

Courtmen Seek 3rd Win Against Bucknell Tonight

Coach John Lawther's basketball team leaves today for Lewisburg where they hope to put the damper on Bucknell's hopes for a victory in the Bison's first game of the season.

The same starting quintet that has sparked the Lions to impressive wins over Susquehanna and Georgetown, will probably take the floor for Penn State tonight. Jack Biery—high scorer and offensive spark plug—and diminutive Milt Simon will team up on the forward line, while Captain Dave Hornstein will take his customary place at center. In the guard positions, Johnny Rusinko and Jim Lawther will fight it out with the Bisons for possession of the ball off the backboards.

Collegian today publishes a partial schedule of varsity sports event on the Winter calendar. Schedules for varsity swimming, gymnastics, ice hockey, fencing and skiing will be published as soon as they are released by the Athletic Office.

Bucknell, although untried so far this season, looms as a top contender for the Middle Atlantic Conference honors. And with three players topping the 6'3" mark, the home team will have a height advantage over the invading Nittany Lions.

Leading the Herd will be Lou Desci and Bob Williams. Desci was one of the standouts of last year's Harvard NCAA Tournament team, netting over 300 points for the Cantabs during the regular season and accounting for 20 alone in the NCAA meet. He picked up seven against Ohio State and added 13 the following night against NYU.

Although he played center for Harvard, Desci will place his 6'3" under the basket at guard against the Lions. Williams, 6'4", returns to the center post tonight for the Bisons. He was selected All-State at center in 1944-45 and last year led Bucknell's scoring parade with 231 points for the season.

Penn State opens its home basketball season Saturday when the Nittany Lions, unbeaten in their first two starts, face Washington and Jefferson on the Rec Hall courts at 7 p.m.

The third Bucknell starter who tops the 6-foot mark is Bill Hoeveler, 6'3" forward, who has played varsity basketball both at Temple and Bucknell.

Bison Coach Woody Ludwig will start little Frankie Haas—who scored 216 points for the Lewisburg quintet last season—at the other forward spot, and either Jim Seel or Gene Wilson at the remaining guard post.

Coach Lawther's bucketeers were trimming Susquehanna and Georgetown last week, Penn State's opponents were also inaugurating their 1946-47 season.

Colgate's Red Raiders knocked off Union 74-50 and followed up with a 51-24 victory over King's Point to get off to a flying start. Temple's Owls, sparked by several pre-war stars, squeezed by Muhlenberg 34-33 in a thriller in Convention Hall, after the Mules had trounced Moravian 67-47 in their opener.

West Virginia—rated one of the top teams in the East—found easy going against Fairmount Teachers, and won 85-45 for their first victory, but Pitt dropped their first game to Ohio State at Columbus 39-33 after rallying in the second half to go ahead 28-25.

American University also found the first week's going pretty rough.
