Pat Patterson To Play for Harvest Ball

Pat Patterson and his 11-man orchestra with Molly Geise, vocalist, will provide the music for the Harvest Ball, an informal dance sponsored by the Agriculture Student Council in Recreation Hall, from 9 to 12 Saturday night.

Patterson will feature Huff Hull on the tenor saxophone and Sam Eyer on the drums. The music will be mostly slow and danceable with few vocals.

The orchestra played at the Zeta Beta Tau house during house-party weekend. It's also appearing at the X-GI and Blue Key dances next weekend.

Eugene Fulmer, chairman of the committee for the selection of the queen, has arranged for the pictures of the candidates to be placed in the Corner Room windows today through Saturday. The queen will receive a matching necklace and bracelet set and a bouquet of roses.

Tickets for the dance are now on sale at Student Union, according to F. Rudolph Brannaka, chairman of the ticket committee. A souvenir program will be given with each ticket which costs $2.00 per couple. Others on this committee are Richard Ely, Francis Tolan, Carl Widner, and Mary York.

Fifty gallons of cider and pretzels will be served as free refreshments. The bar will be decorated with red apples spelling out Cider Bar. The voting booth will be adorned with apples and corn and other decorations are a moon, crystal ball, colored spotlights, corn, and pumpkins. The outside entrance will be decorated with corn stalks.

College Faculty Salaries Discussed at AAUP Session

Salaries of the College Faculty staff were discussed at the monthly meeting of the Penn State chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

One of the largest turnouts of the year heard Prof. Leland S. Rhodes, president, open the meeting with the warning that if too low a salary schedule is maintained, the standards of an educational institution will go down. The College won't be able to bring in men as good as the men who are retiring if the same salary standards are adhered to, he said, adding that better money offers will draw them to other institutions.

A letter from President Ralph D. Hetzel to the faculty organization was read, wherein the president requested a definite recommendation from the AAUP on salary schedule. Preliminary action on this matter was taken at the meeting.

Prof. William L. Werner gave a detailed outline on salaries of Penn State professors compared with those of other colleges. Werner pointed out that while the cost of living has gone up 50 per cent, the College faculty members have been given a salary increase of only 20 per cent. He also disclosed the fact that the College ranks between 20th and 25th in faculty salaries of the nation's land grant colleges, with Penn State paying $1,000 less per year than professors receive in 15 leading colleges with which Penn State has to compete. The College is losing good men because of this fact, he declared.

A survey conducted among the College faculty showed that the average salary of instructors is $2,700; assistant professors $3,100; associate professors $3,700; and full professors $4,300, compared with the recommended proposal by the national AAUP of minimum salaries of $3,500 for assistant professors; $5,000 for associate professors; and $6,000 for full professors.

It was decided that an open meeting discussing the salary question will be held Dec. 17.

Colleges to Vie In Bridge Game

Entries for the first Intercollege Bridge Tournament to be held on a nation-wide scale are flowing in from all parts of the country, it was announced this week by Foster M. Coffin, director of Willard Straight Hall, Cornell University, and chairman of the Intercollege Bridge Tournament Committee.

Invitations were mailed two weeks ago to more than 300 colleges accredited by the Association of American Universities. The Tournament Committee is a group of alumni interested in developing bridge as an inter-collegiate sport in which men and women compete on an equal basis.

Twenty-nine states and 49 colleges are represented in the list of entries received to date.

The 1947 event will be a duplicate tournament for pairs of under-graduates. Each college will select a "varsity" team of eight—four pairs—by any method it chooses. These pairs will play a round by mail on the campus on February 12, 13 or 14. The results of this mail play will be scored, and the two highest pairs from each of the eight zones into which the United States has been divided will be invited to Chicago for face-to-face finals on April 18 and 19.

The expenses of bringing the finalists to and from Chicago, and

Hermann Quits IFC Job; Lloyd Lists Committee

Professor Burke M. Hermann has resigned his position as Inter-Fraternity Council faculty advisor, Fritz Lloyd, IFC president, said today.

Lloyd also pointed out that the IFC dating code drawn up this week was handled by a committee headed by John Watkins. Assisting Watkins were Robert Barber, Marshall Brown, Harry Crabbe and Wayne La Poe.

Mary Lou Waygood, WSGA president Lois App, judicial chairman, and F. F. Morris, AFC secretary, served as an advisory board.

X-GI's Book 'Algiers' In Schwab

The X-GI club's free showing of the popular film, "Algiers", featuring Charles Boyer, Hedy Lamarr, and Peter Lorre, will be held in Schwab Auditorium, instead of Sparks, at 7:15 and 9 o'clock tomorrow night. There will be two continuous showings. Doors will open at 7 o'clock.

Schwab Auditorium was booked by the club through arrangement with Theatians and the dramatic department and will accommodate a larger crowd than will 10 and 121 Sparks, according to Ralph Lewis, in charge of the X-GI movie program.

Admission to "Algiers" is free to the entire student body. Shows will be scheduled each Friday and Saturday night by the X-GI club with films of popular student appeal being presented.

"Jack London", the stirring saga of the famous writer-adventurer, starring Michael O'Shea, and Susan Hayward, has been booked for Saturday night in Schwab Auditorium. Short subjects and cartoons will be included in the movie programs.

