

Truman To See Lion-Navy Game

Navy and Penn State, gridiron rivals since 1894, will tangle for the 23rd time when the Nittany Lions invade the Middies' home grounds at Annapolis, 2 p.m. tomorrow. President Harry S. Truman will attend the game as a guest of the Naval Academy.

Triumphant over the Lions for the last three years, the Midshipmen boast a series advantage of 13 wins to 7 for the Higginsmen. Navy won in 1944 by a 55 to 14 score and last year by a 28 to 0 count.

Although Navy has lost six straight tilts, beating only Villanova 7 to 0, they will be going into the ball game tomorrow as six and one-half point favorites.

Lion head coach Bob Higgins, after watching his charges go through their paces, is remaining cautious, refusing to predict the outcome of the game.

"Sure, Navy has lost six games and only won one," admits Higgins, "but they've been playing tough teams—and losing by bad breaks at that."

X-GI's Brave Superstition

Friday the thirteenth of December is the date chosen by the X-G.I. Club for the presentation of their free dance to all members of the club.

The X-G.I. Club now totals 500 veterans, according to Ralph Lewis, membership chairman. Only club members will be admitted to the dance.

A dance chairman will be selected by the club within the next week and a campus band will be booked to play. A theme appropriate to the date of the dance, Friday the thirteenth, will be selected by the committee.

Membership drive will be conducted by the X-G.I. Club to be concluded one week prior to the dance.

Band to Play At Smoker

Penn State's Blue Band will provide the music for a smoker to be held in the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore tonight. The smoker will be held for all Penn State alumni and students attending the Navy - Penn State game this Saturday. The Blue Band left for Baltimore at 10:30 this morning, traveling by both bus and train.

Saturday morning the "fast-steppers" travel to Annapolis for the game. With President Truman planning to attend, it is expected that the Navy band and the Blue Band will put on a spectacular show before the game and between the halves. Sunday morning the team will return to State.

The Blue Band makes its last appearance of the season a week from Saturday, when they travel to Pittsburgh for the Penn State-Pitt game. After their appearance in Pittsburgh, the marching unit will dissolve and a concert orchestra will be formed. The concert orchestra will be made up of all students, male and female. The time for tryouts will be announced in a future issue of Collegian.

COLLEGIAN MEETING

There will be a Collegian meeting for all members of the editorial staff at 8 Carnegie Hall, 4 p.m. today.

WASHINGTON — The House Republican Steering Committee laid out a drastic program for the next Congress. A score of party leaders met and agreed on a 20 per cent cut in individual income taxes, an eight-year limit on presidential terms and "constructive" labor legislation.

An off-the-record GOP source disclosed at the same time that the doors to Capitol Hill may be locked to Democratic Senator Theodore Bilbo when he gets back from Mississippi. This source—an influential Republican Senator—said the steering group decided to raise objections to Bilbo's taking the oath of office on January 3, the day the new Senate meets.

WASHINGTON—OPA stepped put its liquidation plans with an announcement that all 64 OPA district offices would shut down December 1. The price agency said it would trim its payroll more than half, from about 34,000 to not more than 15,600 by January 31.

WASHINGTON—The Civilian Production Administration threw out its low-cost clothing regulations. The CPA announcement said it was no longer possible to hold down clothing prices now that price controls have been abandoned.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. — The business of stabilizing the peace is making strides at Lake Success, New York. The United Nations Headquarters Committee voted 39 to 2 to narrow down the search for a permanent headquarters to four locations—New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Boston.

In the UN Trusteeship Committee, Panama's Foreign Minister sounded off against the list of possessions submitted by the United States. The Foreign Minister, Doctor Ricardo Alfaro, said the Panama Canal Zone does not belong to the United States and he demanded it be crossed off the American list.

Boro Bans Street Fires

Do not burn leaves in streets or alleys, it is against the borough laws, reminded borough manager Hugh B. Rice today.

Bonfires along the streets can be a serious fire and safety hazard. Leaves may be burned on the owner's property if proper caution is exercised.

Gleesingers Make Debut In Thespian Production

Something new! Thespian Gleesingers will make their first appearance December 6 at the opening of "No Kick Coming." Gleesingers are just what their name implies—a singing group of eight girls and eight men to provide choral backgrounds for some of the Thespian numbers.

The singers are the brain child of Ray Fortunato, Thespian music director, who will conduct them and arrange their music.

An Experiment

"This year the Gleesingers are an experiment," Fortunato said. "We expect to use this or a similar group in our next show, and if they seem successful, the Gleesingers will have a permanent part in all future Thespian productions."

