, discuss the progress the Student Union project has made to date.

All campus organizations are urged to send two representatives to the meeting, according to Lawrence G. Foster, chairman of the committee, so that they may keep their group informed and to offer suggestions from their organization.

An open discussion for suggestions and criticisms of the project will be held after Mr. Wyand's talk. All students who are interested in a Student Union building are urged to attend and present their ideas.

Prizes for the art projects on a Student Union theme will be awarded to the five winners as previously announced. Book awards will be given to Donald Horton, Robert Christensen, George Tilghman, Arthur Lilien, and William Whitby.

IRC Elects Officers; Sets Forth Purposes

The International Relations Club organized Monday night. Officers were elected and the purposes of the club were set forth.

Those elected to office were Dick Morgan, president; Theodore Lucas, vice-president, and Theresa Cohen, secretary-treasurer.

The purpose of the club is primarily that of a discussion group. During the year various speakers will lecture on the many international problems of today. After these lectures a group discussion will be held so that the students may offer their own opinions. The club will also undertake to participate in model United Nations Organizations which are sponsored by International Relations Clubs of various colleges throughout the country. It may also attend regional meetings of these type clubs and sessions of the United Nations Organizations.

Dr. Henry Janzen, who is the faculty advisor for the club, sponsored a similar type discussion group at Ohio State University, which he said turned out to be very successful.

The next meeting of the club will be held in 128 Sparks at 8 p. m. Monday.

Senate Votes To Reestablish Final Exams for Seniors

Men's Debate Opens Friday

Professor Joseph F. O'Brien's College Debate Squad initiates its season in a cross-examination debate with Mount Mercy College in 121 Sparks at 7:30 p. m. Friday. Having engaged only in inter-squad meets up until now, the team is anxious to engage in formal competition.

Annually, the debate team encounters representatives from Mount Mercy in a home and home series. Mount Mercy is a women's college, located in Pittsburgh, and the question to be argued should add interest to the male versus female debate.

To be contested, is this statement: "Resolved, that women should participate more fully in public life." Harris Gilbert and Eugene Fulmer will draw the starting assignments from Coach O'Brien.

Other meets scheduled within the next month are inter-collegiate debates with Allegheny College, Brooklyn College, and the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. An inter-team cross-examination debate has been slated for a forum at the William Sloane House in New York.

Engineers To Elect

Elections for the regular Engineering Student Council will be held Wednesday, November 20. Nominations were made by the interim council and additional nominations may be made at the time of voting. The ballot boxes will be open from 8:30 to 12 a. m. and 1:30 to 5 p. m. Voting will be supervised by the interim council.

Coroner's Jury Gives Galloway Verdict

A coroner's jury of six men returned a verdict that Katherine Diamond Galloway "met death October 26 by a gun shot wound" at the inquest held before Centre County Coroner Charles C. Shecker, of Milesburg, Monday night.

Three witnesses were called by District Attorney E. L. Willard. They were David E. Jones, who lived in the trailer, next to the Galloways at Windcrest; W. E. Hilbush, State College patrolman, and Dr. H. T. Dale, State College physician who was called to the scene.

Final examinations for graduating seniors will be reestablished beginning with the current semester, announced William S. Hoffman, secretary of the College Senate.

The Senate voted at its last meeting to require the senior examinations again, since the semester has been lengthened and the amount of time for finals will be extended.

Senior exams were eliminated during the period when the College was under the accelerated program. However, under the schedule which will be followed this semester, final examinations will be assigned the full period of eight days prescribed by the Senate of the College.

Mr. Ray V. Watkins, Scheduling Officer, will attempt to schedule final examinations for graduating seniors during the first five days of the period assigned. Grades will then be reported to the Office of the Registrar in sufficient time so that those seniors successfully passing their examinations will have their names included on the Commencement program.

Markswomen To Organize

Women desiring to join the Rifle Club will attend an organization meeting at the rifle range in White Hall at 7:00 p. m. Thursday night. Now in its 23rd year, the Rifle Club originated at the College when Miss Marie Haidt, head of women's physical education, and a topnotch markswoman herself, came here.

College women are as good marksmen as men, according to Miss Haidt. At least in the prone position, which is the only one used by women at the College. She pointed out that women's scores are not as high as men's in those positions which require greater strength—the sitting kneeling, and standing positions.

New members in the club are always instructed in the use of the sling, sighting, mat position, breathing, and the trigger squeeze before they are permitted to shoot the 22-caliber Winchesters used on the range.

During the past years, many excellent markswomen have developed their skills in the club with the help of Miss Haidt, who is the club's advisor. One of the finest of these is Lila Lehman, now doing post-graduate work at the College, who consistently shot perfect scores while she was a club member. Ann Baker, WIRA president, Dorothea Carson, Anita Geiger, Virginia Higgins, Marilyn Pomerene and Wanda Rickard are among the good markswomen in the club.

Approximately 100 women have been reporting to the organization meetings of the Rifle Club in recent years. Since a great number of them have consistently been freshmen, the group this year is expected to be a smaller one.

Ski Club Plans Party

The Penns Valley Ski Club members and their guests will get together for a dungaree party at the ski lodge Friday night at 8 p. m., Lewis Richardson, social chairman, announced today.

Chauncey Lang will be caller for the square dance and there will be games and refreshments in the first social gathering of the club this year. Mrs. Kalman J. DeJubasz and Marguete Little will have charge of the entertainment.

Collegian Meeting

Collegian candidates and reporters will meet in 8 Carnegie Hall at 7 o'clock tonight.
