

Riflers Face Three Colleges In First Telegraphic Meet

East meets West when Penn State's markswomen compete with three other colleges in their first telegraphic match of the season tomorrow.

Penn State will match 50-foot range targets with Beaver College, University of Nevada, and Texas State College for Women, Wanda Rickard, president of the Rifle Club, said today.

Shooting with Miss Rickard for the College will be Lovetta Dinius, Joan Heath, Marian Johnson, Nancy Killam, Barbara Knoll, Jean Posey, Doris Ramsey, Betty Jane Sammons, Laura Wiley, Lois Wyman, and Laura Zekauskas. The 12 women had the highest target averages during the past week from the 20-woman varsity.

With 11 matches scheduled, this year's team will see the most competition since before the war, Miss Marie Haidt, club advisor, said. Many women's teams had been forced out of competition during the war when men took over their ranges, she explained.

Other matches scheduled for the team are:

- February 28—Ohio University
- March 1—Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, Drexel Institute
- March 7—University of Kansas, University of Michigan, University of Hawaii
- March 14—Massachusetts State College
- March 21—University of Wisconsin

Opposite Sex Invades Domestic Arts

Domestic arts are not confined to the weaker sex, according to Bob Horwitz, graduate student in animal husbandry, who wants to learn how to darn.

"When I was in the Army," he said, "I had big holes in my socks and never knew how to darn them. Now that I'm a civilian, I'm determined to learn how to darn."

Bob is fully equipped with wooden darning egg, needles and thread. The only fly in the ointment is that he accidentally bought silk stocking thread instead of darning yarn suitable for mending men's socks. When this fact was revealed to him, he insisted in keeping the thread "just in case." Which all goes to prove that in this modern age men may be darning their wives' socks—as well as their own.

Coeds Urged To Join Clubs

Women students are urged to take advantage of White Hall recreation facilities by joining one of the WRA clubs this semester, Miss Marie Haidt, head of women's physical education, said. Time and place where clubs meet are published daily in the Collegian calendar.

Girls need have no skill to join the clubs, Miss Haidt stressed. Expert instruction is furnished club members. Listed on the WRA roster this semester are badminton, bowling, fencing, outing, modern dance, rifle and swim clubs.

When club members become skilled they are eligible for such activities as aquacade, telegraphic intercollegiate meets, and dance concerts.

Erika Mann—The Dreamer

Erika Mann as a girl was not unlike many American girls—she dreamed of becoming an actress. She even studied acting under Max Reinhardt in Germany during the days of the Weimar Republic.

However, it soon became evident that her talents lay in another direction. Giving up her acting aspirations, she turned to playwriting and wrote "Peppermill," a satirical revue which quickly became popular in six countries including the United States.

Miss Mann the Author

Author of "School for Barbarians" and "The Lights Go Down" and co-author with her brother, Klaus Mann, of "Escape to Life" and "The Other Germany," Miss Mann has also contributed to The Atlantic monthly, Vogue, The Nation, Coronet, and Mademoiselle.

When the war in Europe ended, Miss Mann spent more than a year in occupied countries interviewing key people. She was Tony Pastor comes to Recreation Hall tonight directly from an engagement at the Click Theatre restaurant in Philadelphia. He brings with him his feminine vocal team, the Clooney Sisters, plus his brother, Stubby Pastor, in the trumpet section, and Henry Riggs, his drummer. Pastor is noted for his novelty arrangements and his vocals and sax numbers with the band. This is his first appearance at Penn State.

The Junior Prom committee includes Shrum as chairman, Albert Lentz, Lillian Milgrem, Aigie Ann Moser, Sam Neely, Eloise Rile, and Paul Rowland.

Class officers are Eugene Fulmer, president; Charles Willing, vice-president, and Jacque Zivic, secretary-treasurer.

Navy Surprises Favored Army; Upset Title Pretenders, 25-15

"Navy" nosed a surprised "Army" out of a closely contested all-college basketball title last night, 25-15, in what was to be the last game of the traditional 3-game Army-Navy finale to the basketball season.

Facing the strong Army team with a tie and a loss behind them and league high scorer Ann Baker on the court for Army, Navy ended the first quarter with a 4-3 lead, a 7-point margin at half-time, 14-15, and held the lead to the final whistle.

Peggy Shettel put the Navy out in front by hooping 13 points. Navy guarding combinations between Marjory Gamby, Captain Lovetta Dinius, Ann Fornbrook, Marian Memory, and Lee Ann Wagner held Miss Baker down to a game total of 3 points. WRA president Baker, had whipped up a 20-point game average in the intramurals.

The first Army-Navy game on Tuesday night tied up 20-20. Wednesday's contest was won by one basket, Army ahead 29-27.

The all-college titleholder will be decided in a post-series game at 8 o'clock Monday night, Claire Parks, WRA intramural chairman, said today.

Navy: Phyllis James, Sally Hostetter, Betty Vanderbeck, forwards; Ann Fornbrook, Marjory Gamby, Marian Memory, guards. Substitutions, Betty Jane Sammons, Betty Cook, Peggy Shettel, Lee Ann Wagner, Lovetta Dinius.

Army: Ann Baker Betty Brown, Barbara Knoll, forwards; Kathryn Bitner, Ann Dunaway, Susan Geiger, guards. Substitutions, Mary Failor, Jane McCormick, Claire Parks, Josephine Bihl, Hannie Ludwig.

Referees, Ann Jesnak, Mildred Lucy, Timekeeper, Elizabeth Widger; scorer, Pearl Stevenson.

See Nazi Masterfile

She was on the scene at the discovery of the Nazi Masterfile, a card index to all Nazi party members, one of the greatest finds of the war. She made an intensive study of Russian occupation methods as compared with those of the Americans and British.

As yet she has not fulfilled a cherished ambition to settle down and write fiction. "I've always known that some day I'd have to write a novel," she says. "It's too strong a family habit for me to escape it."

Library Lends One Book Per Student In January

Total circulation for the College Library during January was 24,085, according to a report by Willard P. Lewis, College librarian.

Of this number, 2,550 books were circulated to the faculty, 6,282 to students and 15,153 through reserve circulation. Total circulation since July 1, 1946, is 140,045 and the total number of books now in the Library is 274,226.

New books acquired by the Library during January total $22, with 514 books purchased, 301 received through donations and seven gained through exchange.