Besides providing choral backgrounds behind soloists, the singers will appear as a group in the

Jazz lovers will take over Schwab Auditorium Monday night at 8 o'clock as the Common Sense Club plays host to Sidney Bechet with Art Hodes and his all-star combination in an informal session titled "Jazz at Schwab."

The first of its kind on campus, the program will present a long list of jazz perennials as well as requests from the audience. Intermission commentaries will be given by Hummel Fishburn and Frank Morris.

Solo numbers will be featured with Bechet on the soprano-sax, Hodes on the piano, "Baby" Dodds on drums, and Cecil Scott on clarinet as well as "jam sessions" with the entire group.

Hodes will introduce several of his own compositions for boogie-woogie that he has recently recorded. Also in the group are George Lugg, trombone, and "Pops" Foster, bass.

Bechet and Hodes will be interviewed at 4 o'clock Monday on WMAJ by Hugh Ridall, Froth jazz critic and one of the organizers of the affair.

Ridall stated that a few tickets are still on sale at Student Union, Book and Record Shop and the Music Room for $1 including tax.

Pollock Circle Council Submits Proposals

Urgent telegrams will be delivered directly to the dormitory rooms instead of being sent to the mail rooms, it was reported at the Council meeting of the Pollock Circle on Wednesday Night. There will be telegraph delivery service at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. daily for less important messages.

A list of suggestions for better meals and service in the dining hall was presented by Phillip Davis, council president and Edmund Koval, vice-president, to Miss Marie Falls, head dietician of the Pollock Circle. Miss Falls informed the officers that she would cooperate, but that as yet, there were no baking facilities for cakes and pies.

At the meeting was James Sheehan, senior class president. He informed the Council that he would introduce motions for the Circle at the All-College Cabinet.

Names for the dormitories have been chosen but will not go into effect until May 1, 1947. The halls will be named after students and alumni of the College who were killed in World War II.

William Wilson, council secretary, reported that the collection of the ten cent assessment of each resident student for recreational and general purposes will begin today.

Chapel Yale Professor Speaks Sunday

"Choose Life" is the title of the sermon to be given by Dr. Harford E. Luccock, professor of homiletics at Yale University Divinity School, who will be guest speaker for the Sunday morning chapel services at Schwab Auditorium, 11 a.m.

Dr. Luccock has also taught at Hartford Theological Seminary and was Registrar and instructor in the New Testament at Drew Theological Seminary. He was pastor at Windsor, Conn., and at St. Andrew's Church, New Haven.

For seven years, Dr. Luccock was editorial secretary of the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions. Afterwards he became contributing editor of the Christian Advocate. Dr. Luccock has been at Yale University since 1928.

Also an author, Dr. Luccock has written many books pertaining to religion. One of his most recent is "Contemporary American Literature and Religion."

Helen Camp Palmer of AP Speaks at Journalism Tea

Helen Camp Palmer, noted newspaperwoman and foreign correspondent, will be the alumni guest at a Sunday afternoon tea given by Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalism honorary, from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Mrs. Palmer, graduate of the Class of '40 and former women's editor of The Daily Collegian, specifically wishes to answer questions asked of her by the women journalism students who have been invited to the tea.

"Covering Europe for the Associated Press" is the topic of a lecture she will give to Journalism 1 and 2 students Monday at 11 a.m. At this time Mrs. Palmer will take over for one hour her former position as associate professor of journalism at the College.

Philadelphia Director After her graduation in 1940, the noted newspaperwoman worked as publicity director of the Philadelphia Dairy Council. Not long after this she did special feature work on the Pittsburgh Press. In 1943 she came to State College to assume editorship of the Centre Daily Times in place of William K. Ulerich, who was leaving for the armed forces.

The Associated Press in New York took her on as a reporter and feature writer in 1945. When the first GI's returned from Europe, Mrs. Palmer, then Miss Camp, wrote the feature story which won her favorable comment from Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and Kent Cooper, president of the Associated Press. She left for London immediately afterward.

Mrs. Palmer traveled throughout Central Europe and Scandinavia during the current year, stopping off in London on May 13 to marry George Palmer, Penn State graduate of '37. Her husband was previously radio-news bureau manager for the United Press in Harrisburg and after that a member of the staff of the Philadelphia Record. At the time he was a war correspondent for the Associated Press.

All women students in the department of journalism are urged to attend the tea, Lynette Lundquist, president of the local Theta Sigma Phi chapter, said today.
