

Three Teams Home; Runners At IC4-A's

Penn State and Temple—both undefeated—will meet in Rec Hall at 2 o'clock tomorrow to determine the eastern gymnastic league championship.

At 7 o'clock a powerful Navy wrestling squad meets the Lion grapplers who scored an upset victory over the Cadets last week.

The fighting mood that helped to beat Army last week, will prevail again when the Nittany Lion grapplers take to the mats at Rec Hall on Saturday to meet a favored Navy foe.

The Midshipmen, undefeated since Penn State beat them in 1942, will bring a veteran squad to Rec Hall that won the Eastern Intercollegiate last year. Coach Ray Schwartz's boys will attempt to make the Lions their thirty-seventh consecutive victim.

SCHAUTZ STARTER

George Schautz, undefeated since his first match of the season, will probably start at 121 pounds. One of the most improved matmen on the wrestling team, Schautz will get tough competition from George DeLong or Don McEvoy, both undefeated this year while wrestling for Navy.

In the 121 class, Coach Speidel will either use Vigilante or Shadley.

Jim Mohney, undefeated in two starts, will meet a newcomer, Weil, in an inter-class match to determine the starter at 136 pounds.

Ernie Closser, holding a record of five wins and one tie, will probably start at 145.

At 155, Coach Speidel will use either McIlvain or Wynn, while at 165, Long will probably be his choice.

Don McKeeby will battle Conrad in an inter-class match, to determine the starter at 175.

In the unlimited class, "Red" Moore will wrestle Chambers, who moved up from the 175-pound class, for the starting berth.

Penn State and Temple will fight it out for the eastern intercollegiate gymnastic league championship at Rec Hall, 2 o'clock tomorrow.

Both teams are undefeated this season, with the Lions claiming four victories and the Owls winning their five meets.

Captains Ray Sorensen and Ray Reiff will battle it out for top honors. Both gymnasts are mainstays of their teams.

DUEL

Reiff and Sorensen are slated for competition on the horizontal bar and flying rings. The Owl captain will also work the side horse event, with Sorensen participating on the parallel bars.

Rossi and Bonsall will complete the Lion entries for the high bar event, with Meade and Emery aiding Sorensen on the p-bars.

Billy Bonsall, undefeated in ring competition this season, will team with the Lion captain for that event.

Warrington won his first start on the side horse last week in Syracuse, and will have Clark and Greenley to form the Lion trio.

Joe Rossi, who tied the world's record for the rope climb with a 3.8 hoist against Army two weeks ago, will be out to better that mark against Temple.

COMPLETE TRIO

Stan Wirtschaffter and Gerald Eddy will complete the Lion list for the rope event.

The final event—tumbling—will feature Billy Meade, Bonsall and Timmy Petroff.

The Owls, always a contender for intercollegiate honors, will attempt to dump Penn State from the ranks of the unbeaten.

The Nittany squad dumped Army in Rec Hall two weeks ago with ease, winning by a 66-30 score, while the Owls have been able to win over the Cadets by no more than four points in each of their two meets this year.

Cagers, Georgetown In Last Home Game

Penn State's basketball team rings down the curtain on the home season tomorrow night when the Lions face Georgetown on the Rec Hall court at 8:30.

The Hoya quintet—after a slow start—has won eight out of its last ten games in a belated bid for national recognition. Georgetown's season record at present is 14 wins as against six defeats.

The first game between the two teams this year went to the Nittany Lions 40-37 as they capitalized on a last-minute rally.

Coming to Rec Hall after a game tonight with unbeaten Duquesne, Georgetown boasts a prominent candidate for All-American honors this year in Captain Danny Kraus. Although not a high scorer, the Hoya guard is the steadying force and play-maker for the Washington five.

Ray Corley will probably start at the other guard position for the visitors. Corley, who played under Coach Elmer Ripley at Notre Dame last year, broke his wrist early in the season but has recently returned to the line-up.

KOSTECKA STARTER

Probable starter at the center post is Andy KostECKA, 6' 3", who tallied 13 points against the Lions in the first game. Eddie Brembs and Tom O'Keefe are good guesses for the forward spots.

Up to tonight's game with Duquesne, Georgetown has a victory string of three straight, beating King's Point 52-36 the last time out.

STARTING FIVE

To meet the Georgetown threat, Coach Lawther will in all probability rely upon his usual starting five. Johnny Rusinko and Jim Lawther will be at guards, Bruce Dietterick at center, and Jack Biery and Milt Simon in the forward spots.

Outlook Bright For Nittany Lion Runners

Coach Chick Werner left for the IC4-A meet in New York this morning with a 14-man track squad and the brightest outlook Penn State has had upon entering the event since the Nittany runners took the title in 1942.

Werner has chosen Curt Stone, NAAU 3-mile champion, for the 2-mile event. Gerry Karver will go the mile distance, and compete in the 2-mile relay.

Shuman and Williams, also members of the 2-mile relay squad, are running the 1000. Ashenfelter, the remaining man on the relay team, will be Karver's running companion in the mile.

Robinson, Hoggard and Dudek are entered in the 60-yard dash, while Gray does the longer 600-yard trail.

Broad-jumpers Hoggard and Pearson, will be acting in that capacity, while the latter also joins Krug and Moyer in the shot put event.

The high hurdle event will see Nittany specialist Brown performing, as well as the pole vault event in which he and Willing have been competing.

Forty schools are entered in the event in which New York papers have picked NYU and Manhattan as favorites.

For individual honors Curt Stone has received the nod in the two-mile race, while Karver has been picked for a third or fourth in the mile distance.

But despite the New York predictions, Coach Werner is confident that besides Stone and Karver, Shuman, Williams, Ashenfelter, and new-comer Robinson are set to place.

He has lauded the team for the exceptional way it has shaped up in practice sessions this week, and despite the fact that the competition will be as good and possibly better than in 1942, his runners will be in the running.

Only three times in Penn State football history has grid team leadership been placed in the hands of co-captains. The 1947 choices, first co-captains since 1937, are John Potoskan and John Nolan.

Skaters Travel to D. C.

The traveling Penn State ice hockey team leaves Monday for Washington, D. C., for the final game of the season when it tangles with Georgetown at the Lyceum Arena that evening. The skaters will be out for their first win of the season.

Mitt Finale At Michigan

Leo Houck's Lion boxers meet Michigan State tomorrow night in the final dual meet of the season.

The bouts, which will precede the Michigan-Michigan State basketball game, are slated to draw a crowd of 10,000 fans. Both teams appear to be evenly matched.

Houck indicated last night that he will use the same lineup that faced Wisconsin last week with the exception of Jim Cassidy at 145 pounds. Nick Ranieri may replace Pat Conlon at 175 pounds.

The Spartans have defeated Georgetown 7-1, while losing to Syracuse 6-2, and Virginia, 4 1/2-3 1/2.

Six ex-servicemen are bearing the brunt of the basketball burden this season. The heavy duty veterans are Dave Hornstein, Jack Biery, Milt Simon, Jim Lawther, John Rusinko and Bruce Dietterick.