Schwab Auditorium has recently been equipped with a new sound system which overcomes completely any acoustical difficulties of the auditorium, said Lewis.

Fliers to Take Old Main Pic

Sunday afternoon at three, weather permitting, two planes of the Penn State Flying Club will fly in formation over Old Main. They will be led by a cruiser from which a picture of Old Main flanked by the two planes will be taken. These pictures will later be sold to the student body by club members and at Student Union.

The club has purchased a new Taylorcraft which will be flown by Harold Hershey in the formation Sunday. Henry Myers, club president, will fly the group's Piper Cub, and George Peffall, treasurer, will lead in his own

Penn State Club Plans 'Snow Ball'

Robert Cristoff was appointed chairman for the annual Penn State Club New Years "Snowball" said Albert Lucas, club president, last night.

Plans for the dance were discussed at the regular meeting of the Penn State Club. Lucas reported that Jimmie Haidacher and his Rythmaires will provide the music. The dance will be informal, said Lucas, and admission will be $1.50 including tax.

The next meeting of the Penn State Club will be in 321 Old Main, at 7:00 p. m. Tuesday December 9.

X-GI's Scoff At Omens For Black Friday Dance

The number "thirteen" completely envelops the forthcoming "Watch Your Step" (13 letters) dance presented by the X-GI club in Rec Hall, Friday, December 13.

(Fred S. Barrouck 13 letters) is the general chairman. He was appointed by Theo M. Rozelsky (13 letters) of Sigma Phi Sigma (13 letters), president of the X-GI Club.

Music for "Watch Your Step" (that's right) will be provided by Pat B. Patterson (count 'em) and his orchestra.

"Watch Your Step" (uh huh) will be a dance sponsored by the X-GI club for its members. Admission will be by membership card only. Cards may be obtained by vets at the Student Union (only 12, darn it) desk in Old Main.

John Jay, Athlete, Explorer, Scholar, To Speak at Schwab

John Jay, noted athlete, photographer and scholar, will present his latest films when he speaks at Schwab Auditorium on January 13, according to Robert Dunlap, spokesman for the Penns Valley Ski Club.

Jay is a former member of the cast and production staff of the "March of Time," and won an "Oscar" for one of his technicolor pictures of ski-mountaineering in the Rockies back of Banff, Alberta, for Canadian Pacific Railway. Later, he went on an exploring expedition in the South American Andes and filmed the Inca ruins of Peru.

He was a Rhodes scholar on his way to Oxford when the European war interrupted his trip to England in 1941. He then enlisted in the Army as a private and worked his way up the ranks, producing numerous training films for the ski troops. He joined the 10th Mountain Infantry Division as a Second Lieutenant in intelligence.

Jay was a member of an eight-man team which, in testing cold weather equipment, was the first group to make a winter ascent of Mt. Rainer.

During his spare time, Jay and his wife traveled around the world making pictures of winter sports retreats and water skiing through the tropics. They took color pictures in far off places capturing the beauty and life of the Philippine Republic and Japan in trips up Luzon in a dugout canoe and excursions in the Japanese Islands.

Trailerite Bags Deer in 15 Minutes

With the deer hunting season well under way, campus nimrods are out early and late in hope of bagging some nice big buck. One Windcrest resident, though, did not have to wait long for success. He is Dwight King, who shot an eight-point buck approximately fifteen minutes after the season opened Monday at 7 a. m.

King got his deer about five miles west of State College, south of the Barrens. He expects the weight of the carcass, dressed, to be 120 to 125 pounds.

Another Windcrest resident, Elmer Sealover, shot a three-point buck Tuesday afternoon.

Engineer Adds Extra Photos

Five full pages of pictures will be featured in the Christmas issue of the Penn State Engineer, said Eileen J. Ershler, editor. Included in the photographs will be a campus scene, two pages of sports and social shots, and two pages of engineering students at work. The magazine will go on sale about December 20.

Staff members of the "Engineer" and their guests will attend a first annual Christmas dance at the Nittany Lion Inn Saturday night. Music for the semi-formal affair will be furnished by Nick Ghezzi, former Jack Teagarden guitarist, and his Nittany Octet.

WASHINGTON—The trial of John L. Lewis came to a roaring climax today—but the case is by no means settled—and there's still no immediate end in sight for the paralyzing soft coal strike.

There's no jail cell waiting for John L. Lewis, but the boss of the soft coal miners has been fined $10,000 in the historic contempt of court action.

That fine is only a drop in the bucket to the fine slapped onto the United Mine Workers union—$3,500,000.

The union will appeal to the Supreme Court. But meanwhile further contempt action can be taken in the Federal Court if Lewis does not call off the 14-day-old strike in the soft coal mines.

WASHINGTON—President Truman has announced the resignation of Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt. Observers in Washington say that Wyatt resigned because he was balked in his efforts to gain unlimited powers in pushing a housing-for-veterans program.

BERLIN—There are signs that a tremendous Russian demobilization and redeployment is going on in Eastern Germany. An indication of the number of troops Russia is sending home lies in the fact that Germans, not Russians, are now carrying out considerable patrol and guard duty at bridges and other strategic points.
